Lo, the Poor Broker.
R Brings the Oyster.
Hall Caine Is Gone.
Brave, Patient China.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

YESTERDAY IN Wall street reminded brokers of the "old cat dying out." Total sales of stock were 500,000 shares. The previous day they were 700,000.

Unhappy traders, remembering the good old 5,000,000-share days, with exchange seats selling above half a million, were reminded of Macaulay's "Traveler from New Zealand, in the midst of a vast solitude, on a broken arch of London Bridge, sketching the ruins of St. Paul's."

SEPTEMBER, with its "r," brings back the oysters and to many that line is more beautiful than Sappho's about the evening that brings back the child to its mother.

Somebody said the man who first ate an oyster was brave. He is unwise who doesn't eat them now, with their value in food, vitamins and easy digestion so well established.

As important as food and esthetic value of the oyster, according to William H. Raye, of the General Foods Corporation, is the fact that the oyster season opening provides employment for 40,000 additional men. That is welcome.

THIS YEAR the United States' oyster crop will be about 18,000,000 bushels, and by 1933, according to Mr. Raye, "the yield will be stepped up to more than 20,000,000 bushels."

The female oyster never heard of birth control, and lays millions of eggs at a time.

Big business is co-operating with her, to make those eggs survive to appear on the half-shell and otherwise. Thanks to modern refrigeration, "quick-freezing," and other methods, the oyster is delivered everywhere in prime condition. And, thanks to the prolific mother oyster, with proper care, the crop need never be less.

SIR HALL CAINE'S death emphasizes the shifting of critical standards. When Cosmopolitan Magazine, shortly after W. R. Hearst bought it, published Hall Caine's "The Woman Thou Gavest Me," the Rev. Dr. Parkhurst, while admiring Hall Caine's genius, said the story wasn't for family reading.

And Ella Wheeler Wilcox, writing in the New York Evening Journal, as Dr. Parkhurst had done, said that not to read "The Woman Thou Gavest Me" was to remain needlessly ignorant. Cosmopolitan's circulation increased.

Now, Hall Caine and Ella Wheeler Wilcox are together, and perhaps talking about that very mild novel.

AN AMERICAN from China admires "the Chinese dogged patience and courage even in terrific floods that have made 30,000,000 homeless, 15,000,000 destitute."

It seems strange that after five thousand years of civilization, China has not learned to control the Yang-Tse and other great rivers.

Then we remember humbly that with all our machinery and money, we haven't learned to control the Mississippi.

Machinery will do it eventually, however, and as the late William Boyce Thompson predicted, will store up surplus flood waters in some inland sea, saving them for use in drought.

THE AMERICAN Chemical Society gathered at Buffalo, N. Y., is told by Professors Smyth, of Princeton; Andrews, of Johns Hopkins, and Drury, of Columbia University that with the radio, men can hear the "dance of the finite," in other words, the noise made by molecules and atoms as they move mysteriously.

Each atom "sings its own melody and dances its own individual dance." The ancients talked of the "music of the spheres," meaning music produced by the rolling stars.

MAN MAY become a complex animal, one ear listening to atoms, with the other to suns a million million times as big as the earth; one eye studying infinity through the telescope, the other the finite "infra-world" through the microscope.

At the same time both ears and both eyes will tell him what is going on in his neighborhood.

All interesting, but you hardly have time for it these depression days.

WHILE GANDHI is on his way to Europe, with a hand loom, two goats and a loin cloth, to which he has added a home-spun blanket to keep off the ocean's winds, Hindus kill a Mohammedan policeman and Mohammedans burn Hindu shops.

The Hindu eats pork. The Mohammedan hates him for that, as much as the Hindu hates the Mohammedan for eating beef.

To make a strong nation out of 300,000,000 with whom religious hatred is the strongest emotion, is Gandhi's difficult task.

UNCLE SAM offered $800,000,000 worth of bonds running 20 years at 3 per cent and $300,000,000 in short time certificates at 1½ per cent. Both issues will be heavily oversubscribed, and the bonds may go to a premium.

People are not yet worried about the fact that Uncle Sam is living beyond his means.

300 Students Strike as Board Cuts Carfare Aid

☆ ☆ ☆ ☆ ☆ ☆ ☆ ☆ ☆ ☆ ☆ ☆

U. S. LINKS 'BLUEBEARD' TO DOPE RING

METRO AREA POPULATION 1,930,111

Greater City's Total, Fixed by U. S. Census, Excludes Eight Townships

Pittsburgh's Metropolitan Area contains a population of 1,930,111 with an area of 1,517 square miles, the United States Bureau of Census disclosed today in a letter to the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce.

For the entire area the average population is 1,271 per square mile, while in Pittsburgh proper the density is 13,056 per square mile.

C. OF C. METRO AREA

The proposed Metropolitan area as mapped by the Chamber of Commerce embraced portions of three states, containing 4,043 miles and population of 2,203,000 with a density of population of 544 per square mile, according to the 1930 census figures. It included such cities as Wellsburg, East Liverpool and Steubenville in Ohio; Beaver Falls, New Castle, Butler, Kittanning, Indiana, Uniontown, Greensburg, Waynesburg and Washington in this state. Brooke and Hancock counties in West Virginia, and Jefferson and Columbiana counties in Ohio, with nearby counties in Pennsylvania, were included.

The newly-defined metropolitan area does not include all of Allegheny County. The townships of Fawn, Findley, Franklin, Marshall, Moon, North Fayette, Richland and Sewickley and the Borough of Bradford Woods are left out.

To the southwest the district includes several townships in Washington County as well as the city of Washington. Other townships in Washington County along the Monongahela River to the southern boundary of the county are also included.

The townships along the Monongahela River in Fayette County to Masontown and back to and including Uniontown are now put into the Pittsburgh Metropolitan Area by the Census Bureau, as well as many townships in Westmoreland County eastward to and including the Borough of Latrobe.

Beaver County territory now included in the Pittsburgh Metropolitan Area comprises the township of Harmony and the boroughs of Aliquippa, Ambridge, Baden and South Heights.

The metropolitan area covers 1,517.73 square miles, which is more than the area of the entire state of Rhode Island (1,067 square miles). For the entire area the average population density is 1,271.7 per square mile.

In the City of Pittsburgh the density is 13,056.9 per square mile; while considering territory and population outside the city limits, the density of population is 859.4 per square mile.

Additional data received by H. W. Correll, the Chamber of Commerce statistician, show that of the total city population 91.7 per cent is white. Native whites equal 75.4 per cent of the population and foreign-born whites 16.3 per cent, with 8.2 per cent Negro.

Considering the population over 21 years of age, it is learned that 25.1 per cent are foreign-born. Of the foreign-born, 17.7 per cent have become naturalized, 1.8 per cent have taken first papers, and 5.1 per cent, or 21,010, are alien.

300 PUPILS HERE ON STRIKE

Lincoln Place and Hays Students Fight Board's Reduction in Carfare Aid

Approximately 300 school children from the Hays and Lincoln Place districts, attending the Gladstone Junior High and Taylor Allderdice High Schools, went on strike today in protest of the board of Public Education's recent ruling that only one-way street car fares would be furnished them.

When the districts were annexed to the city, the higher grades of their school system were transferred to Gladstone and Taylor Allderdice, the board paying the fares needed for transportation each day.

During the past summer, the board ruled that it would pay only the one-way fares, the return cost being thrown upon the pupils.

LEAVE CARS

This morning, hundreds of children started from the districts to the two schools. Halfway, the conductor of the special school cars attempted to collect their fares.

Instructed previously by their parents, who had held a protest meeting in Hays School last night, the children refused to pay and left the cars.

John W. Anthony, principal of the Gladstone School, said he was unable to estimate how many pupils had been withdrawn from his classes.

Parents, however, estimated about 175 were absent at that school and between 100 and 125 at Taylor Allderdice.

STATE LAW CITED

"We will not send our children back to school until the Board of Education complies with the state law. They are required to furnish transportation for pupils living more than a mile and a half from their schools and until they do this we absolutely will not send our children back."

At the Board of Public Education offices this morning, officials said that the transportation ruling worked no more hardship on Hays and Lincoln Place pupils than it did in dozens of other school districts, all of which were affected by the decision.

Chief Federal Drug Agent Starts Clarksburg Probe As Raids Reveal Traffic

By AL GOUGH
Staff Correspondent.

(Copyright, 1931, by Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph and the International News Service.)

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., Sept. 2.—Belief that drugs played a prominent part in the ghastly career of Harry F. Powers, alias Cornelius Pierson, alleged love racketeer slayer of two women and three children, caused the federal government today to launch an investigation here.

Leaving the capital secretly and in haste, the chief agent in charge of the division of narcotics in Washington, T. E. Middlebrooks and an assistant, arrived in Clarksburg at noon today to take part in the investigation which centered around the Broad Oak residence of the mail order Romeo, his wife, Mrs. Luella Strother Powers, and spinster sister-in-law, Eva Bell Strother.

WIFE AGAINST HIM

Her love apparently turned to hate, police say, Mrs. Luella Strothers Powers, wife of the alleged slayer, today bitterly denounced him when she was questioned by Chief of Police Clarence Duckworth. Duckworth quoted her as saying:

"He has betrayed both myself and my sister. I would not have Harry loose for $100,000,000."

Up to this morning Mrs. Powers maintained that she still loved Powers and would "stick by him until the end."

The divisional chief was ordered to Clarksburg by Harold Anslinger, commissioner of narcotics, who last night received a telephone report of conditions here from the resident agent, Commodore D. Fortner, who said he believed Powers was a user of heroin, a powerful drug which induces violent reactions.

DOPE RING UNCOVERED

The agent declared his belief that only a user of such a drug or a violently insane person could

CANNING PLANT TO AID POOR

A complete canning factory will be placed in operation Monday, occupying half a city block, at 210 Spring Garden avenue, to can the surplus farm products of the Pittsburgh district for the use of the poor during the coming winter.

The entire factory has been donated for the season by the owners and complete equipment has been assured by the heads of leading canning companies. Solicitation has already been started for fruits, vegetables, sugar, spices and cans.

The work will be carried on by the Surplus for the Needy Committee, headed by Attorney Harry I. Miller and the Rev. Alexander Gibson. Where farmers have surplus crops in the field, men will be marshalled from the Helping Hand to bring in the harvest.

The cannery of the former Lee Chataway, Jacobs plant. All of the equipment in it has been donated by Jacob Horne, Samuel Levine and Max Hollander, who recently purchased it from a receiver. Irwin Falck, president of the Falck Soap Company, owner of the building, is donating the use of it for the season.

Experienced canners will operate the plant. It will be handled under the direction of Frank Schlesman, of Lutz and Schram, and Allan Cruikshank, of the Cruickshank Company. The American Can Company through Howard H. Lowrie has promised to donate any extra equipment required.

Special Session of Congress Urged by Democratic Chief

By RAYMOND I. BORST
International News Service.

ABANY, N. Y., Sept. 2.—A resolution requesting President Hoover to convene a special session of Congress to enact the plan suggested by William Randolph Hearst for a $5,000,000,000 prosperity loan, was introduced in the New York State Senate today.

When Senator John J. Dunnigan, Democratic leader, offered the resolution and read a statement praising the plan, Senator George R. Fearon, Republican chief, asked Lieut. Gov. Herbert H. Lehman if he felt the proposal came within the purview of Gov. Roosevelt's unemployment message. Col. Lehman replied:

"I most certainly consider that clearly within the purview of the Governor's message."

Earlier in the assembly, Speaker Joseph A. McGinnies, Republican boss of the lower house, had prevented Assemblyman Steingut, Democratic leader, from offering a similar resolution.

McGinnies ruled that it did not come within the purview of the Governor's unemployment message, and then Steingut announced he would introduce the proposal in the form of a bill.

Thomas Urges Congress Vote on Relief Loan

NEW YORK, Sept. 2.—(Universal)—Declaring that the proposal made by William Randolph Hearst for a government loan of $5,000,000,000 to aid industry, had the approval of public opinion, irrespective of party lines, Norman Thomas, noted Socialist leader, today wrote to President Hoover, urging him to call a special session of Congress to vote the loan.

In his letter to the President, Thomas said that appeals to private charities were woefully inadequate to meet the present situation. He insisted that this form of help gave relief work the character of charity and the so-called dole.

Thomas, choosing to call the proposed emergency bond issue a $5,000,000,000 hunger loan, offered the suggestion that it could be repaid from increased taxation on the higher incomes of the country.

Mrs. Crawford, Pittsburgh social leader, to whom a baby daughter was born while speeding on a train from White Sulphur Springs to New York.

Stork Visits Woman on Train

The stork overtook a train carrying Mrs. George W. Crawford, of Woodland road, Pittsburgh society woman, from White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., to New York, yesterday, according to word received by friends here.

Mrs. Crawford and her newly-born daughter were in a New York hospital today, both reported doing well.

Mr. and Mrs. Crawford had spent the summer at the West Virginia resort and were well on their way to New York when a physician was summoned on board.

Mrs. Crawford was a St. Louis girl prior to her marriage four years ago. Mr. Crawford is chairman of the board of the Columbia Gas & Electric Corporation, with offices in the Union Trust building.

Marooned on Island, Three Without Food

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—(AP)—Coast Guard officers at San Diego were instructed today by Coast Guard headquarters to do all they could to rescue three American citizens on Guadalupe Island, a Mexican possession about 120 miles off the Southern California coast.

Mrs. J. A. Woodcock appealed to the San Diego station to rescue her husband, Orville Lindsay and a Mrs. Bradshaw who, she said, were marooned on the island and out of food.

Queen Marie Ill, Faces Operation

BUDAPEST, Sept. 2.—(INS.)—Queen Marie, of Rumania, mother of King Carol, is suffering from a grave illness and will have to undergo a serious operation, it was reported on reliable authority here today.

Court physicians who examined the Dowager Queen advised a strict course of treatment to enable her to gain strength before the operation is performed. If the operation fails, the reports said, the physicians give the Queen only one year to live.

Carol Reported Seeking Hand of Italian Princess

BELGRADE, Sept. 2.—(AP.)—King Carol of Rumania is reported to be seeking the hand in marriage of Princess Maria Francesca, second daughter of King Emanuel of Italy.

Court circles in Bucharest say that M. Manoilescu, a former cabinet member and personal friend of the King, will visit Rome on a vacation soon and will ask Emanuel to consent to the betrothal.

Princess Maria, 17, has been mentioned as the fiancee of Arch Duke Otto, pretender to the throne of Austria, but the rumor has been denied. King Carol was divorced by Queen Helen during his lengthy absence from Rumania, but the Rumanian Holy Synod annuled the decree after his return.

REGISTRATION KEY TO TREND

By MARK SHIELDS

Results of registration tomorrow, the first of the three days for enrollment for the county primary, will be scanned by political experts, particularly in the independent wards, for probable estimates on the size of the vote and the trend of public opinion toward the various candidacies.

The machine wards, where assessments have been heaviest, and where phantoms are expertly brigaded to the polls by the bosses, are not expected to show as heavy a proportionate registration on the first day as are the independent sections. The practice in the controlled wards is to hold back registration until the last two days, then rush the phan-

Airman Delivers Anthrax Anti-Toxin

CHICAGO, Sept. 2.—(AP.)—A fast plane from Detroit landed at the municipal airport early today with a supply of anti-toxin for William R. Murphy, a patrolman, who is critically ill with anthrax.

Murphy's fellow - policemen chipped in a $150 fund to hire the fast plane when they discovered late yesterday the local supply of anti-toxin was exhausted.

Vallee's Bride Begins Trip to California

NEW YORK, Sept. 2.—(AP.)—Mrs. Rudy Vallee was on her way to Santa Monica, Cal., today, to visit her parents, Police Chief and Mrs. C. E. Webb, for six weeks. Rudy said detectives would not watch the train, despite the warning received by police that two men had been overheard plotting to kidnap Rudy or his bride.

PARKS BEATEN IN AMATEUR

BEVERLY COUNTRY CLUB, CHICAGO, Sept. 2.—Samuel M. Parks, Jr., of the University of Pittsburgh and the Highland Country Club, the only Pittsburgh district entrant to survive the qualifying test, was eliminated in the first round of the National Amateur golf tournament here today.

George Voigt, Johnny Goodman and Charles Seaver, title favorites also were eliminated in the first round. Voigt lost to Richard Martin, 2 and 1; Goodman was put out by Billy Howell, 2 and 1, and Seaver bowed to Ducky Yates, 1 up, in a thrilling match.

Cleveland Firm Low Pymatuning Bidder

HARRISBURG, Sept. 2.—(AP.)—C. R. Cummins, Inc., of Cleveland, with a bid of $339,567, was low bidder for construction of Pymatuning Dam in Crawford County, the State Water Power and Resources Board announced today. Bids were received yesterday from 30 firms and individuals.

The next two low bidders were the Arundel Corporation, Baltimore, $339,986, and H. E. Culbertson & Co., Cleveland, $359,745.

Great Moscow Cathedral Blown Up in Soviet Rite

LONDON, Sept. 2.—(INS.)—The great cathedral at Moscow, one of the most historic edifices in Russia, was blown up by the Soviet authorities with appropriate ceremonies today to make room for a new Soviet development, it was stated in an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Berlin.

On the site will be built "the Palace of the Grand Plan," commemorating successful completion of the five-year plan.

ITALY AND VATICAN ANNOUNCE SETTLEMENT OF DISPUTE

CATHOLIC CLUBS RESTORED BY TRUCE

Both Sides Yield to Reach Compromise; Societies Restricted to Religion

By GUGLIELMO EMANUEL
International News Service

ROME, Sept. 2.—The serious controversy between the Italian government and the Vatican over activities of the Azione Cattolica, the nation-wide organization of Catholic youth, was ended today with official announcement of a formal agreement covering all points of the dispute.

The announcement made simultaneously by the Quirinal and the Vatican represented compromises on both sides and was hailed as definitely ending the quarrel that at one time threatened a hopeless breach in relations between church and state.

THREE CHIEF POINTS

The accord was based upon three chief points and becomes effective immediately. The text of the agreement follows:

"The Vatican and the Italian government have reached an accord on the following terms concerning dissolution of juvenile clubs belonging to the Azione Cattolica and the general activities of the Azione Cattolica.

"1—The Azione is to be an organization essentially diocesan, depending directly upon the bishops, who will nominate all officials, both laymen and clergymen.

"2—Individuals who previously belonged to political parties contrary to the Fascist regime are forbidden nomination to official positions in the Azione Cattolica.

STRICTLY RELIGIOUS

"3—The Azione must be strictly religious, not participating in politics, and organizations connected with it must also refrain from political activity.

"The Azione Cattolica's future program must not include formation of associations of a professional character, such as workmens' syndicates. The professional section of the Azione Cattolica already existing under the law of April 3, 1926, must have strictly religious and spiritual aims and support Fascist syndicates to enable better unity and collaboration of all classes."

JUVENILE CLUBS

Point three was as follows:

"Juvenile clubs belonging to Azione Cattolica will be called Azione Juvenile Association of Azione Cattolica, and will be allowed their own badges and cards strictly corresponding to religious aims. Their flag must be the Italian national emblem, but they will be allowed religious banners.

"Clubs must refrain from sporting activities, and organize entertainments of an educational and amusement character only, and always with religious aims."

WON'T RESIGN SEAT, ASSERTS M'DONALD

Replies to Labor's Demand That He Quit Commons; Says Panic Was Averted

LONDON, Sept. 2.—(AP)—Premier Ramsay MacDonald informed his Seaham constituents today that he proposes to retain his parliamentary seat for that constituency at least until he has concluded his task of setting British finances to rights.

In the course of a letter to the Seaham Labor Party, which had demanded his resignation, Mr. MacDonald said:

"Any action I may take in response to any resolution passed will be only after I have finished the duty which I am now undertaking and not before.

REGRETS LABOR STAND

"I regret very much that without knowing any of the facts Seaham Harbor's deputies have passed the resolution which you have communicated. However great the misunderstandings may be and however much superficial observers may consider that my immediate colleagues and I have departed from our principles, our position has been dictated by the determination to keep standards of living, unemployment pay and such like at the maximum possible.

"If you are discussing these things now free of collapse and panic, you owe this solely to my colleagues and myself who took the action which we did last week."

YORKSHIRE OFFERS AID

Mr. MacDonald's letter, addressed to William Coxon, secretary of the Seaham Labor party, said he would like to be present at Seaham Harbor on September 12 when the local Labor party members act upon the resolution demanding his resignation, but doubted whether the pressure of his work would permit.

A penciled postcard from a Yorkshire working man was in Prime Minister MacDonald's mail this morning. It said:

"Come to Yorkshire and we will find thee a seat in the Commons. All Yorkshire Labor is proud of you. The dole has been much abused and we workers are tired of keeping those who will not work. You did a fine thing and we are proud of you. Yorkshire likes pluck."

BLUEBEARD HAD PITTSBURGH ROMANCE

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., Sept. 2.—Harry F. Powers, alias Cornelius Pierson, had still another alias, John Gildaw, which he used in a mail order love racket as far back as 1924, letters and photographs found among his effects revealed today.

Powers, posing as Gildaw, lived for a time in Miller, S. D., and carried on his correspondence school in love with a score or more women. Several of his 1924 "flames" lived in Pittsburgh and its environs, Uniontown, Vanderbilt, Latrobe and other Western Pennsylvania towns.

A mysterious "Anna," from the number of letters and postcards found in his effects, seemed to be one of his most popular correspondents. Writing from Pittsburgh and nearby points, she penned her missives endearingly.

WRITES AFTER CHURCH

A picture postcard showing the School of Applied Design, Carnegie Institute of Technology, near which the writer said she had worked at one time, was postmarked North Side, Pittsburgh, September 1, 1924, and read:

"Dear Joe:

"Just came home from church and we had a lovely sermon taken from St. Luke, Chapter 11. Our pastor is just home from the East. We hold C. E. in the park these warm sunday nights. Tomorrow is Labor Day and a holiday for me. Mother, sister and I are going to the park. Wish you were here. I shall think of you. Lovingly always,

"ANNA."

POWERS' PICTURE FOUND

Photographs inscribed lovingly by various admirers of the period also were found. A likeness of Powers himself, but bearing the name Joe Gildaw, also was discovered. On the back he had penned:

"This is not very good, as I just slipped on an old coat, but then it may give you some idea."

The photograph, according to the inscription, was taken August 14, 1924.

A postcard from Crafton, Pa., read:

"What's wrong? I have not heard from you for such a long time.

"Very truly yours, M. E., Crafton."

CARD FROM CORAOPOLIS

A postcard mailed at Coraopolis, September 12, 1924, read:

"Dear Joe: Wrote you a letter this morning. I suppose you will get it before this card. I forgot to mention to you I received the book of views. Write soon. Love, E. B."

Dated Vanderbilt, Pa., September 5, 1924, was another from Anna:

"Hello, Kid—Received your souvenir and thought it great. Am well and hope you are the same."

PICTURE FROM UNIONTOWN

In the collection was a photograph inscribed, Uniontown, and another inscribed "from Genevieve Pochinsky, to Joe Gildaw, 623 Spring street, Latrobe."

Other photographs, postcards and trinkets, including a prayer book with the name Tillie Smarzek on the fly leaf were found.

The correspondence indicated Powers left South Dakota in September, 1924. A postcard addressed to him at Miller, S. D., at this time was forwarded first to Cambridge, O., and then to Connellsville. Other forwarding addresses included Mansfield, O., where he corresponded until 1927 with his present wife, Marshall, Ind.; Connellsville, Pa.; Vandalia, Ill.; Washington, D. C.; Galion, O.; Richmond, Va., and Crestline, O.

Following discovery of the letters, City Detective Carl Southern, here, sent a query to police at Miller, S. D., asking information concerning Powers' movement in that place under the alias of Gildaw.

U. S. Links Powers in Dope Ring

The uncovering of a drug peddling ring here about a month ago in a series of raids which resulted in 15 arrests and the tracing of sources of supply to physicians, Fortner declared, are substantial proof that Clarksburg has more than its share of addicts.

The ring arrests here revealed extended into the Harrison County Jail where Powers is now confined. The alleged slayer himself is suspected of having trafficked in drugs. The investigation of federal agents will be in co-operation with local authorities who questioned Powers, wife and sister-in-law again in connection with the husband's activities during the past four years.

ARREST IN DOUBT

Clarksburg police declared themselves dissatisfied with the sisters' explanation that they knew nothing of Powers' movements, even though the wife maintains their married life always had been happy.

City Detective Carl Southern, sisters several times questioned Mrs. Powers and Miss Strother again today. They were asked:

"Will there be an arrest?"

At first inclined to disregard the question, they replied:

"Well, we haven't decided that."

FIRST VISIT RECALLED

Before leaving for the Powers home to question the sisters, Duckworth said:

"I am just going out to talk things over with Mrs. Powers. I will not bring her in until I have conferred with the county prosecutor."

The sudden change of attitude of Mrs. Powers startled police who overheard her utter terms of endearment to the wives of the nation's lonely women when she saw him for the first time in his cell on Sunday.

"Honey, what is this they are saying?"

To which Powers replied:

The visit terminated, police say, with Mrs. Powers' assurance:

HOME YIELDS NO CLUES

Residents of the Broad Oaks district during the last few days have voiced their suspicions of the Powers home owned by Mrs. Powers and her sister, but so far police have uncovered nothing of an incriminating nature on the premises.

Suit cases and trunks, some of them containing clothing and personal effects identified as having belonged to the Eicher family, were found in a garage about a square distant from the house, but nothing has been found in the house itself. Mrs. Powers denies having knowledge of the trunks and suitcases in the garage.

CHARGE ILLNESS FEIGNED

Since the arrest of her husband last Thursday, Mrs. Powers has feigned illness, according to police.

The officers declared the two sisters on some days shut themselves in the house refusing to see visitors, and on other occasions welcome the curious crowds which throng the store operated jointly by the sisters on a corner of the property. Mrs. Powers, admitting she furnished the money to build the slaughter house garage on her husband's Quiet Dell love farm, says she has never seen the building. She has not explained to the satisfaction of police, they say, why her husband built the place.

Late developments in the ghastly love plot centered around the investigation of an overwhelming avalanche of rumors and "tips" which has deluged authorities since the discovery of the five bodies buried in a drainage ditch leading from Powers' Quiet Dell chattal house to Elk Creek.

BAKER CLUES FOLLOWED

Possibility of linking Powers with the killing of Mary Baker, Navy Department clerk at Washington on April 11, 1930, hinged on the identification of pistols found among the mail-order Romeo's effects.

Miss Baker was slain by a man said to resemble Powers who spirited her away in her own automobile and tossed her bullet-riddled body in a ditch by Arlington Cemetery. Three .32-caliber bullet wounds were found in her body. The pistol found among Powers effects is said to be a .32 and a box of steel-jacketed bullets of the same caliber also was found.

EXAMINATION SCHEDULED

Powers was to be subject to examination of a defense physician today as a result of Judge John C. Southern signing a petition granting Defense Attorney J. Ed Law the right to visit the prisoner in the Harrison County Jail. The petition, signed late yesterday, was submitted when Sheriff W. B. Grimm refused to permit Law and Dr. B. F. Matheny, former County Coroner and former City Health Officer, from visiting Powers Monday.

Attorney Law said the examination would be made to determine if Powers was injured by alleged third-degree methods. Dr. Matheny will examine him.

An affidavit was obtained from Powers by his attorney late yesterday in which the Clarksburg Romeo charged his alleged confession had been obtained by officers under threats and oppression.

DEFENSE GETS PICTURES

A notary accompanied Law to the jail. A photographer later went to the jail and pictures purporting to reveal bruises about Powers' body, face and legs were obtained.

Powers, refusing to talk further about the killings, has assumed a stubborn frame of mind, according to police who quizzed him yesterday and last night. Asked by Detective Southern about his visits to Washington, in an effort to link him with the slaying of Miss Baker, he flatly refused to talk about it.

Southern asked:

"Were you in Washington at the time Mary Baker was killed?"

Powers refused to talk and Southern continued:

"What do you know about this murder, anything?"

The prisoner, blinking, replied slowly:

"Are you trying to put another one on me—what was the motive in this case?"

SHEEP BONES CAUSE SCARE

Sheriff Grimm, investigating a rumor that Powers, under another name, had leased a farm about four miles from Clarksburg, said he had visited the place but found the report false. He said he found some sheep bones mistaken by an excitable resident of the community for human bones and said the man who leased the property did so for farming purposes.

Powers Questioned On Missing Friend

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., Sept. 2.—(AP)—Members of a Greek organization today asked Sheriff William Grimm to press the inquiry into the disappearance of Stamataras Sfikdas, 44, shoe shine parlor operator, and friend, of Harry F. Powers. Sfikdas vanished June 10.

Questioned regarding Sfikdas, Powers said:

300 Shriners to Go On Bermuda Cruise

Nearly 300 members of Syria Temple Shrine will leave Pittsburgh on a special 14-car Pennsylvania Railroad train Friday for New York, where they will board the Aquitania at midnight for a cruise to Bermuda. They will return to Pittsburgh on the special train the morning of September 9.

TESTIFY AT INQUEST

MISS OLGA MACKO MISS SYBLE DENYS

Miss Macko and Miss Denys, Allegheny General Hospital nurses, who testified at inquest seeking cause of death of Lazo Radakobisch from fractured skull when police took him to hospital second time. Coroner McGregor scored hospital and police.

MACHINE AIDS 8 GOVERNORS BODY SEARCH | BACK RELIEF

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., Sept. 2.—Three spots on Harry F. Powers' love farm at Quiet Dell were to be dug up today as result of the visit yesterday by a Clarksburg doctor and his strange-appearing machine. Used to aid authorities in the search of the farm for additional bodies, the instrument is said to have reacted favorably over three locations.

Before it was taken over the farm, it was tested over the place where the five bodies were recovered and was said to have reacted. A similar test was made in a nearby cemetery over recent graves with the same result.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—(AP)—The administration's plan for unemployment relief received approval from eight state governors as the national organization selected leaders in American industry to mobilize resources in local communities to meet the situation this coming winter.

Commendations of the plan, being carried out by Walter S. Gifford, national relief director, were received at the White House from five governors, while three previously had signified their hearty approval.

The chief executives indorsing the plan were Cross, of Connecticut, Brucker, of Michigan, Emmerson, of Illinois, Parnell, of Arkansas, Conley, of West Virginia, Rolph, of California, Winant, of New Hampshire, and Gardiner, of Maine. They expressed confidence the state and cities could care for the local situations and pledged their co-operation.

The President's organization is inaugurating a nation-wide radio campaign today to encourage young people to stay in school until employment conditions improve.

POLICE SCORED AT INQUEST

Coroner W. J. McGregor scored both police and attaches of the Allegheny General Hospital for their attitude of antagonism, brought out in evidence which yesterday resulted in the verdict of the Coroner's jury that Lazo Radakobisch, of Straub's lane, died of "a fractured skull from causes undetermined."

Coroner McGregor directed his criticism first toward the police, whom he had admonished several times during the hearing for their attempts to tell of other cases where they thought the hospital had been negligent, but he also included the physicians and nurses in his comment. He said:

"I want to say this because of the apparent antagonism and animosity shown during this hearing. All of you, police officers, physicians and nurses, have a responsibility always to protect the individual against himself and to see that an intoxicated man gets proper attention. If animosity is shown, it can only result to the detriment of the person taken to the hospital."

Harmonica 'Champ' Is Given Medal

Ducks Save Family When Home Burns

The quacking of a flock of ducks saved the family of Andrew Gregowitz, when their home at William Penn highway and Monroeville road, Patton Township, was destroyed by fire at 3 a. m. today. Gregowitz, a widower with seven children, was asleep when the fire started, and was aroused by the ducks. The family escaped but was unable to save any of their possessions. Later they set up housekeeping in a barn on the farm, neighbors giving household effects. The loss is estimated at $5,000.

MEXICO DENIES AID TO CHURCH

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 2.—(AP)—The federal government's announced determination not to intervene in the Vera Cruz religious controversy which recently has led to a series of bombings and riots was received with dismay by Catholic circles today.

President Ortiz Rubio in his annual address at the opening session of Congress yesterday made his first definite reply to requests for intervention with the statement that the Vera Cruz Legislature acted within its rights in passing an anti-church measure and he considered federal intervention a violation of state sovereignty which he was not willing to commit.

The Vera Cruz law limited to 15 the number of priests allowed to perform their offices in the state and rather than comply with these restrictions the church has permitted itself to be practically eliminated from Vera Cruz.

Woodcock Raps Dry Agent; 'Abhors' Girl Decoy Use

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—(AP)—Prohibition Director Woodcock today reprimanded a Buffalo prohibition agent, Ralph Dell, with whom a young girl was arrested for solicitation while gathering evidence in four Buffalo speakeasies.

Dell laid his case before the Prohibition Director this morning. Later Woodcock said that because of the agent's excellent record in the Army and as a dry agent he would be returned to duty.

Woodcock said:

"I abhor this whole incident. It is a terrible situation that anyone should conceive that this was the way to enforce prohibition.

"I am inclined to think, however, that Dell was not so much to blame as his immediate superiors. In fact, some measure of blame should rest with me for not anticipating such a situation."

Hunt for Buried Treasure On at Mont Alto

MONT ALTO, Pa., Sept. 2.—(AP)—A hunt for buried treasure is under way in the Mont Alto State Forest here by residents of this vicinity.

The treasure, however, is not the supposedly buried loot of pirates or pioneer settlers of this region. It is supposed to be the legendary loot hastily hidden by retreating Confederate troops after the battle of Gettysburg in 1863.

The hunt is proceeding near Pearl-of-the-Park spring in the Mont Alto State Forest, situated in Franklin County, but so far none of the treasure seekers has been rewarded. It got under way three days ago when a stranger, who arrived in an automobile bearing District of Columbia license tags, began paring off distances and blazing trees near the spring.

Persons began digging promiscuously, so that small holes have made a miniature no man's land of the state forest terrain.

ESTELLE SURE DEMPSEY CAN REGAIN BOXING CROWN

STILL ADMIRES JACK DESPITE DIVORCE ROW

Can Accomplish Anything He Makes Up His Mind to Do, Actress Says of Mate

By ROBERT A. HEREFORD
International News Service.

ST. LOUIS, Sept 2.—Jack Dempsey can do anything he makes up his mind to do—and if he really wants to "come back" to the ring then his opponents are in for an interesting time.

This is the frank opinion of the woman who won the heart of the man who conquered the boxing world.

Of course, Jack's comeback campaign is not so vitally interesting to Estelle Taylor, the former world champion's wife, as it might have been several years ago, they are suing each other for divorce. But that doesn't prevent Estelle from still admiring the man whom she once chose above all others to be her mate.

'PIEST WITH BOXERS

one may use the term "square ter" in describing one of the beautiful and talented aces of the stage and screen, that is the impression Miss or gave as she quite frankly fairly discussed Dempsey. She

After a woman has been rried to a man, no matter t trouble arises, there is al- a deep-seated something keeps one from wanting t him."

"I think really though that 'comeback to the ring' is a rather inaccurate phrase to use n connection with Jack Dempsey. He was never away from he ring. He may not have een engaged in championship fights, but Jack Dempsey lived, ate and breathed boxing day in and day out. There were some times six months in a year when he would be away from me engaged in his boxing interests—refereeing and the like.

"He was always happiest when he was with his pugilistic companions or when he was engaged in work connected with boxing.

LWAYS IN CONDITION

"As for Jack's getting back in condition, why, he never was out of condition. Jack was always working out at some gymnasium or other and his frequent refereeing engagements likewise kept him in trim. That is one of the things one couldn't help admiring about Jack, he is a fine physical specimen of man.

"When Jack sets his mind on ything he is not happy until s goal is achieved or until he thoroughly convinced that he s seeking the impossible. And it usually takes a rather strong onvincer to deter Jack. So if he has put his mind and really set his heart on a comeback I wouldn't be a bit surprised to see him champion again.

"As for Jack's age—he is 36—I frankly believe that he is five years younger than the average man of his years. Everyone knows his boyish nature—and his mental freshness and youthfulness has kept him from being as swiftly as other men."

Husband Wins Court Battle For Bride, 18

MRS. EVELYN CZAPLINSKI . . . UNITED WITH HER HUSBAND

Young Wife Awarded To Mate While Mother Screams

Departing from Common Pleas Court late yesterday with the hysterical screams of her mother ringing in her ears, Mrs. Evelyn Grace Cutnell Czaplinski, 18, swimmer and violinist, today was reunited with her husband, Mike Czaplinski, 21, steel worker.

They were at home through the order of Judge James H. Gray, giving the bride to the custody of her husband under a writ of habeas corpus he procured against her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John F. Cutnell, of 132 River road, Whitaker.

The couple went to Dravosburg July 30 and were married after giving their ages as over 21, they admitted. After living in West Homestead for a week, her parents took her home with them and forcibly detained her, Czaplinski averred. The parents testified she was too young to marry and they wanted her to finish her last year in Munhall High School.

Fatally Stabs Self In Fall Downstairs

Patsy Dominick, 41, of Saltsburg road, Bessemer, died last night from a stab wound in the abdomen. It was accidentally inflicted in his home several hours before, according to the coroner's report.

Dominick was walking down the steps in his home with a butcher knife in his hand when he tripped. As he fell the knife pierced his abdomen.

$58,000 Estate Left To Son, Grandson

The $58,000 estate of James W. Orr, of Crafton, will go to his son, Lawrence W. Orr, of Baltimore, and a grandson, Robert Orr, of Denver, after the payment of a life interest to Orr's sister, Martha J. Orr, of Mt. Washington, his will provides. Dividends from 100 shares of stock go to the sister.

Victim of Poison Dies in Hospital

Mrs. Allie Riedel, 41, of 1441 Conroy street, McKees Rocks, died today at the Ohio Valley Hospital from the effects of poison taken last Thursday in a suicidal attempt, according to a morgue report.

CELIA E. HARRIS, WIFE OF STATE SENATOR, DIES

Illness of Many Years Terminates in Death; Lived Entire Life Here

Mrs. Cecelia E. Dugan Harris, 49, wife of State Senator Frank J. Harris, died last midnight at her home, Clearview and Willard avenues, Harris Terrace, Crafton. She had been ill for several years.

Born in Pittsburgh, she had spent her life in this district. She was a member of St. Philip's Roman Catholic Church, Crafton.

Besides her husband, she leaves five children, Elizabeth, Genevieve, John, Adelaide and Lucy Harris. She also leaves two sisters, Lucy and Adelaide Dugan, and three brothers, Grattan, Emmett and James Dugan.

CHICAGO FETES GRONAU, AIDES

CHICAGO, Sept. 2.—(INS.)—Establishment of an air mail route from Europe to America by way of Iceland and Greenland is possible—but it would take a lot of money.

This is the conclusion of Capt. Wolfgang von Gronau, German pilot, who with three companions were Chicago's guests today following a hop across the North Atlantic.

Capt. von Gronau and his crew landed on the lake front here last night after flying from Long Lake, Ont. Their Dornier seaplane, the Gronland Wal, is the same one that Capt. von Gronau brought to Chicago from Germany by way of New York a year ago. He said:

"The purpose of our flight was to determine if it were possible to establish a northern air mail route between the Old World and the New.

"It is possible—but it would take a lot of money. Success would depend on how much could be spent."

Police Find Chinese Injured in Street

Yee Min Song, 37, a Chinese laundryman, 518 Third avenue, was found unconscious on the street near his laundry by police early today. He told police that three men chased him and he fell, but police believed he was robbed. He was taken to Mercy Hospital.

Man Hurt in Fall From Trolley Seat

Thomas R. Lemmon, 42, of 2610 Brownsville road, suffered a laceration of the left ear when he fell from his seat in a Carrick street car last night, it was reported. He was treated at South Side Hospital.

Hardy Nearly Lost to World, Barrie Says

DORCHESTER, England, Sept 2.—(AP.)—Unveiling a life-size statue of Thomas Hardy, the work of Eric Kennington, here in Hardy's native Dorsetshire today Sir James Barrie, creator of "Peter Pan," told how nearly the world came to missing altogether the late novelist's services. He said:

"When the child Hardy was born, the doctor thought him dead and dropped him into a basket.

"That was an anxious moment for this country. But a woman stepped forward to make sure and found he was alive. A statue to this woman—Mr. Kennington could have done worse than give us that.

"What interests me still more is this:

"Was Hardy shamming in the basket? If so, that was the only time in his life that he ever shammed.

"Yet knowing what we know of him now, we may think that at his first sight of life he liked it so little that he lay very still. There never was any more faltering.

"The undaunted mind—that was Hardy. He was a great man. That was his hard fate."

BERLIN - VIENNA PACT DROPPED

GENEVA, Sept. 2.—(AP.)—Germany and Austria are expected to issue tomorrow or Friday—at least before the decision of the World Court—a joint declaration announcing the abandonment of their proposed customs union at the request of France.

Foreign Ministers Julius Curtius and Johann Schober, it was learned, probably will reveal their decision before the Pan-European Commission.

It is considered an open secret that Austria's financial difficulties did not leave her any other choice. A friendly attitude on the part of France when the question of extending aid comes before the League of Nations council is believed to be of life-and-death importance to Austria.

The opinion in League circles is that the removal of the customs pact is a most important step in the restoration of political stability in Europe.

MILLION STOLEN IN BANK LOST ON MARKET

Embezzler Aids Check on Sum Taken in 12 Years; Stock Speculation Reveals Theft

International News Service.

CHICAGO, Sept. 2.—Walter E. Wolf, church-goer and family man, embezzled more than $1,000,000 from the nation's fourth largest bank, but never profited by more than $500.

His stolen fortune went down the greased skids of the stock and grain markets.

This was disclosed today as Wolf assisted authorities seeking to learn the exact amount of his defalcations. His home-loving wife and 12-year-old daughter, hitherto unaware of his dealings, meantime took refuge with relatives and refused to be interviewed.

MAY REACH $2,000,000

It was feared Wolf's total embezzlements may mount over $2,000,000. He admitted taking $1,500,000.

Wolf, trusted employe of the Continental Illinois Bank and Trust Company for two decades, willingly aided officers check his records for the last 12 years, during which the theft occurred. He said:

"I am glad to get this load off my mind. It has made me miserable. After I help the bank recover what can be recovered the authorities can do anything they like with me."

Lloyds of London, which bonds the bank's employes, indicated the Continental Illinois would be covered in full. A Lloyd's official was quoted as saying the claim is the largest of its kind on record.

SYSTEM DEFIED AUDIT

Wolf's "system" defied audits. His confession was not brought about by evidence discovered within the bank, but by the suspicions of a broker, who wondered where Wolf was getting the money he lost in stock and grain speculation.

Wolf began his thefts in 1919 when he was employed in the old Illinois Trust and Savings Bank which later became part of the Continental Illinois Bank and Trust Company.

RAIN HOLDS UP AIR EVENTS

CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 2.—(AP.)—Grounded by rainy weather today, national air race pilots at Cleveland airport tuned their planes for tomorrow's events and waxed enthusiastic over the possibility that a dazzling new world's speed record will be made during one of the remaining events of this year's races.

The postponed events of today's program will be held during the remaining days of the races, which are to continue through Sept. mber 7.

With the first taste of real speed offered by Lowell Bayles, slightly-built and mild-mannered record challenger from Springfield, Mass., spectators chafed at the postponement of the arrival of more quick-stepping planes from the West coast.

The lure of speed, however, kept the seven pilots officially entered in the derby dash from Los Angeles in quest of the Bendix trophy and a pot of gold, on the ground.

Air race officials announced that the fliers were awaiting the best possible weather in an effort to shatter Capt. Frank Hawks' transcontinental record of 12 hours and 25 minutes. They have until September 5 to be a-wing.

Suicide Follows Remorse Over Crash

WEST YELLOWSTONE, Mont., Sept. 2.—(AP.)—Clarence Judd, 31, shot and killed himself yesterday in remorse for having caused an automobile accident that killed one young man and injured two others. Earl Murray, 20, die last night. He had swerved his car when Judd stepped in front of it to hail it.

Screen Star's Plane Down at Greensburg In Stormy Air Trip

LIL DAGOVER . . . FORCED DOWN, BUT "IT WAS WONDERFUL"

WILKINS' SUB BELIEVED SAFE

LONDON, Sept. 2.—(INS.)—The Arctic Bureau of the British government today issued an official communique saying no undue alarm should be felt for the safety of the Polar submarine of Sir Hubert Wilkins because the submarine may have been prevented from communicating with the outside world.

The Arctic Bureau pointed out that a magnetic wall may have intervened between the Nautilus and the principal world radio stations, thus rendering any radio signals from the Nautilus inaudible. Also, the bureau said, there was a possibility that the Nautilus' wireless equipment may have been disabled.

It was rumored here that an amateur radio operator at Tromsoe, Norway, had established contact with the Nautilus, but this could not be confirmed from any reliable source.

German 'Lil Dagover, 'Bumped' Over Mountains

Battling for more than an hour through dense storm clouds, dodging one storm after another over the treacherous Allegheny Mountains, Lil Dagover, famed German motion picture actress, was forced down with her pilot at the Greensburg airport today.

In broken English she said:

"I assure you it was wonderful, splendid. But then I had such confidence in our pilot, who could entertain fears?"

(Bows for Pilot Fred Angstadt, of the Pennsylvania Air Lines).

"It all reminded me of one of the memorable flights I made across the English Channel.

"We bumped and bumped over those mountains—beautiful when you could see them, but not nearly as much as we did on that flight from Paris to London. We bobbed like a cork."

The stormy weather was first encountered at Everett, Pa. From that point on into Greensburg where Pilot Angstadt brought his ship down, the trip was made through dense clouds.

Lil was en route to the Pacific coast. While in Pittsburgh she was to be entertained by Pittsburgh officials of Warner Brothers, making an address this afternoon from station KDKA.

B'Nai Israel Hebrew Institute Resumes

Classes were resumed yesterday at the B'Nai Israel Hebrew Institute, with Rabbi Benjamin A. Lichter as superintendent and Nathan Savage as principal. The institute offers courses in the elementary and high school departments, it was announced.

For the more advanced students courses are offered in Hebrew literature, Talmud and advanced Bible interpretation. All classes are conducted in Hebrew.

Weather Conditions

Low pressure extends from Quebec to Texas, with disturbances over Quebec, Illinois and Southern Texas. Rain over all the Ohio Valley states and the lake region; cloudiness over most of the eastern half of the country. The rainfall was light, generally, but substantial amounts fell at many places, and heavy amounts at Cincinnati, Evansville and St. Louis. The heaviest reported was 3.88 inches at St. Louis. Temperature changes were not important, except that there were no high temperatures yesterday afternoon.

AKRON FLIGHT HERE DEPENDS ON WEATHER

Chances for Visit Regarded As Good; Navy Refuses All Requests for Rides

Prospects that the Akron, world's largest airship, will visit Pittsburgh when it makes its maiden trip are regarded good, but depend upon the weather.

Speaking of the flight, Lieut. Commander Charles E. Rosendahl said:

"We have not promised any city a visit nor can we do so. Where we shall go depends largely on weather conditions. We will not make a trial trip this week. I would not like to venture an opinion for next week. We have been overwhelmed with invitations from various cities."

The Chamber of Commerce, through its Aeronautical Committee, R. A. Tucker, chairman, began plans several weeks ago to bring the Akron here.

Announcement was made by the Navy Department today that all requests for rides on the dirigible will be refused. It was stated that carrying of passengers will be permitted only in exceptional cases and not at all during the trial flight.

HERNDON GETS FLIGHT PERMIT

TOKIO, Sept. 2.—(INS.)—After weeks of delay, the Japanese government today granted a permit to Hugh Herndon, Jr., and Clyde Pangborn to take off from Tokio on an attempted nonstop flight across the Pacific Ocean to Seattle.

The airmen announced they would start to overhaul their plane tomorrow, and would leave as soon as possible.

Meanwhile, Don Moyle and C. A. Allen, another pair of American airmen hoping to bridge the Pacific without a stop, encountered an unexpected delay. The government informed them it would have to test their plane for its airworthiness before granting a permit for the take-off.

Herndon and Pangborn ran afoul of the strict Japanese espionage laws when they flew to Tokio from Kharbarovsk, Siberia, without waiting for a permit. They had taken photographs of fortified areas. The courts fined them $1,025 each.

GRAF GREETED IN BRAZIL

PERNAMBUCO, Brazil, Sept. 2.—(AP.)—Germany's aerial envoy, the Graf Zeppelin, was the center of an admiring throng today because of her 5,000-mile non-stop flight across the South Atlantic from Germany on clock-work schedule.

Dr. Hugo Eckener brought her in to the new mooring mast last night within 20 minutes of his estimated time for the cruise. He figured she had traveled 5,000 miles in 72 hours at an average speed of about 70 miles an hour. She left Friedrichshafen Saturday night.

The airship is scheduled to leave tomorrow night on her return trip to Friedrichshafen and her ninth crossing of the Atlantic in both directions.

Fliers for Denmark Retrace Own Trail

OTTAWA, Sept. 2.—(AP.)—The Department of Marine was informed by wireless from Churchill, Ont., today that Edwin Preston and Robert Collignon, Detroit to Denmark fliers, doubled back along their own trail yesterday. They took off from Port Harrison on the eastern side of Hudson Bay and headed south, landing two hours later at Whale River at the mouth of James Bay.

Italian Ace to Help Dedicate Airport

Col. State Takes Over Philadelphia Bank

HARRISBURG, Sept. 2.—(AP.)—Secretary of Banking William D. Gordon today said he had taken possession of the affairs of the Parkway Trust Company of Philadelphia. His action followed a meeting with directors last night. He added:

"The bank is still in a cash position to meet the legal reserve requirement, but due to the steady withdrawal of deposits, it was decided that it would be in the best interests of depositors, creditors and stockholders for the Banking Department to take over the institution in order that its assets may be conserved."

Directors Close Sutton, W. Va., Bank

SUTTON, W. Va., Sept. 2.—(AP.)—The Bank of Sutton, a state institution, closed its doors today and officials announced the action was taken for protection of depositors. Directors placed the bank in the hands of the Commissioner of Banking for liquidation.

Senate Fight Seen on Darrah Promotion

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—(AP.)—Col. Thomas W. Darrah, chief of staff of the Third Corps Area, yesterday became Brig. Gen. Darrah as he officially assumed the rank for which he was recommended some time ago.

The promotion, protested by Representative Wyant, of Greensburg, Pa., remains subject to confirmation by the Senate at the next session. Representative Wyant has indicated he would ask Senator Reed, of Pennsylvania, chairman of the Military Affairs Committee, to conduct a hearing on Darrah's fitness.

Thieves Get $100,000 Gems in Rich Home

CHICAGO, Sept. 2.—(AP.)—The Chicago Herald and Examiner said today that a secret investigation was being made of a $100,000 jewel robbery at the home in suburban Glencoe of Lawrence Stern, wealthy investment banking company president. The loss was reported by Wilma Jaries, maid. She was held pending a further investigation.

Man Who Donated Millions Unable to Pay Wife's Rent

NEW YORK, Sept. 2.—(AP.)—John Gellatly, 78, who gave the Smithsonian Institution and others his $5,000,000 art collection, has admitted in court he is unable to pay his wife's $660 rent bill.

Mrs. Charlayne Gellatly, 43 years her husband's junior, appeared in Municipal Court yesterday and charged her husband with posing as a philanthropist and giving away his fortune instead of caring for her needs.

Mrs. Gella.., who described herself as an actress, said she had not lived with her husband since their marriage at Belle Anne, M in September, 1930.

Congress accepted Gellatly to the Smithsonian, whi made two years ago.

Girl Shot by Rival in Duel Over Business Man's Love

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 2.—(INS.)—Two pretty Mexican señoritas, rivals for the hand of Sergio Silva, business man, fought a duel on the outskirts of Mexico City in the moonlight before dawn today.

When police arrived they found Sofia Mendoza lying dangerously wounded and Maria De Los Angeles standing with a hand on her hip and a pistol in her hand. The latter explained:

"We both loved Sergia and decided to shoot it out. There was no other way."

The girls fought without seconds. A passerby saw them meet, turn their backs to each other and measure off 20 paces before they turned and fired. They used .25-caliber pistols.

MARSHALL RAPS PRAISES RULE JUDGES' SLATE OF ARMSTRONG

Attorney Thomas M. Marshall, candidate for Judge of Common Pleas Court, in an address last night to the League of Women Voters in Bellevue Borough Hall answered the charge made Monday by one of the seven Judges seeking to succeed themselves who claimed that organizations who failed to receive the endorsement of the Bar Association have thrown up a smoke screen to hide their failure. He said:

"Apparently this Judge does not remember that one candidate, Marshall, did receive the indorsement of the bar, and furthermore received more votes than three sitting Judges.

"In fairness to other candidates it should be remembered that a slate has a great advantage in a field of 18. Who not say that several of the sitting Judges in previous bar elections, did not make such favorable showings when not members of a slate."

Attorney Charles G. Ease, chairman of the meetings and speakers committee for County Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong's campaign to succeed himself, reviewed the construction program of the county during the last eight years in a speech broadcast last night over KDKA. He said:

"The physical map of the county has been redrawn during the eight years that Armstrong has been chairman of the Board of County Commissioners. He did not talk—he acted. His record is one of accomplishments, not words. His leadership has taken the county out of the rut with one of the greatest improvement programs ever conceived for any community."

John B. Nicklas, Jr., Allegheny County commander of the American Legion and president of the University of Pittsburgh Alumni Association, will broadcast in the "Old Gray Mare" program at 10 o'clock tonight over KDKA.

PARK TO FIGHT POLL FRAUD

District Attorney Andrew T. Park, addressing a League of Women Voters meeting last night in Bellevue Hall, declared his campaign is managed only by a group of leading lawyers at the bar and any statement to the contrary is false. He gave warning that in the event of frauds in the coming election, vigorous prosecutions would result. He declared:

"I have read in the newspapers of various people who are alleged to be managing my campaign. I wish to state emphatically that my campaign is being directed by a committee of reputable lawyers, headed by John S. Weller, from my campaign headquarters in the Plaza Building, Pittsburgh.

"It is not my desire to make any spectacular or high-sounding promises, but I wish it clearly understood on the part of the voters of Allegheny County that any election frauds brought to my attention will be prosecuted vigorously as long as I am District Attorney."

CRITICIZES INDEPENDENTS

Mar. C. B. Shaffer, candidate for City Council today challenged the right of the councilmanic candidates on the ticket headed by C. C. McGovern, running for re-election as County Commissioner, to class themselves "independent." He declared:

"By attaching the label 'independent' to their own coat tails, the councilmanic candidates on the McGovern slate are guilty either of a deliberate attempt to confuse the uncontrolled voters or they are lacking in an understanding of the English language.

"I agree that it is time for the Kline administration to be driven from city hall, but I contend that it is not reasonable to oust one political machine and install another.

"I am the only independent candidate in the campaign. I am not a professional politician; I am an engineer. I am not a servant of any political machine. My candidacy is based on the belief that the voters are tired of machine politics and I am sure the independent voters will put me in office."

'ROMEO' VICTIMS CREMATED

Two caskets containing the bodies of Mrs. Asta Buck Eiche Park Ridge, Ill., widow and by three children Greta, 14; Harry 12, and Annabel, 9, found slain at Harry F. Powers' Quiet Dell love farm, near Clarksburg, W. Va., were cremated at Homewood Cemetery today and the ashes were to be shipped to Park Ridge for burial.

The bodies arrived in Pittsburgh from Clarksburg at 8 today and were taken to the Samson funeral home in Negley street, where the necessary burial papers for their transfer to West Virginia to Pennsylvania were signed. Then they were taken to the Homewood Cemetery.

Powers Novice in Real Wedding

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., Sept. 2.—That Harry F. Powers, man of many wives, was suspected of slaying five members was disclosed in the wake of the axe racket when he married his present wife, Miss Dorothy Powers, in the mail order system was declared by police following discovery of another batch of letters written by Mrs. Powers before their marriage. The letters, found in Powers' trunk, revealed their acquaintanceship came as a result of a matrimonial [illegible] Mrs. Powers last [illegible] she was a married woman, [illegible]

CONTENTS SUGARY

[illegible] reaching the [illegible] Powers' home with [illegible] to Mrs. Dorothy [illegible] She tempted a detective inspector mate with her [illegible] of the property [illegible] and [illegible] sister would [illegible] mother passed on [illegible] wife in the case of the third [illegible] wedding.

The sweetly [illegible] letters [illegible]:

"Just can't resist the temptation this fine morning of writing my sugar lump a few lines. Your dear letter arrived Saturday a. m. Harry, dear, you are making your Lulu so very anxious for your real love. It isn't very long now, cutie, until you will be all mine and gosh, won't I have a sweet hubby to love! Well, my dear, I can't say that you never wake me up, or rather your beautiful Easter greetings did. It arrived before 8 a. m. I sure was much surprised. Oh, the dearest white lilies I ever saw.

"There were six of them. They made us all so happy and I thank you so much for sending them.

BETS TWO KISSES

"No, dearie, none of us didn't go to church. I told you in my previous letter about mother having such a cold. Well, we have had quite a time to keep her out of pneumonia. She was tight in her lungs and she coughed all night last night, so we can't commence our house cleaning for a few days yet when she gets well. Dearie, we sure have the fine Easter creations to wear. We didn't lack anything only good health. But such is life. I sure have got some beautiful wearing apparel. Oh! But you will be proud of your wife as well as wife of hubby.

"I'll bet you two kisses you don't wake me up next Easter morning for to give me a lily. But you may have to get up to attend to your baby-chicks, ha, ha. And we will both be happy, won't we, Cutie? And you are coming to see me the fifteenth or two or three days later. You cute kid, you.

LOVE AND KISSES

"Well, Harry, I'll be ready some time near that time. But just can't say the real day. We can arrange later. I have good news to tell you. They have got Floyd street almost done, and presume they will finish today, and one of the contractors for Quincy street was over Saturday and told mother they would begin as soon as the other was done.

"Dearie, the noise here is dreadful and they have one old gray horse balks and he has got me scared stiff. We has the door locked—dearie, since I have been sick I don't go to church. I have been too nervous, but this summer we will take in some good sermons in the country. That's where I like to go to church. Dearie, I am going to make this letter kinda short as I have some more sewing I want to finish up today. Mother did let me have a lot of eggs yesterday. I never told her what you said until this morning and she give me lots goodies to eat. Write soon, cutie. I'll look for a special Saturday. All my love, hugs and kisses is yours. Love from mother and kisses from sister."

QUIZ ON RIVALS

Another letter signed "Lovingly yours" suggests that it was suspected by his wife-to-be that Powers was writing lots of love letters. Part of it said:

"Oh, listen, you never 'fessed up to me how many ladies you are corresponding with. Now tell me, cutie, there isn't drop of jealous blood in my little fat body."

One sentence in that letter said she hoped "they" wouldn't send him to Minnesota and expressed joy at a meeting planned for September 4. Inquiry since the alleged crime disclosed that Powers and Miss Strother were wed at Oakland, Md., in 1927.

About September 20, 1926, Powers was in Kansas, for one of the letters dated here from Miss Strother to "dearie" Harry, opens:

"Your letter from Kansas came Saturday morning.

WEDDING PLANS

Shortly before February 15, 1927, he had written to her from Cleveland, for letters mention a postcard received from him there. In her letter, in addition to the customary "love and kisses," she mentions that Lightning had struck the Powers' school and asks him if he knows where the Gore Hotel is.

The letter of February 15 speaks of the wedding plans. Its gist of love, simple and [illegible] throughout.

"You told me, dearie, in your previous letter that Mr. and Mrs. Rogers were gone, but I just supposed they would return before dear old May,' but perhaps you don't wish them to know of our marriage. Are you going to inform your sister or are you going to keep it quiet for a while? Use your own good judgment, just so you are all mine."

STATE WILL HIT 'LOVE OFFICE'

DETROIT, Sept. 2.—(INS)—Wilbert M. Brucker yesterday ordered the State Attorney General's department to proceed against the American Friendship Society of Detroit, the matrimonial agency which furnished Harry F. Powers, West Virginia's accused love butcher, with the names of his victims. An effort will be made to force the society out of business.

While this announcement came from the capital in Lansing, the Wayne County (Detroit) prosecutor's office began a check-up of more than 50 Detroit women whose names were furnished to Powers. The Governor said:

"Any agency which encourages hasty and ill-advised marriages, or aids parties to enter into the marriage relationship for a mercenary or illegal consideration, strikes at the very foundation of human societies and is a menace to the communities."

Joseph A. Gillis, assistant attorney general, announced that he would institute "quo warranto" proceedings, requiring the society to show by what right it existed under a state charter.

SPAIN ARRESTS EX-OFFICIALS

MADRID, Sept. 2.—(INS)—The threat of the Spanish Republican government to punish members of the directorate which held power in Spain for more than eight years materialized today.

Gen. Frederick Berenguer, brother of former Premier Damaso Berenguer, and a number of officers in the Berenguer cabinet were arrested and held for trial on charges of complicity in "unconstitutional acts."

Three generals and two admirals connected with the cabinet of De Rivera were imprisoned, and three other generals were expected to be taken into custody.

LONDON, Sept. 2.—(INS)—Serious strikes and riots continued today in various sections of Spain, it was stated in an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Barcelona. Nightlong rioting occurred at Saragossa, where the strikers erected barricades in the streets. Many were reported wounded in the fighting.

Fascists Imprison Belgian Professor

ROME, Sept. 2.—(AP)—Leo J. Moulin, young Belgian professor arrested here several months ago, today was sentenced to two years in prison and deportation at the end of his term, upon conviction on a charge of conspiracy against the Fascist state.

Two co-defendants, Vicceorio Albasini and Attaldo Fossati, also were sentenced to two years. Two were acquitted.

GANGSTER WAKE DRAWS CROWDS

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 2.—(AP)—A brief notice in the papers from the widow of Mickey Duffy, murdered racketeer, that friends may call Tuesday evening from 7 to 10 o'clock, drew thousands of curious persons to the $65,000 mansion of the gangster at Overbrook last night. Long before 7 p. m. police lines were set up to hold back the throngs. Autos were routed, barring automobiles parking within 200 yards of the place.

Although it became necessary for the police to turn their attention to handling the crowds, they were on duty at the Duffy home principally to search for friends and allies of the slain gang chief, who might come to pay their final respects prior to the funeral today.

The bystanders craned their necks and jostled to watch more than 30 florists' trucks draw up and discharge loads of floral tributes. Police said they expected a greater crowd for the funeral.

Meanwhile, the authorities lacked further clues to the identity of the persons who entered Duffy's suite in an Atlantic City hotel while he slept Saturday and fired four shots into him.

REES BOOMED AS CONTROLLER

At the Independent Republican headquarters, 5901 Penn avenue, last night, Ralph H. Frank, deputy attorney general, spoke in behalf of William T. Rees, candidate for County Controller. He told of the alleged manner in which the position of county statistician was created.

He said:

"Rees was chief clerk when Joseph G. Armstrong came into office, but Armstrong desired another man to do the dirty work at election time, so appointed Billy Ziefel. Rees was such a capable man that it was desired that he should be kept in office, so Armstrong created the job of county statistician and offered it to Rees. The latter declined and Armstrong doubled the salary and finally tripled it. Rees still declined to accept."

Frank also praised Charles C. McGovern. John D. Houston, Independent candidate for Council, spoke, as did Peter Beatty and Frank de Simone.

CROSSING ASKED AT AIRPORT

The Board of County Commissioners today filed two applications with S. Ray Shelby, public service commissioner, asking the commission to approve construction of a sub-grade crossing to the county airport, and to approve a contract with the Pennsylvania Railroad.

The sub-grade crossing on Highway 376, under the tracks of the Union Railroad in Mifflin Township, will provide main access to the airport. The railroad pays $40,000 and the county $16,000.

The contract with the Pennsylvania Railroad, involving the McKees Rocks Bridge over the road, provides the county maintain the bridge and assume responsibility for damages.

INDEPENDENTS SLATE TALKS

Three independent Republican candidates, County Commissioner C. C. McGovern and Councilman Robert Garland, seeking re-election, and Ralph H. Smith, running for District Attorney, are scheduled to address a class of 50 new members of the Roosevelt Civic Legion tonight at 8:30 in the organization's rooms, 318 Boggs avenue. Donald D. Mangone will preside.

Peter F. Beatty urged support for McGovern and his running mates in a speech last night in East End headquarters of the Independent Republicans, 5901 Penn avenue.

McGovern has been advised that Fort Pitt Division No. 672, Order of Railway Conductors, voted unanimously at a recent meeting to indorse the complete independent city and county tickets. The indorsing letter was forwarded by Chief Conductor John R. Herring and Secretary-Treasurer W. S. Sprague.

Stage Coach Bandit Dies in Prison at 82

CANON CITY, Col., Sept. 2.—(AP.)—Allen R. Downen, 82, "black phantom" stage coach robber of the old West, died in the Colorado State Penitentiary here yesterday. Downen had served 33 years of a life sentence for murder. He had been an invalid for 10 years.

Train Victim Found Dead Beside Tracks

Efforts were being made at the county morgue today to establish the identity of a man, about 35, whose body was found yesterday on the tracks in the Shore avenue yards of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad. He apparently had been struck by a train.

GLAMOROUS RADIO NIGHT :-: Kate Smith May Sing At Duquesne Garden

The Loudspeaker

By LOUIS REID

NEW YORK, Sept. 2.—Most of the alertness in the broadcasting seas is in keeping check upon the activities of rivals. Even the watchfulness that politicians are believed to exercise toward their opponents is insignificant in comparison.

Right now the watchfulness is based upon the warblings of baritones. Not the baritones of the concert stage, mind you, but those singers who have risen to important places in the radio parade from fairly obscure careers with dance orchestras. . . Right now most of the shooting is over the microphonic journeys of Bing Crosby and Russ Columbo. There is something of the box office about both names. Crosby would probably have gotten nowhere known merely as John or Richard. Columbo, too, sticks in one's memory.

Columbia searching over Europe for talent comes home to sign up Crosby as the third of its triumvirate of balladeers. N. B. C. counters at once with Columbo. And another ban mail wail is on. And another burst of prosperity for the Postal Department. . . We doubt if a radio-sponsored barnstorming tour is sufficient compensation to aviators for their continuous menus of creamed chicken and green peas. Lindbergh refuses to align himself exclusively with any broadcasting group. Come one, come all is his platform. Well, they say the broadcasting groups are largely responsible for his recent display of graciousness at aviation fields. . . Commercial broadcasters continue to track down noted stage names believing them the quickest and surest approach to the national eardrums. Eddie Cantor comes now into their corral for a series of broadcasts. But not so much as a comedian as a singer of popular songs. Were Cantor to study seriously radio technique his role of microphone comedian might be considered as important as that of a radio singer.

Rajahs of the air are becoming more painstaking in their interpretations of famous people. They have even invaded Europe this Summer to learn at first hand the voices and mannerisms of Mussolini, Laval, Lloyd George, believing that these three are to figure largely in the news of 1931's declining months. . . The March of Time programs were the first to attempt impersonations of living notables. Other broadcasts are now to tear leaves from Time's notebook.

Come to think of it we've never heard Mr. Alphonse Capone of the Chicago and Miami Beach Capones impersonated on the air. . . Songwriters found short shrift for tunes bearing such labels as "Good Times Are Here Again." They now place such lyric assertions in the future—taking out the word "Here" substituting "Coming." They can't very well go wrong with "Good Times Are Coming Again."

We Now Present

By Darrell V. Martin, Radio Editor

Darrell V. Martin

on the same concert Olive Palmer interprets Cadman's inspiring "Land of the Sky Blue Water" and Paul Oliver sings Chauncey Olcott's lovely ballad "My Wild Irish Rose." Dennis King recites Kipling's poem "Boots" on WJAS at 7:15. . . . WCAE introduces something different at 8 o'clock when Marjory Stewart interviews Judge Sara Soffel on Girls' Problems. . . . Hurrah for "Snoop and Peep" who return to WCAE at 8:15 followed at 8:30 by Gladys Rice and Male Chorus in Rimsky-Korsakoff's entrancing "Song of India." There's fun, too, in the WLW Follies on KQV at 9 with Don Becker the big woofenpoof in the Lavendar Network's version of "Goldilocks and the Three Bears." . . . Rita Gould the actress on WJAS at 10. There are two aces on Grantland Rice's Interview Series, WCAE at 10:30—first Bobby Jones and second James Melton singing by special request "Song of Songs" and "Hills of Home."

* * *

Kate Smith may be brought here for the Radio Electrical Show in Duquesne Garden. Jim Simpson told us yesterday . . . he would like to have your suggestions on talent . . . What stars would you like to see and hear in person" . . . address your letters to this department and they will be delivered to Mr. Simpson . . . write before Saturday.

* * *

No artists have been engaged yet, but Mr. Simpson feels that he will sign George Frame Browne, Mayor Matt Thompkins, Graham McNamee and Jessica Dragonette when he visits New York next week.

* * *

Question a Day:

Last fall there was some kind of a dancing class on the radio. Will it be back this year?—Esther K. Dormont.

Answer—Arthur Murray's Dancing Class is scheduled to reconvene this Saturday at 7:30 on WABC (860 kc). It is the only dancing class we remember hearing on the air.

* * *

As extra specials tonight you might dial Nick Lucas on WEAF, WGY at 7 . . . and C. L. Menser's "Miniature Theater" production on WJZ (760 kc.) at 8.

* * *

Studio Lights

Uncle Henry and "The Editor" bring their program back to WJZ-KDKA on Sunday night, September 13 with Congressman LaGuardia of New York as guest speaker. . . .

Lives of great composers—Beethoven, Mossenet, Tschaikowsky, Schubert—are to be dramatized in musical form on the Birthday Party (WCAE) starting Thursday, September 10. . . . Charles K. Field, who is "Cheerio" on the red network in the morning, continues as master of ceremonies. . . .

The Boswell Sisters, in Cincinnati this week, wire that they anticipate a great time when they come to Pittsburgh the week of October 4 . . . so do we. . . .

One of our better known announcers is displaying beaucup class these days in an eight-cylinder coupe . . . when an announcer can afford an eight-cylinder car that's news. . . .

And they say that Fred Webber has purchased a new car . . . he starts to work at KDKA next Tuesday, exactly two years from the date he started to work for WCAE. . . .

Ed "Thundering" Thorgerson has fallen for Marjorie Lavoc in Ziegfeld's "Follies."

We're hoping that some local soprano puts a twist on "I Passed By Your Window" pretty soon. . . .

Dr. Royal S. Copeland will discuss "Stomach Health and Diet" on WJAS tomorrow morning at 10.

They say Bing Crosby wasn't sick at all in that Monday night disappointment . . . moneys troubles of some sort with the musical leaders in New York . . . but he came through with a bang last night. . . .

"Melody Moments" departs from the usual ballyhoo in radio programs on KDKA at 8:30 tonight, making only a bare reference to the sponsor's newspaper advertising in the commercial credit. . . .

Day School	Evening
Sept. 14	Sept. 15

Life Drawing and painting; living models, no casts. Instruction day and evening by Vincent Nesbert, head. Mr. Nesbert's portraits, murals and miniatures have won him distinction in Europe and America.

Advertising Art, newspaper and magazine illustration, pen drawing and poster design, lettering, layout, etc., taught day and evening by Willis Shook, director, and Barney Moore, senior member of "The Associated Designers of Pittsburgh." Both artists have an unusually broad experience in practical Art, both studied in Europe.

Fashion Drawing and Department Store Illustration. Day classes taught by Miss Sallee Watkins, evening school by Miss Marbelle Russel. Miss Watkins is now doing notable work in New York. Miss Russel is staff artist with Kaufmann's.

Interior Decoration, day and evening classes instructed by Charles Burns, whose Chicago work excited very favorable comment. Mr. Burns is the youngest artist to have exhibited paintings in The International, Carnegie Galleries.

All subjects but Interior Decoration on Saturday mornings also.

Every Good Preacher Today Is Good Actor, Also, Rev. Tiernan Says

By HARRISON CARROLL

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 2.

William Tiernan, pastor of a Los Angeles church, has donned grease-paint to portray a minister in Radio Pictures' inquisitive problem drama, "Are These Our Children?"

Eddie Quillan

SUCH IGNORANCE

[illegible] De Mille writes to Barbara Kent, [illegible] actress: "Culver City, Calif. This town has had no new building for almost 200 years. Even M. G. M. and De Mille pictures are unknown here."

LATEST GOSSIP

[illegible] Hollywood studios. [illegible] imported trees and shrubbery for back-lot [illegible] scenes, which failed to foster a plentiful sprinkling of woodsbreak. As a result, Eddie Quillan can't work before the camera at R-K-O-Pathe and Director Woody Van Dyke is spending all his comfortable time at M. G. M. Jeanette Loff was exposed [illegible] appeals to have [illegible] Edmund Lowe quit motion pictures after [illegible] Fox in a part. He aspires to [illegible] his mouth. His work in "Transgression" will [illegible] plenty of offers so he isn't worrying. The last time his contract was up, Fox snatched him from Pathe in the nick of time. . . . Cloudy weather will not mess up schedules of Paramount location companies in the future. Each will be provided with a portable interior set. No additional electrical equipment will be required. When the sun won't shine, the company spirits will move into its emergency sound stage. . . . The new Mascagni comedy will have another cinema celebrity in its cast. John Brown, a 400-pound bear which has played in pictures for 11 years. One of the animal's best roles was in Charlie Chaplin's "The Gold Rush." They even have it's name and telephone number in the casting directories. Dorothy Sebastian, Ned Sparks and Antonio Moreno have the principal human roles in the comedy.

Dorothy Sebastian

BOLES' LAST

John Boles' last role at Universal will be the romantic lead in "Murders of the Rue Morgue." This talkie version of Poe's famous mystery story goes into production within a short time at the Carl Laemmle plant. Bela Lugosi, "Count Dracula," will enact the role of Dr. Miracle.

Universal has a special arrangement with Boles for this picture as his contract ends on the fifteenth of this month.

With all the revived interest in musicals, this actor should be in a position to make an immediate and advantageous connection at another studio.

Cinderella

Janet Gaynor is a sort of Cinderella in "Merely Mary Ann," opening Friday on the Stanley screen. She's a little drudge, who turns out to be a heiress.

Tilden Tennis Pictures Coming to Penn

The Tilden tennis reels, the first of which comes to the Penn starting Friday, were made by Metro-Goldyn-Mayer, to show how America's Davis Cup star rose to international fame. Players of the net game will be able to learn his strokes. In the series Tilden shows the three stages of tennis: beginner, intermediate and championship. In the first reel, titled "Tennis Technique," which will be seen here Friday, the first steps of the game are shown, with footwork, back and forehand strokes, serves and all preliminary angles. After explaining the various grips, he demonstrates how to put them into action.

Players of Settlement To Hold Meeting

The Irene Kaufmann Settlement players, prominent and active little theater group, will meet Thursday evening in the Theresa L. Kaufmann Auditorium, Center avenue. There will be election of officers and discussion of plans for productions of the coming season, as well as selection of additions to casts. As usual, the production plans contemplate an evening of one-act plays by Pittsburgh authors.

WALTER WINCHELL On Broadway

Anguish?

Oh, you are out tonight with some tall lad,
His silver lies are beating in your brain—
And little time you're given to be sad
For madness that will not return again;
I see you now—your dark enchanting lure,
I hear your laugh—a bell gone gay in Spring;
But love is sweet—and I am very sure
You've little time to be remembering.

You'll dance a bit—he'll hold you very close
And whisper words that seem so strange and new;
From club to club you'll journey, I suppose,
And think each tune is played for just you two;

You're out tonight—and love lies cold and dead—

—Young Man of Manhattan.

Signs of Early Fall

Three so-so shows are produced in a row. . . . A dozen ex-ushers, boxoffice men and press agents announce their list of productions. . . . The bill posters call with window display cards and complimentary tickets for storekeepers. . . . Sexy shows which attract sour notices take large ads in the amusement pages announcing how risque they are. . . . Earl Carroll's "Vanities" is handed a spanking and the actors in the show alibi it to friends by saying that the critic who wrote it is on Ziegfeld's payroll.

In Other Words

Pepigrams

Observed on the walls over the bar of a 56th st. speakeasy: "A woman's past is either scandalously indecent or shamefully uninteresting. . . . What a pity to be born a rascal and be handicapped by a conscience. . . . A woman who loves does not fear ridicule; a man in love knows no pride. . . . Nothing kills love like an overdose of it."

Newspaperman Stuff

Fanned by the desire to have the United Press staff men well-grounded in literature that would assist them in their work, the news editor recently asked those of the higher-ups to submit a list of authors whose works they would especially recommend.

The concensus was taken and the list placed on the bulletin board — Dickens, Chekhov, Stevenson and many others being included. But the U. P. boys, in their desire to aid reporters in reporting, omitted the greatest of them all—O. Henry.

And they belt overcoats!

Merciless Truth

One of the better newspaper fables deals with the fed-up managing editor who stormed into the office and wanted to know why his staff always called a gunman a bandit.

"Because," interrupted a copy-reader, "a re-write man never can remember whether the 'e' or the 'i' comes first in 'thief.'"

Love

As found by Burton Rascoe: It is like the devil because it torments us; like heaven because it wraps the soul in bliss; like salt because it is relishing; like pepper because it often sets one on fire; like sugar because it is sweet; like a rope because it is often the death of man; like a prison because it makes one miserable; like wine because it makes us happy; like a man because it is here today and gone tomorrow; like a woman because there is no getting rid of it; like a beacon because it guides us to the wished-for port; like a will o' the wisp because it often leads one into a bog; like the bite of a mad dog or the kiss of a pretty woman because they both make a man mad; like a goose because it is silly; in a word, it is like a ghost because it is like everything and like nothing — often talked about, never seen, touched or understood!

Anything for a Laugh

One of A. Woollcott's better anecdotes is the one about Harpo Marx and Heifetz, the renowned fiddler. The boys were reminiscing over their childhood days.

Heifetz was most sentimental about them.

"When I was 7," he said, "I gave my first recital. And I have been a self-supporting citizen ever since!"

"You don't say," said Harpo, "and before that I suppose you were just a bum."

O, Mr. Wilstach!

Suggested for the Best Similes dictionary: A. Schwartz's Disappointing as a columnist's mail. . . . M. Simmons: She dangled like a participle in a movie ad. . . . A. Rosenfeld's: Horrified as a Hollywood movie actor when he sees his face on the cutting room floor. . . . Samuel Miller's: Fickle as a cheap shirt, and Martha Leavitt's: Necessary as the second drink.

Love Is a Terrible Thing

It was after curfew time in one of the speakeasies. One of the sirens with lovely eyes from the Ziegfeld menagerie was trading white lies with a newly-made boy friend.

"I hope you won't think me rude," he ga-ga'd, "but do your eyes bother you?"

"Nh-nh," she nah-nh'd.

"They bother me," he sighed.

A Bit of a Critic

The good fortune of Jack Diamond, who manages to Keep Missable, brings the story of the mountaineer whose feuding neighbors had tried to kill him for 20 years. They fired at least a thousand bullets at him.

The other day the Diamond of the Hills committed suicide. Before doing so he left a farewell note. It read:

"To whom it may concern: I'd rather die than live in a community with such terrible marksmen!"

Heheheh

It is J. H. Pollack's suggestion that if Coolidge resumes his daily essays, he accept these epigrams. The future may be better or worse . . . When a child is born it is either a boy or a girl . . . People are dead or alive . . . Everything is the same or different.

Nifty

Wilson Mizner, one of the funnier clowns, is reported going deaf. This must please Wilson, for now he won't have to listen to the other fellow's quips, which rarely are as comical as his own.

Mizner, among other things, once was a tipster on the races, and ran his own racing tip office in New York. He advertised as follows:

(Copyright, 1931, Daily Mirror, Inc.)

Norma Shearer to Star In 'Private Lives'

"Private Lives," the adaptation of Noel Coward's stage play of the same name, will be Norma Shearer's next Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture, with Robert Montgomery playing opposite her. Sidney Franklin, who has just completed a picturization of "The Guardsman," co-starring Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne, will direct "Private Lives," and the new film is expected to get under way in the near future.

Modern Girl

Joan Crawford has the heroine role in "This Modern Age," a story of Parisian life, opening Friday in the Penn.

Lois Wilson In Films To Stay

Lois Wilson yesterday denied reports that she is planning retirement from the screen in favor of the stage, as reported in Hollywood. The actress, who has just completed work in one of the principal roles in "The Age For Love," the Howard Hughes production, declares that she is back in pictures to stay.

Shortly prior to the advent of the talkies, Miss Wilson left the movies, in which she had been a fixture for years, and for two years she made a name for herself upon the stage. Last March, however, she was lured back to Hollywood to play a part in "Seed," and that single role did more for her than half a dozen stage parts.

It also brought her the opportunity to be included in the cast of "The Age For Love," in which she worked with Billie Dove, Charles Starrett, Edward Everett Horton, Mary Duncan, Betty Ross Clarke and Adrian Morris, brother of Chester. The picture will be seen in New York in about a month.

Clark Gable Gets Lead In Crawford Film

Clark Gable, whose most recent screen roles were in "A Free Soul" and "Sporting Blood," has been given the male lead opposite Joan Crawford in "The Mirage." This picturization of Edgar Selwyn's play of the same name will be directed by Clarence Brown, who directed "A Free Soul."

Plays, Players and By-Play

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

Comes a hot bulletin from Sophie Tucker's favorite writer, her press agent, to the effect that Soph will sail from Plymouth, England, tomorrow for the land of liberty. Of course we mean America, ha hah. Miss Tucker has been abroad 14 months showing the folks over there what a big timer looks like. For seven of them she was the star of a London revue. Follow a Star," then for six others she vaudevilled London, British provinces and Paree. That leves one to account for, and that mouth she spent resting in Southern France and Italy.

* * *

Small Timer says he was served with some chops the other day that were so well named that he had to call for a hatchet.

* * *

Jane Cowl is to give a production of "Camille" ish there, Capt. Menke's in Los Angeles. She is to draw from the Hollywood studios for her cast and will have Gilbert Roland opposite her as Armand. Henry Davidson, an ex-stager in the movies, also will be in the company.

* * *

Small Timer says that though politicians may be able to carry water on both shoulders, and even have water on the knee, they hip-hip-hoorah for votes with something else.

* * *

Irene Franklin, who was one of vaudeville's pets, has become a regular "actress" and is appearing in Los Angeles in "Ada Beats the Drum," of which Harry Bolan'd once was the percussionist.

* * *

Small Timer says the guy who doesn't know his luck is the one who has no lucky charm in the winning of wimmin.

* * *

Billy Smyre, last season leading man of Capt. Menke's Golden Rod players at Montrose, is knuckling the doors of Hollywood's studios. Billy, a Pennsylvanian, is remembered as a sort of handsome chap and they do tell that "looks" is no handicap in the movies.

* * *

Box Office in Academy Opens Thursday

The Academy box office will open Thursday morning for the seat sale for the first burlesque attraction of the season, "Satan's Daughters," Columbia Circuit production which opens with a matinee Saturday. The regular daily matinees, evening shows and Sunday midnight performances will be continued in the Academy as in former seasons.

Billy Hagan, comedian; Nazarro Hallo and Billie Diamond will be the leading players in "Satan's Daughters." It is in two acts and 30 scenes and has been in rehearsal in the Academy for three weeks.

BARES 'HYMIE' BRIBE OFFER

CLEVELAND, Sept. 2.—(AP.)—Waning public interest in the investigation of circumstances surrounding the murder seven months ago of former Councilman William E. Potter had been revived today by charges from Mrs. Margaret Laub that Jean J. Redlich, ex-convict, had offered her husband money to repudiate his testimony given in the trial of "Pittsburgh Hymie" Martin.

Previously saying a "bribe" attempt had been made, Mrs. Laub did not make known the name of the alleged briber until last night. Her husband, Fred Laub, gave testimony instrumental in sending Martin to prison for life.

Mrs. Laub, who with her husband expects to be present at a hearing here September 14, said both she and Laub had been threatened recently and told to "stay off of One Hundred and Fifth street."

2ND AX ATTACK VICTIM DIES

George Yurka, 48, of Renton, one of three persons attacked with an ax by John Kiski, who ran amuck in the mining settlement August 23, died last night in Citizens General Hospital, New Kensington, from pneumonia which followed a fractured skull, the Coroner's office reported. Yurka was the second to die as a result of the attack.

Joseph Eushvsky, who also suffered a fractured skull, died in the hospital last Thursday. The condition of the third victim, Catherine Zimmerling, 3, was still regarded as serious.

Kiski was arrested after the attacks and taken to a state insane asylum at Torrance, Pa., from which he had been released some time ago, according to the Coroner's report.

All In A Day

By Mark Hellinger

Unsung New Yorkers

WALTON SAT WITH his feet on his desk and turned the pages of his morning paper. As he glanced at the various columns he sighed heavily. As a matter of fact, he hadn't the slightest idea of what he was reading. For Walton was in love. Sadly, madly, badly in love.

And why, you ask, should that cause a man to sigh? Well, it's all very simple. Walton was a publicity man, which is sufficient cause for moaning right off the bat. More than that, the girl he loved was an actress—and not a particularly good one. She wanted publicity, because she was one of those curious stage people who believed that publicity would get you further than talent.

Thus the situation. Maybelle was a grand girl and Walton would have given five years from his life to land her on the front pages without going in for too much scandal.

He shook his head and sighed again. He picked up another paper and looked over the front page. A story met his eye. With the name changed, the headlines read as follows:

"Serge Militar, Noted Explorer and Aviator, to Arrive on Wednesday. Will Spend Several Weeks in U. S. Mayor to Greet One of World's Most Famous Bachelors."

The last word caused Walton to slide his feet from the dask and sit suddenly erect. When a man is world-famous, he is always a great publicity tie-up. When the girl is an actress and the man is single, the result is almost inevitable. A joyous gleam crept into Walton's eyes. This was Maybelle's great opportunity to make the front page. At last the break had arrived!

He reached for his phone and called the sacred number. A sleepy voice responded.

"Maybelle, darling!" cried the publicity man. "Wake up, Maybelle. I've got the greatest idea in the world, honey. I'm going to put you on the front pages.

"The idea hit me in a flash. Serge Militar arrives here on Wednesday. And you're engaged to be married to him."

"Yes?" murmured the girl. "Well, that part's all right. But who is the guy?"

The press agent was vaguely annoyed.

"Stop fooling, Maybelle," he asserted. "You must have heard of him. He's that very famous explorer and aviator. And he's one of those babies who has never been tied up with a dame. Promised his ailing mother, or his dying uncle, or something like that.

"At any rate, he never has anything to do with the ladies, even though plenty of them have tossed themselves in his path. When your engagement to him is announced it'll be an absolute sensation. Plenty of the papers will suspect it's a phony, but every sheet in the country will have to print it. You'll be famous, darling."

Maybelle asked another disconcerting question.

"But, darling," she said, "what will we do when he arrives and denies any such engagement?"

"We'll worry about that when the time comes, baby. Get dressed and I'll call you back. I'm going right to work on this. Bye-bye, baby. Your daddy loves you."

He placed the receiver on the hook and drew a pair of shears from his desk. With a song on his lips, he cut the lucky headline from the paper and tacked it on the wall. Then he stood and smiled at it triumphantly.

"Thank you, Serge," he murmured. "Thank you for the opportunity of making Maybelle and me two of the happiest people in the world." . . .

The following morning Walton had made good on his promise to Maybelle. It had been the simplest thing in the world. He had sent a fake cable from the boat to Maybelle. It was written in the most endearing terms and was signed by Serge. He had called a close friend on a morning paper and had given him the tip. That paper printed the engagement announcement on the front page. And the second edition of every other paper carried practically the same line. Maybelle was famous at last!

This time the girl called him.

"It's all very wonderful," she said, "but I'm worried. What am I going to do when that man gets here?"

"Just you leave it in my hands, baby," Walton enthused. "I won't let you go wrong. Leave it all to papa. I'll call you back later."

Once again he hung up the receiver and drew forth the shears. His eyes sought out a new headline.

"Serge Militar Engaged" it read. "Cables Actress Sweetheart from Boat to Announce Engagement. Famous Bachelor to Wed Soon."

Walton cut that headline from the paper and tacked it up beside the first one. He blew them both a kiss, bowed low and went back to work . . .

When the boat that carried Serge Militar pulled into Quarantine early Wednesday morning, Maybelle was among the group of reporters who had been sent down the bay to meet him. Walton had managed to get the precious pass from his friend on that morning paper. The actress was disguised, of course, so that none of the regular reporters might recognize her. And she had her specific instruction from Walton.

"You will get in there first," he told her, "and tell Militar that he'll have to say the engagement is on the level. Tell him you'll break it off as soon as the publicity dies away. And tell him that, if he doesn't agree, you'll sue him for breach of promise and hound him with trouble."

Such were the orders that Maybelle was to carry out. The first one she carried out in splendid fashion. She was the first in Serge's cabin. But from that point she struck out on her own.

With tears streaming down her cheeks, Maybelle told the nice aviator that a bold, bad man had made her do this thing. She had begged the bad man not to make such a terrible announcement, but he had threatened to kill both her and Serge unless she went through with it. As she spoke, she sobbed mightily. She might have been a Cherry Sister in front of an audience, but she certainly did a swell job in that cabin.

The aviator believed her. He begged for the name of the bad man, but Maybelle shivered with fear and cried out that nothing could drag it from her lips. A look of terror shone from her eyes. And the famous bachelor placed an arm about her in tender fashion.

"You poor girl," he murmured softly. "You poor, beautiful child" . . .

About a week later Walton sat in his office and read a third headline.

"Serge Militar Weds," it read. "Famed Aviator and Beautiful Actress in Secret Ceremony. Maybelle to Leave Stage."

Mechanically the press agent drew out his shears and clipped the headline from the paper. He took the first headline from the wall and tossed it into the basket. He did the same with the second—and the same with the third.

Then he went out and got drunk. And I think he has been that way ever since . . . .

U. S. Holds 2 Men In Freight Thefts

Ellwood Shafer, 27, and James Gregory, 22, of Middletown road, were held for court by United States Commissioner, charged with stealing three cases containing 28 pairs of shoes, out of a freight car, Scully yards, Pennsylvania Railroad, on February 17.

At the hearing a statement alleged to have been made by the two defendants was read, in which they admitted stealing 15 hams and 175 pounds of white lead from other freight shipments. They were arrested by railroad police, and the complaint was filed by a special agent of the Department of Justice.

3D GROSS CHILD SHARES TRUST

CHICAGO, Sept. 2.—(AP.)—Attorneys for Capt. Christian Channing Gross, soldier and diplomat, were under orders today to lay before Superior Judge Joseph B. David a modified decree of divorce which specifies that Gross is the father of 3-year-old Anna, a daughter born to his wife after their separation.

The decree will specify that Anna is to share with two other Gross children in the $1,000,000 trust fund which Gross established.

Capt. Gross, attached to the American Legation in Ottawa, Canada, had asked Judge David to set aside his previously granted divorce from Virginia Harrison Gross pending the determination of Anna's parentage.

Patricia Pitt's Sprightly Comment on Pittsburgh Society Happenings

In Mayfair —With— Patricia Pitt

I have news of further activities of the Rolling Rock Hunt. Malcolm McGiffin, president, has announced the annual meeting of the hunt to be held Monday evening, September 14, at 8:30 o'clock. The members will meet at the residence of Richard Beatty Mellon, Fifth avenue.

The purpose of the meeting is to elect officers for the ensuing year, and transact other hunt affairs. Richard King Mellon is master of fox hounds, you know, and Herbert A. May is secretary.

Whenever a wedding date is named a cycle of entertainments follows, and now that a bride of this month whose wedding date was announced some time ago has returned from summering in Hyannisport a galaxy of bridge luncheons and teas are being planned for her. She is Elizabeth Gidney, daughter of the Herbert A. Gidneys of Devonshire street. On Thursday, September 10 she will become the bride of Dr. H. Kingsley Elder of Philadelphia, son of Mrs. Carrie F. Elder of Brownsville, Pa., at 5:30 o'clock that afternoon in Calvary Episcopal Church. The Rev. Dr. E. Van Etten will officiate.

And before I tell you of the social affairs there is the bridal party you'll want to know about. The maid of honor will be Priscilla B. Gidney, and the bridesmaids will include Katherine MacClosky, Margaret Patterson, Sally Royston and Sally Rodgers, of Monongahela, Pa. Herbert A. Gidney, Jr., small brother of the bride-elect, will be a page.

Bridge Party

Serving as best man will be Dr. F. G. Reed of Indianapolis, Ind., and the ushers will be Dr. Thomas Parke, Dr. O. C. King and Wallace McClenahan, of Philadelphia; Robert J. Boyd, Pittsburgh; William G. Johnstone, Jr., Lancaster, Pa., and Dr. Eric T. Hershiom, of Oil City.

There will be a reception in the Pittsburgh Country Club, Beechwood boulevard, after the ceremony.

Today Priscilla Gidney and Sally Rodgers are entertaining for Elizabeth at an informal tree-seat tea in the Gidney home. Saturday Sally Royston will be hostess at a bridge-luncheon in the Pittsburgh Field Club, and that evening Mrs. R. L. Wilson is to entertain in the Pittsburgh Country Club with a dinner-dance.

Honored With Tea

On Monday there will be a buffet supper and barn dance given by Margaret Patterson at her summer home in Valencia, Pa., and Tuesday the Herbert A. Gidneys will entertain the bridal party with a dinner in their home. And Wednesday, September 9, Mrs. E. C. Bothwell will be hostess at a luncheon in the Twentieth Century Club, and the rehearsal dinner in the Longue Vue Country Club is to be given by Katherine MacCloskey.

CONVENTION PROGRAM CROWDED

Council of Catholic Women Will Hear Bishops Boyle and Kelley On Opening Day of Meeting

The Pittsburgh Council of Catholic Women has arranged a crowded program for the two day diocesan convention which will be representative of the 10 counties of Western Pennsylvania. The convention will open with mass in St. Paul's Cathedral at 10 o'clock the morning of September 23. In the sanctuary will be Bishop Hugh C. Boyle, accompanied by the Very Rev. Joseph Callahan and the Rev. J. B. Barry, as chaplains; the Rev. Ph. H. Callery, celebrant, and the Rev. John C. Fallon and the Rev. Ralph L. Hayes, as deacons. The sermon will be by the Rt. Rev. Francis C. Kelley, bishop of Oklahoma City and Tulsa.

After mass and the sermon the women will reassemble in Synod Hall, North Craig street, with the president, Mrs. Mary T. Horan, in the chair. The address of welcome will be given by Bishop Boyle and will be followed by an informal talk by Bishop Kelley. The convention luncheon at Webster Hall will be marked by a musicale and program of speeches. The music will be furnished by the girls' orchestra of Duquesne University, Miss Viola Voelker directing, and Miss Agnes Gamble, soloist. Guest speakers will include Miss Mary G. Hawks, of Summit, N. J., president of the National Council of Catholic Women, who will have as her topic "Schools of Social Service in Europe and the United States;" the Rev. Sigmund Cratz, of Pittsburgh, on "International Peace," Sister Mary Rose, of Mercy Hospital, "Spirit of a Catholic Hospital;" Miss Maxie McSwigan on "Journalism," Mrs. Marie Tello Phillips, who will read her own poems.

The evening program will consist of an informal reception and musicale for delegates, members and friends. The Queens Daughters are to be hostesses under Miss Eleanor Durkin as chairman. The singers will be Margaret DeWalt Riehl and Lenora P. Shea, and the speakers the Rev. Leo A. McCrory, who will have "Reminiscences" as his subject, Miss Hawks speaking on "The National Council of Catholic Women and International Affiliations," Miss Ada K. Gannon "Danger in the Offing," and Miss Eleanor Durkin on "Queen's Daughters."

Evening Program

On Thursday, September 24 there will be morning and afternoon business sessions at Council House, with reports of executive officers and convention committees, and election of directors and executive officers.

* * *

The year's activities will be inaugurated by the Gen. John Neville Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, with a luncheon Tuesday in the home of the regent, Mrs. John S. Kelso, Avalon. Music and vacation experiences will make up part of the program and, in addition, Mrs. Robert McCrea, chairman of the committee on historic spots, will speak of places of historic interest near Pittsburgh.

Opening Season

Among other events which the chapter has planned for the year are a tour of Gen. Neville's home where an address will be made by Attorney A. C. Smith; a colonial party in February and a visit to the Western Pennsylvania Historical Society in April.

* * *

Co-operating with the women's division of the Council of Churches in the citizenship luncheon to be given September 10, are the Allegheny County Women's Christian Temperance Union, the Young Women's Christian Association, the Women's City Club, the American Association of University Women and the Union Missionary Association. Judge Sara Soffel is to address the meeting, which has been called to arouse the women to a responsibility of their citizenship. The affair will be held in Kaufmann's in charge of Mrs. P. N. Jones, Mrs. William H. Schuette and Mrs. William Sturgeon.

* * *

Three chapters, the Robert Swan, Franklin and Friendship Order of the Eastern Star, have combined to hold a corn roast in the Eastern Star Temple, South Highland avenue, next Wednesday. Dancing and cards will supplement the corn roast.

O. E. S. Affair

* * *

NEWEST GOWNS AND WRAPS REFLECT VICTORIAN DAYS

Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, Sept. 2.—Most of the couturiers on this side of the world are stressing Victorian and Second Empire motifs in their new collections of gowns and wraps. Such revivals, as you may have noticed in the past, are usually accepted by very few. Those living fashion plates who talk, eat and sleep fashions will no doubt be quick to accept the new creations. But for those of us who must be active and therefore modern in our choice of clothes, there are still a number of exquisite and sensible clothes to choose from.

* * *

AS TO MATERIALS—woolens in varied weaves are being launched for many of the new frocks. Lelong has an interesting jersey afternoon frock that is worn with a velveteen jacket in a contrasting shade. For afternoon wear moires, plain printed and brocaded will be used and the same material will enjoy evening popularity.

* * *

THE AFTERNOON ensemble illustrated today was worn recently by the Comtesse de Sanjust. It is of sand-colored crepe and a creation of Chanel. The belted sleeveless frock has a draped bodice tucked horizontally across the front with the folds drawn up toward the shoulders. The long skirt is very much flared and of circular cut. A long-sleeved little coat of the same fabric crosses in surplice fashion and is held together by means of a narrow belt of the material tying at one side. The accessories completing this costume are of dark brown.

* * *

AN INTERESTING evening gown from Lelong's mid-season collection is also sketched. The flaring short tunic which forms the bodice is of dark green velvet trimmed with motifs of radiating pin tucking at the back. These tucks are just barely visible from the front view. The top motif edges the V shaped decolletage in back and the lower one is placed at the waistline just back of one hip and heads a gore of the material, giving the crisp flare noted at that side. A jeweled clasp fastens the narrow belt. The skirt is composed entirely of box-pleats stitched part way down. The top of each pleat is velvet, the under sides and spaces visible between the pleats as they flare are of matching green tulle.

Miss Lydia Luck And New Jersey Man Marry

Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Luck, of Brookline boulevard, announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Lydia Luck, to Clarence M. Segraves, of Orange, N. J., which was solemnized in the Luck home on Saturday, August 22. Officiating was the Rev. Wilson E. Kelley of the Brookline Methodist Episcopal Church.

The bride has been a vocal student in New York for the past two years, and the bridegroom attended Carnegie Tech and is a graduate of Pratt University. He is the son of Mrs. Bertha Segraves of New York. Immediately after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Segraves left for the East and after October 1 will be at home in Orange, N. J.

League for Peace Aims At Collect of 250 Cats

To save at least 250 cats in the caravan that will take their thousands of signed petitions for total universal disarmament to President Hoover on October 18, is the immediate aim of the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom, according to the national cats-an members who are in Pittsburgh yesterday.

The travelers, who left Los Angeles on June 21, were met near the Ohio line by the cats of Pittsburgh W. I. L. members and motorcycle policeman and escorted to the City-County Building where they were welcomed by Mayor Charles H. Kline.

Last night a dinner was given at the Rittenhouse in their honor and in honor of Mrs. David Alter, a pioneer in the peace movement, who is sailing Sunday for a year's stay abroad. Mrs. Alter, who is to be accompanied by her daughter, Geraldine, will attend the League of Nations session this fall and the disarmament conference next February.

Honor Traveler

In the absence of Mrs. Norman W. Storer, the Pittsburgh branch president, Mrs. Joseph Schlechter, presided at the dinner, presented Mrs. Alter with a boat cruise gift and introduced Miss Dorothy Cook, of Washington, who was driver of the caravan all the way from the west coast. Her observations on the trip and the honors everywhere accorded the party were both illuminating and amusing.

Mrs. Cook Speaks

Mrs. Cook spoke at the meeting of Peck Training School last night, when each of the six caravaners spoke. Miss Cook discussed the armament race as a means of solving the economic problems of the world. Miss Fannie Kaufmann, foreign-born citizen of the United States, made a stirring appeal for the conservation and development of the youth of the world and pleaded that the peace principles of Christianity be practiced through everyday life even to the councils of the nations. Miss Louise Weh, of Starkville, Miss., whose distinctive southern accent was branded somewhere on the northern journey of the caravan as "un-American," told a little of the trip. Mrs. John S. Pollanabee, of New Hope, one of the two Pennsylvania members of the group, stated that Great Britain and Japan each have 1,000,000 signatures to the disarmament petition.

Peace

The final speaker was Miss Katherine Dexter McBlake, whose ancestor, five generations back, founded Columbia University. This super-haired, resolute-nosed, forceful woman stressed the importance of the February conference and quoted Secretary Stimson to the effect that now is the psychological time for disarmament. She spoke eloquently of the futility of war and termed the League's work for peace as "upholding the program that has always been America's as outlined for the states by the country's founders."

DELLER HEADS COUNTY LEGION

John J. Deller, of Wilmerding, was last night elected and installed as county commander of the American Legion at meeting in Fort Pitt Hotel. Other officers elected and installed were Robert K. Cochrane, Jr., North Side, senior vice commander; Karl Goldsthow, Duquesne, junior vice commander; Walter P. Grimm, Brentwood, finance officer; Howard F. Croushore, Wilmerding, adjutant, and John T. Ayres, Dormont, sergeant at arms. The installation was by the retiring county commander, John B. Nicklas, Jr. Trophies were presented to the winners of the golf tournament recently held.

Eagle Attempts To Carry Away Police Dog

CHARLEROI, Pa., Sept. 2.—Believed to be an eagle or buzzard, a huge bird with a spread of more than seven feet attacked a police dog belonging to W. R. Craven, of Maple View, and when the dog escaped the bird swooped down in the barnyard of Mike Searnick, nearby, and made off with two chickens.

The police dog, weighing 40 pounds, fought with the bird and escaped with minor injuries. The dog had been walking with its master and emerged from a thicket to cross a field as the eagle swooped down and attempted to carry it off. Craven said:

Don't Let Physical Defects Rob You of Happiness

"Can a cripple find love?"

That was the wistful unhappy question that Stella asked us.

Lonely, heart-hungry little Stella, who longed for the beauty and love and fun and romance she saw showered on others, while she looked on from the side lines.

Little Stella, who once had been gay and straight and strong herself, until sickness had struck her down, twisted her body and put bitterness in her soul.

A HAPPY HOME

"Of course she can," says Jeanne. Listen while I tell you a story."

"Dear Sally:

"I've read the story of Stella and I feel so sorry for her. But I would like to tell her a story, too. I am sure it will cheer her up.

"When I was a little girl in grammar school, a chum of mine took me home with her for a visit one day. It followed that I was a frequent visitor there for a period of 15 years, sometimes spending weeks at a time with her family. And I remembered it as the sweetest home, the happiest family that I have ever known. It was quite plain that the father, a highly intelligent man, and an architect by profession had married the mother for love, and was still in love with her.

"The children—there were six of them being children of love, and surrounded by love were constantly expressing love in doing everything possible for each other and for their father's and mother's happiness and comfort.

MOTHER CRIPPLED

"They were not wealthy, but merely comfortable. The mother was kept busy most of the time keeping house, cooking and sewing—for she did everything including all the dressmaking for five girls.

"And not the least of her duties was coaching them all in their studies through grammar school, high school and college, she was always on hand, too, when needed, to assist with music lessons for each child was learning to play the instrument of his or her choice. And mother could do pretty well herself at the piano. With one hand. Yes. Her right hand was partly held prisoner by a withered and twisted arm that was pressed close to her side.

"There was something else about this busy, happy, sweet, little mother, too—something that almost escaped my notice. I have to jog my memory now to recall the fact that she walked with an odd, jerky kind of hobble.

"But she herself appeared to be quite unconscious of the fact that there were only a pair of shapeless knobs in the place where her feet should have been. She had been a cripple from birth. Yet she had found a life full of happiness.

GREAT ONES OF WORLD

"So take heart, Stella! Forget your limp. Be so busy thinking about other things that you won't have time to worry about it—or whether other folks are noticing it or not.

"And you'll come out all fine! Here's my hand to you!

JEANNE.

"That's a wonderful story, Jeanne. And it isn't the only one. Everywhere there are brave and gallant spirits like this little mother, who abide in twisted bodies but who still keep sound and sweet.

They are the great ones of the world. They are indeed the teachers—they show the rest of us how pain may be borne. For there is a twist in each of us. For some, it is a twist of the flesh. For others, it is a more desperate twist of the spirit.

Those who can teach us how to endure and heal our secret hurt are the rarest souls. And love and joy and faith come back to them because they have dared to dream beautifully, dared to give richly.

Fay King Warns Men That 'Sweetie Half World' Is Only Swampland

By FAY KING.

In the reeking swamplands of the tropics grow the flowers of greatest beauty and most alluring perfume.

Where the poisonous fever infested slime pools breed danger and death for man the blossoms look the purest. Their pale ivory and pastel-shaded petals looking so innocent of the vileness in which they are rooted.

But now the way-wise traveler is inoculated against and avoids its cankerous enticements.

It is time that men, wise in so many other ways, should become aware that this sweetie half-world is but a swampland, too.

It has claimed many victims lately.

Read—and learn to avoid.

Madge Sidesteps Issue of Accepting Boys' Fancy Names

Juniors demand that I give my approval to one of the sets of impossible names he and Roderick had chosen for the baby nonplussed me for the moment. Then I basely took the easiest way out.

"All four are so pretty that I couldn't choose anyone among them," I said. "But, Junior, don't you think it would be better to wait until your father comes home and let him decide?"

"Aw Mums, you know he'll only say what you do," he protested, and as Roderick valiantly supported him with an emphatic "that's so," I smiled to myself at the success of my plan and Dicky's to keep our boy convinced of our absolute accord in matters of discipline. Whatever our other differences, neither of us ever signifies by word or look any dissent from a ruling made by the other. If there is any possible doubt concerning the granting of a request made by him, or since his cousin's coming, by Roderick, the invariable reply of either of us is, "I'll tell you later," and then when we are by ourselves we thrash out the pros and cons of the matter and make our joint decision, to be relayed to the boys.

"But I want you to tell him about it, anyway," I said with finality. Then with a lurking consciousness that I was being unfair to my hapless husband, I attached a possible anchor to the unseaworthy boat I was sending him.

"But don't you think, boys," I said with an air of one adult asking the advice of another, "that those names 'Ruby Pearl' and 'Opal Violet' are so lovely for the things they mean that it's almost like stealing to take them for anything else. Pearls, rubies, opals — they're already the names of very beautiful gems, and 'violets' — you've picked violets so often I should think you'd want to leave the flowers their names for themselves. Think it over, anyway. Let's look at you! Come! Morning inspection!"

They straightened themselves, grinning so ruefully that I knew they had forgotten something in their morning toilet.

"Where's Aunt Katherine?" Junior asked anxiously.

She has a headache and is lying down in my room. I improvised hastily, salving my conscience with the grim little thought that if my troubled kinswoman did not yet possess a headache she would acquire one soon if her agitation over the letter she had received were any criterion.

I looked them over critically and then soberly pronounced the verdict.

"Gee!" they exclaimed with apparent astonishment which did not deceive me, but which I ignored. "So we did. That's five demerits apiece."

"You can't afford to get many more," I told them soberly, seizing the opportunity to aid Katherine in the boys upon their return from camp. "You had 10 apiece yesterday for things you forgot. And you know 25 will cost you the chance to go fishing tomorrow with Hank and Bill."

"Oh! I'm sorry, Auntie Madge," she said with the pretty deference she always accords me. "I heard your voice and I thought perhaps mother was up here with you."

"I'll get dressed and go down, then," she said. "But I couldn't help overhearing about those demerits. I didn't know you kids had them, too." She addressed the boys. "That's all we hear at school. But we get chances to work ours off. Don't you?"

"No, but how?" The answering query came explosively in chorus, and I interposed hastily.

"That can wait," I said. "Aunt Katherine would wish to hear about that, and Marion will tell her later. Just now your task is to wash properly and then go down to breakfast. You might tell Aunt Lillian about the names you have picked out for the baby."

"Oh! tell me!" Marion's face was alight with expectant mirth, but she heroically kept the laughter back when each intoned emphatically his choice of names.

"Ruby Pearl."

"Opal Violet."

I gestured emphatically and they sped away to the bathroom to complete their ablutions, and Marion leaned against the doorpost helpless with laughter.

"Junior suggests that we could turn his around if we wish and call the baby 'Pearl Ruby,'" I said demurely, and she bent double with a spasm of giggling.

"You've made my day complete," she said when she could speak. "I must run and tell Mary. I think Junior has the right idea, myself. That child must have a name. I've thought of Mehitabel Edna, but Junior's takes the wedding cake 'mit frosting.'"

She sped back to her room as the boys came back with faces and necks which could pass the most rigid of inspections.

"What did Marion think of our names?" Junior asked when I had approved their appearance.

"She seemed to like them very much," I told them. "Don't forget to tell Aunt Lillian about them, but remember not to be disappointed if the grown-ups finally decide on something different.

"We don't care even if they do," Junior announced importantly. "We have got a scheme."

Need Air

Cakes, breads and pastry need air in their composition, therefore beating is better for them than stirring when mixing the ingredients together. Stirring is a slower movement which stays more with the pan, while beating lifts a portion of the mixture and takes a certain amount of air with each lifting of the spoon.

Easily Renovated

If your curtains are yellowed from the sun and you debate packing them away for another winter, keep them by all means. White curtains may be made ecru by dipping them in coffee solution. It will cover up the sunburned spots and frequently will give the room a softer tone than when the curtains were white.

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

The woman whose hands are not up to beauty Hoyle makes a mistake when she wears many rings. Just as the dear old girl with the wattled neck errs when she calls attention to it by wearing a too ornate necklace. When hands have grown old before their time as oftimes happens, sleeves should be long extended well over the wrist bones.

Legs too fat? Lie on the back and pedal an imaginary bicycle. Jump rope. That's a sure way of knocking off adipose tissue. Wear dark colored hosiery; there are lovely shades now. Light colored stockings have fulfilled their destiny, except for evening wear. The color of women's stockings make for an appearance of thinness or bulk of legiets.

Household Hints

Floor mops are, as a rule, somewhat forgotten when it comes to washing. They will gather dirt much more thoroughly and quickly if given a good bath in boiling soapsuds once a month. Soda added to the water will loosen the dirt wonderfully.

Crumpled artificial flowers held over the steam from a teakettle for a few minutes freshen immediately. After the steam treatment pull them out into shape and shake them until they are quite dry. Especially will this method work wonders with velvet flowers.

How to Keep Well

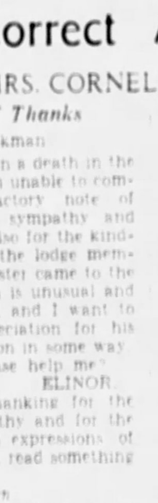
Be Sensible About Your Eyes—Treat Them Fairly

"Eyestrain" is a frequently used expression. As a matter of fact it is usually nothing more or less than muscular weakness, the direct result of excessive strain.



Dr. Copeland

Movements of the eyeball are controlled by groups of muscles. Like all the other muscles of the body, these will weaken if not properly nourished and given the proper care. When one muscle of the eye weakens, more work is thrown on the other muscles.

This unexpected and unprepared for increase in work that a certain muscle must do is likely to result in discomfort. There may be severe pain.

Persons engaged in occupations requiring excessive use of the eyes frequently complain of eyestrain. This is particularly true of stenographers, typists, moving picture operators, dressmakers, manicurists and librarians.

Where the weakness is a temporary affair and has resulted only from excessive use of the eyes, the condition may be corrected by rest and eye exercises. When these simple measures do not cause the symptoms to disappear, it is advisable that proper glasses be prescribed. Glasses should always be worn if there is a real defect in vision.

It happens often, however, that the vision is perfect, yet there is muscular weakness. In these cases, glasses are prescribed simple prisms perhaps, that serve to strengthen the muscles of the eye.

Reading in a glaring light is harmful. It is always best to read under a subdued, soft light. Be sensible about it and if your eyes tire easily, never read excessively.

Years ago there were many eye defects among school children. I am glad to say that the percentage of these cases has been markedly reduced in the past 10 years. This change is due to the modern improvement in our schools as regards hygenic and lighting facilities.

Glasses that have not been prescribed by a competent person should never be worn. Buying glasses off the counter is a practice that has decreased, but there is too much of a tendency to get spectacles this way. Instead of improving the vision of the eyes, such glasses may actually harm the eyesight.

Notes of Thanks

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

There has been a death in the family and I am unable to compose a satisfactory note of thanks for the sympathy and flowers given. Also for the kindness shown by the lodge members. The minister came to the cemetery, which is unusual and not the custom, and I want to show my appreciation for his wonderful sermon in some way.

Will you please help me?

ELINOR.

The notes thanking for the notes of sympathy and for the flowers sent as expressions of sympathy might read something like this:

Dear Mrs. Brown:

It was most kind of you to send us such a friendly note of sympathy and understanding, and we are all most grateful to you for this kindness. The roses, too, were most beautiful and again brought to us an expression of your deep friendliness. Thank you so much.

Very sincerely yours

To the clergyman who was so kind you might write:

Dear Mr. Smythe:

Your exceptional kindness and goodness to us during these dark days through which we have been touched us more than I can tell you. For you to be so thoughtful, so wonderfully courteous and understanding made everything so much easier to bear, and our hearts are full of deepest appreciation and thanks. The beautiful words of your fine sermon were superb. The memory of them will be one of our treasured possessions. We all thank you, from the bottom of our hearts.

Sincerely yours,

Anniversary Parties

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I will soon be married 15 years and would like to have a reception in the afternoon for a few of my very dear friends, and in the evening we will have a few more friends. What I would like to know is, how shall I word the invitations for those people whom I wish to come in the afternoon and another invitation to those who are to come in the evening? There will be two different groups and I am puzzled as to how I should word both invitations to both groups?

F. D.

Write each group of invitations as if they were the only ones you were sending, since your parties are to be separate parties. There is no need to mention in either group that you are giving another party on the same day.

Using the Teaspoon

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Will you please settle this argument for us? A says that after putting the sugar in the coffee and stirring it, it is proper to taste the coffee, so as to know whether it is hot or too sweet, from the cup and not with the spoon.

B says it is proper to take the first sip of a beverage with a teaspoon to see if it is sweet enough or too warm. Of course after this test is made the remainder of the beverage is drunk from the cup and the teaspoon is not to be used again.

D. R.

B is right. Except that, if we wish, we may use the teaspoon again, as often as we wish.

MOST POPULAR THROUGHOUT THE WORLD

Now 19% lower in price

KELLOGG'S Rice Krispies has been one of the most amazing successes of the cereal industry. In less than four years, it has grown to be the most popular rice cereal — and one of the largest-selling cereals in the world!

Now comes a 19% reduction in price to enable even more people to enjoy it more often than ever. At this new low price, Kellogg's Rice Krispies are one of the most economical, as well as delicious and distinctive of all cereals. Its cost is only about one cent a bowl.

Children love Kellogg's Rice Krispies. The crisp, nourishing rice bubbles snap, crackle and pop when milk is poured over them. Little folks who are hard to interest in food, dip into Rice Krispies eagerly — fascinated by the crisp crackling.

All your family will enjoy Kellogg's Rice Krispies. Not only as a ready-to-eat cereal — but to sprinkle over ice cream or salads instead of nuts — to use in soups as croutons and many other delightful ways.

Serve Kellogg's Rice Krispies often these hot days. They help you keep cool and fit. At the new low price, they also bring healthful economy to your table. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

toms onto the books at a time which precludes investigation and purging of the fraudulent enrollment.

WATCH REGISTRATION

It is with this practice in view that the Registration Commission is planning to ask for a large squad of state policemen on the last two days, while only a handful may be on duty in Pittsburgh tomorrow. Backed by the authority of the state troopers, the registrars will be expected to interrogate closely suspected fraudulent registrants, and keep as many as possible from the books.

Senator James J. Davis is expected in Pittsburgh tomorrow to take part in the campaign on behalf of County Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong. Davis will make at least one speech for Armstrong and attend several meetings with the Commissioner. Shortly after Davis enters the picture, an open alliance between Armstrong and Senator William D. Mansfield may be announced.

Reliable sources report that such an alliance has been practically consummated, and from several quarters Mansfield is being pressed to make public acknowledgment of it. These sources, however, are all unfriendly to Senator James J. Coyne. Some of Armstrong's more zealous friends argue that Mansfield has nothing in the way of organization strength to bring Armstrong in return for "practical" help from the latter, and must therefore give the Commissioner such benefit as a public indorsement would have among independent voters.

PLAY WAITING GAME

Both Mansfield and Armstrong are reluctant to acknowledge an alliance at this time. Both are insisting that if it is announced the statement should be held back until next week, allowing Senator Coyne and Commissionar Charles C. McGovern, the remaining commissioner candidates, less time to make such a combination a target.

Davis is hoping for friends in the Commissioners' office when he is again a candidate for the Senate next year. It was largely due to Armstrong that he was nominated in the primary of 1930, the Commissioner interceding with the Philadelphia organization on behalf of the Senator.

Coyne is close to Grundy, defeated by Davis, and because of that influence has little love for the Senator.

Close associates of Coyne are frank now in admitting that they expect little assistance from Armstrong, and where the Coyne forces are in absolute control they are just as frank in saying the Senator will run six to one over the Commissioner, even in wards where there is an apparent intention of carrying both candidates as the organization slate. The only place where the vote will be approximately even, they say, is in those wards where local conditions make friendship to Armstrong unavoidable on the part of Coyne-Kline leaders.

MAY BE CAMOUFLAGE

Whether this condition will exist clear through primary day, or whether it is camouflage to lull the independents, is only another of the unanswerable questions posed by a most perplexing campaign.

Armstrong, it was reported today, had declined to attend a conference with Coyne, W. L. Mellon sitting in as the third man and potential conciliator. This apparently has left Mellon no option but to assist Coyne and Armstrong separately, as he was unwilling to attempt any pressure toward a combination. It is also reported that in more than one instance Mellon failed in an effort to induce industrial leaders to back both Coyne and Armstrong.

Mellon has returned to Canada to resume his vacation, but is expected back in Pittsburgh before election day.

MAPES BACKED FOR SPEAKER

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—(AP)—With but three months until the new Congress convenes, speculation around the Capitol has thrown new possibilities into an already complicated lineup of contenders for leadership in a House in which strength is closely divided between the two parties.

The latest suggestion is for a "compromise" Republican ticket including Representative Mapes, conservative Michigan member with a large personal popularity, for Speaker, and Representative Frear, Progressive, from Wisconsin, for leader.

On the theory that this team would promise to hold northwestern liberal elements in line while satisfying the regulars, it was predicted today in some quarters that it might overcome an established lead now almost evenly divided by the survivors of Nicholas Longworth's famous triumvirate of leadership — Representatives Tilson, of Connecticut, floor leader, and Snell, of New York, chairman of the Rules Committee.

Twins Kill Selves After Drinking Bout

AMERY, Wis., Sept. 2.—(AP)—Elmer and Amil Peterson, twin brothers, 32 years old, committed suicide by shooting while sitting side by side on the farm of their father, C. H. Peterson.

The parent said both had been drinking heavily recently. A coroner's jury returned a verdict of suicide.

SHAKEUP BEGUN IN U. S. LINES

WASHINGTON Sept 2 (INS)—Chauncey Parker, general counsel of the Federal Shipping Board and the Merchant Fleet Corporation, began negotiations today with the Chapman-Dollar-Dawson interests for reorganization of the United States Lines.

The International Mercantile Marine Company's highest bid of $3,500,000 was eliminated.

P. W. Chapman, president of Paul W. Chapman & Co., one of the purchasers of the United States Lines, associated with Stanley Dollar and Kenneth D. Dawson, Pacific Coast steamship operators, having the backing of the Fleishacker Pacific Coast banking interests, offered $3,170,000 for the unpaid notes owed the government by the Chapman company. This offer was based on five trips a year by the Leviathan and contemplated an additional $3,000,000 operating capital and $2,500,000 to complete the ships under construction for the United States Lines.

During the negotiations the International Mercantile Marine Company offered $3,500,000.

RAIL MEN FIGHT TRUCK PERMIT

Five railroads are opposing the application of O. K. Heilman of Kittanning for permission to operate a motor truck freight service between Pittsburgh and points in Armstrong, Indiana, Jefferson, Clearfield and Clarion counties.

This was made known when Examiner W. F. Best of the Public Service Commission called the case and then announced Heilman had asked postponement until October.

Railroad counsel and witnesses had not been notified of the requested postponement. The railroads opposing the application include the Pennsylvania, Baltimore and Ohio, Buffalo, Rochester and Pittsburgh, Buffalo and Susquehanna and Pittsburgh and Shawmut.

Second Miner Dies After Harlan Fight

HARLAN, Ky., Sept. 2 (AP)—Julius Baldwin, 32, died of wounds received Sunday night in a gun battle with Deputy Sheriff Lee Fleener in which Joe Moore was slain and Jeff Baldwin wounded.

The deputy, who is free under $5,000 bond in connection with the slaying of Moore, said he fired at the three miners when they shot at him when he attempted to question them. Moore was instantly killed, Julius Baldwin shot twice in the head and his brother Jeff shot twice in the shoulder.

Humes Charges 'Fraud Plot' in Assessment Delay

Fleeing Driver Fells Boy in School Group

JOSEPH RIBER

Joseph Riber, 13, of 7544 Short street, Swissvale, was in Braddock General Hospital today, the first school pupil to be injured in a traffic accident this semester. He was the victim of an alleged drunken driver, police say. The boy was struck by the automobile driven, the officers said, by Fred Needham, 39, of 200 North Trenton avenue, Wilkinsburg, when it plunged into a group of children on a sidewalk near the Swissvale School. The driver at the time was trying to escape from Motorcycle Policeman John Camillo, the latter charges. The policeman says Needham collided with his parked motorcycle and failed to stop.

Camillo chased him half a mile, catching up with him when the Riber boy was struck.

Riber and Philip Corbett, of 1155 Jane street, Wilkinsburg, a passenger in Needham's machine, were taken to Braddock General Hospital, where the former was said to be suffering severe lacerations and bruises of the right arm and leg. Corbett was treated for a lacerated hand. Needham was lodged in Rankin Police Station, where, police said, he was pronounced intoxicated by a physician.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Sept. 2.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

This country is not entirely over its "cuckoo" stage yet. Every day there is more printed in the papers about the new and old golf ball than there is on unemployment. When the dimensions of a golf ball is our greatest worry we still got a long way to go to get back to normal. Five thousand people followed Bobby Jones and watched him watch the golf championship. We ought to get Bobby to sit in Washington and watch it—that might relieve interest in our present form of government.

Yours, WILL.

EX-LEGISLATOR KILLED IN AUTO CRASH HERE

HUMES SCORES OFFICIALS FOR 'PLOT'

Registration Board Member Sees 'Skullduggery' in 'Deliberate' Delay on Lists

Maj. E. Lowry Humes, of the Pittsburgh Registration Board, today charged that the County Board for Assessment and Revision of Taxes had deliberately sought delay in making public additional lists of assessments with the object of fraud at the primaries.

Commenting on the decision of Judge James H. Gray in compelling the tax board to certify the additional lists of the County Treasurer so they could be readily examined, Humes said:

"The delay which the Board for Assessment and Revision of Taxes has secured by their refusal to disclose this public record and in contesting the demand of the Bar Association Committee on election frauds, makes the time very short for the necessary investigations that must be made by the Board of Registration Commissioners, and has at least, partially accomplished the illegal and unlawful purposes of the officials and persons seeking to secure tax receipts for the use of illegal voters."

'SKULLDUGGERY'

The court's order, Humes declared, "ought to convince the honest citizens of Allegheny County that the election skullduggery is not only encouraged, but finds its inception in the offices of public officials charged with the duty of enforcing and upholding the law."

One phase of the assessment muddle that had more than 2,500 persons jammed into the Courthouse yesterday wondering what it was all about, has been ironed out. Delinquent Tax Collector Walter J. Christy announced last night that he will accept the certificates issued today and yesterday by the Board for the Assessment and Revision of Taxes and issue tax receipts on them.

CITES POLL TAX ACT

Late yesterday Judge Gray granted the peremptory writ of mandamus. In his opinion he pointed out the failure of the 1931 50-cent poll tax act to provide for certification of assessments to the Controller. In his opinion, Judge Gray states:

"It may be that immediate certification cannot be made in each case, but we see no difficulty in establishing a practice for certification under the act which would comply with the act and give the County Controller, County Treasurer and Delinquent Tax Collector a public and official record which would reveal to all interested parties and the public the exact facts in regard to assessment of poll taxes. A program of certification established after consultation of the Board of Assessment and Revision of Taxes, the Treasurer and the Collector of Delinquent Taxes would certainly seem to be possible of formulation in strict compliance with the Act of Assembly."

Held in Attack On Rail Conductor

GIRL CRACKS UP IN TAKEOFF

Mary Jean Cebek, 18, a licensed pilot of Clarksburg, W. Va., cracked up her monoplane while taking off after making a successful landing to refuel on the Peterlini farm near the old Summit Inn on the Steubenville pike yesterday afternoon.

She had taken off with Howard Eigert, also a licensed pilot, of Mifflin Township, from Bettis Field for Akron, O. The plane ran out of gas shortly after and Miss Cebek made a successful forced landing in order to refuel. After filling the tank and getting the plane into position she again tried to take off, but strong head winds caused the plane to crash.

Youth Fires Pistol, Eludes Police Chase

Patrolman Robert Martin pursued a young man who fired a revolver several times in the Boulevard of the Allies, near Cherry way, at midnight. The Wild West tactics attracted Martin, on duty a block away. He commandeered an automobile and gave chase, but the man escaped in Third avenue. A street car obstructed Martin's view and the gunman escaped.

MAYOR SIGNS DISARM PLEA

Mayor Charles H. Kline has added his signature to those of 42 other mayors and governors who with thousands of citizens have signed a petition for universal disarmament to be presented to the Geneva conference next February. The Mayor signed the petition yesterday.

The paper is sponsored by a group of women traveling about the country by automobile in a National Peace Caravan, under the auspices of the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom.

Mrs. John Folinsbee of New Hope, Pa., temporary leader of the tourists, thanked the Mayor and expressed hope that 3,000,000 signatures could be obtained before the petition would be presented in Washington next month.

Police Start Drive On Tunnel Speeders

Policemen on duty at the Liberty Tubes have been instructed to give more attention to speeding and "snake driving" and to attempt to improve conditions in rush hours. Director Norman F. Brown, of the County Public Works Department, has informed the Pittsburgh Motor Club. The club had requested more regulation by police officers after receiving complaints of dangers in the tunnel.

AUTO KILLS BOY WHILE FATHER HUNTS JOB

While his father plodded through rain in search of work today, Morris Forner, 4, one of nine children, was killed by an auto truck near his home, 5804 Phillips avenue.

The boy's mother, Mrs. Dora Forner, collapsed at Pittsburgh Hospital after she identified the body of the victim.

The boy was run down by a truck of the Duquesne Light Company, in Phillips avenue near Murray avenue, shortly after noon, police said. Charles R. Livingston, rear 1242 Benton avenue, North Side, driver, who was arrested, said he had not seen the boy. His helper said the boy had stepped from behind another auto. Livingston took the boy to the hospital, where he was pronounced dead.

The victim was unidentified at the hospital until his mother arrived. She told hospital attaches Morris was one of nine children and that her husband Nathan had not worked for three months. He was hunting for work today. Mrs. Forner collapsed and had to receive medical attention after viewing the body.

Europe Wants Pistols; We Can Have the Coffee

By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER

The League of Nations has a new idea for peace that is brighter than a new dime.

It wants to take charge of all weapons and munitions. Which would leave our Army with one flintlock musket, the sword of Gen. Cornwallis and a wild desire to succeed.

The usual routine for a duel is coffee and pistols for two at dawn. Europe would take both the pistols and we'd get the coffee.

Treasury has no trouble borrowing a billion at 3 per cent. That loan is like a starving bigamist. Oversubscribed and undernourished.

WIMMER SHAFT DEDICATED

With services in which more than 2,000 priests and alumni of St. Vincent College participated, the Boniface Wimmer Memorial statue at St. Vincent Archabbey, Latrobe, was dedicated yesterday.

The Rt. Rev. Hugh C. Boyle, bishop of the Catholic Diocese of Pittsburgh, celebrated solemn high mass, which was preceded by a procession of alumni and priests from the Archabbey. The Latrobe American Legion drum and bugle corps headed the procession.

Representatives were present at the unveiling from many colleges and universities of the United States. The Rt. Rev. Joseph Schrembs, bishop of Cleveland, delivered the dedicatory address. Greetings were brought by the Rt. Rev. Ernest Helmstetter, of New Jersey, president of the American Cassinese Order. After the services a banquet was served to nearly 200 guests.

The statue is erected to the memory of the Rt. Rev. Boniface Wimmer, O. S. B., who came to America from Metten Abbey, Bavaria, in 1846 to found a Benedictine community in America. He was the founder of St. Vincent and the father of the Benedictine Order in America.

This is the second memorial statue to Father Wimmer, and the only one in America. The other stands in his native village of Thalmassing, Bavaria, placed there by the American Cassinese Congregation in 1909.

SCHOOL FIGHT FLARES ANEW

Although the Obey School, Crafton Heights, will open this week for 80 seventh and eighth grade pupils, protests against barring of younger children from the school are not stilled, it was indicated today.

Supt. of Schools Ben G. Graham, in announcing the opening, said complaints that children from the district had to attend Schaeffer School and cross two heavy traffic streets were not justified. He added:

"The conditions are not any worse than an in other parts of the city, and not as bad as some."

Mrs. Minnie G. Roberts, who led the fight last year to have the Obey School opened to the lower grades, said the Parent-Teachers Association again would protest. For a time last year, Mrs. Roberts, a former teacher, conducted classes on the steps of the Obey School in protest to the closing of the building.

Man Asks $25,000 For Auto Injuries

Alleging he was seriously injured when hurled through the windshield in an automobile collision, Peter Tardy, 340 Boggs avenue, filed suit against Lawrence Woodall, Patterson avenue, Carnegie, in Common Pleas Court, asking $25,000 damages. A car in which Tardy was riding was struck by Woodall's car on the Noblestown road, Carnegie, July 12, the suit charged.

LIBERTY BRIDGE CRASH CLAIMS SECOND LIFE

Car Burns After Hitting Truck; Six Injured in Slippery Street Accidents

David Jones, 50, of Ellwood City, Pa., president of the Ellwood City Stone Company and former member of the Legislature from Lawrence County, was killed in one of two fatal automobile accidents in Pittsburgh today.

The other victim was John Corry, 19, of 1015 Bedford avenue. Half a dozen others were injured, several serious, in smash-ups.

Jones died in the Presbyterian Hospital from a fractured skull suffered when his automobile skidded on the wet roadway and crashed into a pole in the Ohio River boulevard, near Superior avenue, this morning. His son, William H. Jones, said to have been driving, was seriously injured and was removed to Allegheny General Hospital.

HITS STEAM SHOVEL

Corry died in Mercy Hospital several hours after he had been burned when the car in which he was riding collided with a truck on Liberty Bridge.

Other victims were James Dorsey, 22, of 1315 Webster avenue, burned seriously; G. B. Acheson, a taxicab driver, burned slightly; George Thomas, 23, of 1114 Bedford avenue, and John D'Alesandro, 51, and his son, Cossimo, 19, both of 1927 Woodward avenue, Brookline. Thomas and the D'Alesandros were treated at Allegheny General Hospital.

The crash occurred in the center of the bridge when automobile driven by Thomas, who had Corry and Dorsey as passengers, ran into the rear of a steamshovel being hauled north on a truck driven by Milton Kiedaisch, of 1104 East Warrington avenue, employed by the A. F. Jordano Contracting Company.

WRECKAGE BLAZES

The D'Alessandro machine, driven by the son, which was following the Thomas car, struck the wreckage, which had burst into flames. Father and son pulled themselves from their wrecked machine, and with the help of Acheson, who was passing in his cab, ran to the aid of the victims pinned under the wreck. The younger D'Alesandro was the first to reach Corry and dragged him from the fire, his clothing ablaze. He rolled him in the gutter to extinguish the fire, and then, with the help of Acheson, loaded him and Dorsey into the taxicab and sent them to Mercy Hospital.

Firemen from Engine Company No. 30, answering a still alarm, extinguished the flames. Capt. James Lebarty estimated the loss at $1,000.

RECKLESSNESS CHARGED

A short time later Lieut. John Eckert, of the county police, arrested Thomas and the younger D'Alesandro on charges of reckless driving.

Struck by an auto Friday at Seneca street and Boulevard of the Allies, Frank Braken, 49, who lived at the Helping Hand dormitory, Water street, died at Mercy Hospital last night.

Gilbert Miller, 17, of 1537 East street, suffered a probable skull fracture when he was struck by an automobile driven, police said, by Carl Gigler, 26, of Spring Garden road, at Arch street and West Montgomery avenue. Miller is in Presbyterian Hospital. Gigler was arrested.

Struck by an automobile while crossing the street near her home, Gloria Pickles, 5, of New Kensington road, Penn Township, was in a serious condition today in Citizens General Hospital, New Kensington, suffering a possible fracture of the skull, according to police.

'Army' Commissions 6 Cadets in District

Six members of the graduating class of the Salvation Army Training College in New York City are residents of the Pittsburgh district, it was announced today.

Margaret Orr, of Turtle Creek; William Pershing, of Pittsburgh; Lulu Duerr, of Dormont; William Hunt, of Mt. Washington; Olive Wetzel, of Mt. Washington, and Sarah Viena, of Homestead, were among the 105 cadets who received commissions as probationary lieutenants.

Italians Campaign For Senator Coyne

Headquarters for Italian supporters have been opened in the Pittsburgher Hotel, adjacent to the general base of operations for State Senator James J. Coyne's candidacy for County Commissioner. Salvatore Sunseri, leader of the Sons of Italy of Western Pennsylvania, has been named chairman.

M'GOVERN SCORES ARMSTRONG AS COUNTY WASTER

TAKES UP DEFI FROM HEAD OF BOARD

Costly Blunders Charged In Address Delivered By Independent Candidate

County Commissioner [illegible] McGovern, candidate for re-election, at an open-air meeting last night at Independent Republican women's county headquarters, Magee Building, 334 [illegible] took up the challenge of County Commissioner [illegible] strong [illegible] went after

McGovern [illegible] gineers [illegible] the Coraopolis [illegible] River [illegible] Bridge [illegible] Nineteen [illegible] sided [illegible] ern's victory [illegible] ginning [illegible] nical rule of Boies [illegible] anaugh [illegible]

CHALLENGE TO ARMSTRONG

"Joseph G. Armstrong, like the late Phineas T. Barnum, must believe that the people like to be fooled and that a fool is born every minute. Speaking yesterday, he said 'No matter what the newspapers say about me, they never can point a finger to a dollar that went astray.'

"Such sham virtue as professed by Armstrong in view of the wasteful record of his administration cannot be permitted to go unchallenged. So that the record may be straight I challenge Mr. Armstrong to answer the following questions:

"Is it not true that your engineers originally estimated the cost of the Allegheny County Airport at [illegible],000, and that it has cost to date, $3,500,000?" Mr. Armstrong, even though this extra $1,500,000 was spent on the airport, did not the blunders of your engineers cause it to go astray from the county treasury?"

AIRPORT CONTRACT

"Is it not a fact the contract for grading the airport was let, not to the lowest bidder, who bid 29 cents a cubic yard, but to the third bidder, a company which bid 48 cents a cubic yard, and then sublet the work to others for 29 cents, the price of the low bid? How many dollars of the county's money went astray here?

"Do not the records show that the airport grading bids were: [illegible] W. Butler, $899,657; F. W. Sco[illegible], $1,194,436, and the Yang Cons[illegible]tion Company, $1,470,-279? [illegible] not true that the difference [illegible]tween the high and low bids was $570,722? Did not this sum of more than half a million of dollars go astray?

"Is it not true that through the blundering engineers on Allegheny River boulevard, where a project costing $3,500,000 was carried to a point of completion without any consideration as to how they would build around or over a pumping station of the Pennsylvania Water Company at Nadine, the county will have to pay an additional sum of $549,390? Mr. Armstrong, did or did not this money go astray?

"Mr. Armstrong, again referring to the Allegheny River boulevard, what about the Shade Run Bridge bungle, with big cracks, bulging walls and falling rails due to faulty plans [illegible] which forced the county to pay, according to your own engineer's admission on January 21, 1931, $257,000 extra? Didn't this money go astray?

"Mr. Armstrong, what about the money paid by the county to employes for renting their own cars to the county to haul themselves to and from work, particularly after July 26, 1927, when the county purchased 10 busses costing $15,880.70, for this purpose? Did that money go astray?

DAY OF RECKONING

"Mr. Armstrong, how about those expense accounts wherein county employes collected for shaves, shines and valet service? Did that money go astray?

"So far as the newspapers are concerned, they are merely keepers of the public conscience and guardians of the public interests. If you, Mr. Armstrong, were as faithful to your trust in safeguarding the county's expenditures as the newspapers are faithful to the people, you would not have any reason to complain.

"The day of reckoning is at hand. As Lincoln said, 'You can fool some of the people all the time, you can fool all the people some of the time, but you can't fool all the people all the time.'"

LATEST HAIR CREATION

"EMPRESS EUGENIE" BOB . . . TO BE SUBMITTED IN PARIS SHOW

'EUGENIE BOB' FOR NEW HATS

There was a time when the style and manner of dressing the hair determined the kind of hats women wore, but in the present popular mode of the Empress Eugenie hat, the hairdressers have had to conform to the milliners.

Considerable ingenuity was required by creators of new coiffures to entice the straggling locks of the recently popular long bob into a smooth semblance of the Empress Eugenie mode.

Frederic Lichti, head of the Maison Frederic beauty school at 205 Fifth avenue, who won a prize at the National Hairdressers' and Cosmotologists' Association convention in Milwaukee August 12 for one of the five new hair creations of the season, has created an Empress Eugenie bob.

He will sail for Paris September 10, where he will submit his new coiffure to the International Hair Show. A native of Paris, he has been in Pittsburgh for the past 10 years.

COYNE URGES SIDEWALKS ON ROADS

Protection for Pedestrians Urged When Considering New Public Improvements

State Senator James J. Coyne, candidate for County Commissioner, spoke last night at Leetsdale High School and discussed the "proud boast!" of the present majority members of the County Commissioners' office that they had spent $100,000,000 for public works during the last eight years. Senator Coyne said:

"This money was chiefly spent for improved highways and bridges to enable people to get from one part of the county to another more quickly than before.

"In other words, the County Commissioners have spent one-tenth of a billion dollars in eight years to save time. That being true, why can't these same officials spend a fractional part of that amount this winter to save human lives?

WINTER WORK PLAN

"The 1931 Legislature authorized County Commissioners to construct sidewalks along roads, and I propose now, as an unemployment relief measure, that we proceed with that work this winter, and not wait until next summer, by which time we hope the depression will be over.

"My plan is to construct low-priced buildings at key locations throughout the county, where workmen would be sheltered from severe weather, for casting concrete slabs. When spring arrived, those slabs could be laid along the county and state roads for the protection of pedestrians, who, otherwise would have to walk on the roadway.

"Thousands of the unemployed can thus be given useful work. Not only will the lives of the men, women and children be protected but the lives and souls of thousands of destitute families would be salvaged by the formula of a 'pay envelope in every home on Saturday night.'

"The amount of money that would be spent this winter on the construction of these sidewalks could be taken from the fund that ordinarily would be spent for 1932 summer construction."

BRENTWOOD MEETING

Coyne also outlined his plan to citizens of Brentwood Borough at a meeting last night in Eliot School, East Francis avenue. Coyne cited his record for beneficial legislation in Harrisburg and declared that if elected he would be a County Commissioner for all the people.

Other speakers at the Brentwood meeting included Sheriff Robert S. Cain, candidate for County Treasurer; Judge D. Paulson Foster, seeking re-election to County Court; Raymond D. Evans, for Judge of Common Pleas Court; J. J. McGrath and N. L. "Skip" Wymard, for Judge of County Court.

BIALAS LAUDS JUDGES' WORK

Return to the Common Pleas Court bench here of the seven present Judges will give Allegheny County a court which will be a model for the entire country, according to Joseph H. Bialas, chairman of the lawyers' committee supporting the seven, in a broadcast last night over KDKA. He declared:

"Judges Reid, Gardner, Stadtfelt, Snee, Dithrich, McNaugher and Egan have co-operated excellently in improving conditions in the courts and with the assurance they will be working together, I am confident they will set new high standards.

"Our seven present Judges have demonstrated they are versed in law and jurisprudence. The work of our Common Pleas Court is recognized by our bar as being of such high type, that appeals to higher courts are relatively few here and reversals rare."

Judge Candidate's Knowledge Stressed

The legal knowledge of Attorney Clarence B. Nixon fits him admirably for the position of Judge of County Court for which he is seeking nomination in the Republican primary, according to Robbin S. Wolf, chairman of Nixon's campaign committee. He said:

"Because of Mr. Nixon's acknowledged familiarity with legal principles and ability to apply them fairly, a very large committee of outstanding lawyers, who may expect to oppose each other frequently before him, feel sufficient confidence in him to devote themselves to urging upon the voters the importance of electing Mr. Nixon."

Court Delay Laid To Sitting Judges

Speaking before large audiences last night in Recreation Hall, Bridgeville, and at a meeting of the League of Women Voters in Bellevue Borough Hall, Frank A. Pierkarski, candidate for Judge of Common Pleas Court, deplored the tendency of the seven present Judges to minimize the congestion in the courts. He said:

"Instead of admitting the facts and promising reforms, they blame attorneys for all the evils. That is not fair to the bar. The Judges control this matter of procedure. They alone can cut the red tape and thereby expedite litigation."

Lindsay Opposes Claims of Judges

Alexander S. Lindsay, candidate for Judge of Common Pleas Court, told the League of Women Voters at a meeting last night in Bellevue Borough Hall that the seven sitting Judges have been trying to tell the citizens that appointment to the bench should be tantamount to election. He declared:

"To this doctrine I am unalterably opposed. I believed that the citizens of Allegheny County should have the right to express their choice."

Winters Association To Hear Phillips

Councilman John M. Phillips, candidate to succeed himself, will speak tonight at a meeting of the Danny Winters Association in El Tower Hotel, Munhall road, according to Charles I. Sable, president of the organization. The meeting is a politico-social affair planned by close friends and associates of the late Controller Daniel Winters, who formerly occupied the seat now held by Councilman Phillips.

Waldschmidt Cites Experience in Law

City Solicitor Charles A. Waldschmidt, Republican candidate for Judge of Common Pleas Court, is touring the county accompanied by friends who are leaders in their various communities.

Waldschmidt advances one special reason for support of his candidacy. He is the only one of 25 candidates that has served as city solicitor and maintains that as the cities, boroughs and townships of the county develop a great mass of litigation to be tried in the Common Pleas Courts, there should be on the bench one Judge who, through service as city solicitor, is thoroughly familiar with the laws involved in trying public cases.

Move to Bar Pie From Students' Diet Fails

DETROIT, Sept. 2. (AP)—Dainty dishes will come and go but pie is here to stay.

Mrs. Laura Osborn proposed elimination of that dessert from school lunchrooms, claiming it is "ruinous" to digestion.

But Dr. Burt R. Shurly promptly protested. He said:

"The pie is a grand old American institution. Children have been raised on pie for 100 years, and the American child is a pretty healthy specimen."

DEROSA SCORED, STILL IN RACE

Michael DeRosa, Jr., today declared he was still a candidate for alderman of the Twelfth Ward despite a caustic attack by Judge James H. Gray, who branded his candidacy "brazen effrontery" while ruling that DeRosa was technically entitled to run.

DeRosa, son of the blind administration leader of the ward, said:

"Absolutely I am still a candidate. I have no comment to make on the court's remarks. The Judge said it and he has that privilege."

Judge Gray, in his opinion, handed down late yesterday, dismissed at DeRosa's costs, the suit of William J. Miller, taxpayer, to have DeRosa adjudged ineligible because of his being convicted on charges of maintaining a gambling device and violating election laws. The court held these were not "infamous" crimes, barring him from being a candidate.

Fire in Office Laid To Sulphur Candle

Fire believed to have been started by a sulphur candle caused damage amounting to $100 in the office of Dr. F. C. Bresfield, a dentist, on the third floor of a building at 2227 Center avenue early today.

UNIONS BACKING MUSMANNO FOR JUDGE

Representative Presses Drive to Fill Vacancy On County Court Bench

Encouraging progress has been made in the campaign of Representative M. A. Musmanno, who is seeking the Republican nomination for the vacancy in the County Court bench, according to his secretary, John M. Neville, who said today:

"On June 15, Mr. Musmanno announced himself as a candidate for judge of County Court. Since that time he has been making an average of four to five speeches every day besides meeting, personally, hundreds of people.

"They all remember the strenuous fight he waged in the Legislature against the coal and iron police. They remember that in every parliamentary contest between the forces of special privilege and the rights of the rank and file, he could be found on the side of the common people.

"The Pennsylvania Federation of Labor recently pledged support to Musmanno's candidacy in the following words:

"'The records on file in the office of the Federation of votes taken on labor legislation for the sessions of 1929 and 1931 of the General Assembly, show that Musmanno supported labor legislation 100 per cent.'

"Among indorsements of Musmanno's candidacy are those of the Western Pennsylvania Firemen's Association, Glass Blowers Association of the United States and Canada, Glenshaw Branch, No. 76, of the West Deer Township Republican organization; Victoria Club of the First Ward, American Citizens Association of Wall Borough, Mt. Carmel Club of Braddock, Steel City Lodge No. 775 of Machinists Union No. 491, Railway Carmen's Union No. 7722, Boilermakers Union No. 313, Sheet Metal Workers Union, 498; Blacksmiths Union, 262; Electrical Workers Union, 1024; Brotherhood of Firemen and Oilers Union, 843; the political organizations of East Deer Township and the Beechview Club."

— IT'S JUST AS WONDERFUL FOR DISHES, TOO AND

"Washes clothes whiter" says Mrs. F. H. Reubi, 89 West View Rd.

"I could give fifty reasons why I like Rinso, but the most important is that it washes clothes the whitest white imaginable, keeps colored things like new! Then, too, it saves scrubbing and boiling. I like Rinso suds, they're much richer than the usual kind. That's why I use Rinso for everything—for the wash, dishes, floors, walls and all cleaning."

Mrs. F. H. Reubi,
89 West View Rd., Ross Twp., Pittsburgh, Pa.

Try Rinso! See what a lot of rich, lively suds a little gives. There's as much, cup for cup, as lightweight, puffed-up soaps.

How those hard-working Rinso suds loosen dirt! Clothes come so white you'll be amazed.

The makers of 40 famous washing machines recommend Rinso for safety and for sweeter, snowier washes. You'll like these creamy suds for dishwashing, too—and for all cleaning. Get the BIG handy household package.

A DECEPTION

That The Public Is Openly Warned Against

When You Go to Buy GENUINE BAYER ASPIRIN for Pain . . . Watch Out That This Deception is Not Attempted Against You

THIS warning is printed to put the public on guard against a deception which may be practised against those who seek genuine Bayer Aspirin for pain, headaches or colds.

We take this means of warning you, so you may be able to protect yourself and your family against the results of such deception.

BEWARE!

Other preparations, we are informed, have been offered at times to those who ask for Bayer Aspirin; and even represented in some cases as being "the same as Bayer Aspirin."

Watch Out! Remember that years ago doctors warned the public against "headache remedies," some of which are heart depressants and unsafe for many people to take.

Then remember how genuine Bayer Aspirin came. And was acclaimed the world over by leading men of science as SAFE relief for pain, and was prescribed without hesitation by eminent physicians. For genuine Bayer Aspirin does not harm the heart.

What folly, then, in the light of these things, to dose yourself with drugs of which you know nothing. Don't gamble—KNOW.

The genuine Bayer Aspirin tablets are made by a special process, under careful supervision of scientists, in the Bayer Laboratories with over 25 years of highly specialized experience.

So when you want SAFE relief for pain, cold or headache, ask for BAYER ASPIRIN. You have a perfect right to ask for what you want. And an equal right to get what you ask for.

Look for the name BAYER on the package. And the word Genuine in red. Insist on Genuine Bayer Aspirin and refuse substitutes.

DOES NOT HARM THE HEART

LEGAL BARRIERS BLOCK PENNSY STATION THIS YEAR

DELAY IN RAIL PROJECT BLOW TO JOB AID

Railroad Granted More Time To Answer in Utilities' Fight on Terminal Project

Construction of the Pennsylvania Railroad's proposed $20,000,000 station and terminal cannot be started this year, because of legal barriers, it was learned today.

Another extension has been granted by the Public Service Commission, giving the railroad's counsel until October 1 to file briefs in the action brought by the Pittsburgh Railways Company, Bell Telephone Company and other utilities opposing approval of the plan agreements between the railroad and the City of Pittsburgh.

The utilities want the railroad to make the contemplated improvement in accordance with the 1925 plans which are already approved, but which were altered at the suggestion of the city. The dispute, it appeared today, will postpone considerably the unemployment relief which might be expected to result from the construction.

APPEAL CONTEMPLATED

With the filing of the briefs, arguments will be held before the commission. If it decides against the utilities, counsel for the latter say, the decision will be appealed to the Superior Court.

The railroad and the utilities are at loggerheads regarding the streets to be vacated and necessary removal of the facilities of the utilities in carrying out the plans. The city is standing with the railroad in the dispute.

The XY plan is a compromise of the Z plan suggested by the city. The former provides for the elimination of Liberty avenue and Spring way between Eleventh and Twenty-first streets and the widening of Penn avenue between those points, and provides for a new station building between Twelfth and Thirteenth streets.

TWO-STREET PLAN URGED

The first plan, presented in 1925 and approved, provides for elimination only of Liberty avenue between Eleventh and Eighteenth streets and the widening of Spring way, between the same points.

This plan, it is claimed by the utilities, would give two streets for traffic, while the XY plan provides only one, Penn avenue. The first plan made provision for the payment of the cost of moving the facilities of the utilities. The one the city favors does not make that provision. The 1925 plan provides only for an extension to the present station. The railroad wants to turn that structure into an office building.

Acceptance of the plan could compel the Pittsburgh Railways Company, it is stated, to route South Hills and South Side cars by way of Twenty-third street, resulting in a dead haul for the cars and an added expense of $30,000 a year for such operation.

The Bell Telephone Company, Equitable Gas Company, Duquesne Light Company, Allegheny Heating Company and Seventeenth Street Incline Plane Company maintain that adoption of the XY plan would disturb their service and result in loss.

East Deer Township Voters Hold Rally

Among the speakers were Township Commissioners James Modey, John Hill and Joseph Limaz, candidates for re-election; Anthony Vaia and Charles Jacques, candidates for Commissioner; Joseph Gretz and Charles Renner, running for Constable; Joseph Kengor and Wilbur Orris, secretary, Board of Commissioners, candidates for Justice of the Peace; John Glenn, who urged voters to go to the polls, and Walter Komos, who spoke in behalf of the Polish people.

Leaves Fleet

ADMIRAL C. B. M'VAY, JR.

M'VAY DROPS COMMAND

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—Admiral Charles B. McVay, Jr., Sewickley, Pa., stepped down from command of the United States Asiatic fleet in the U. S. S. Houston at Shanghai, China.

He was succeeded there by Admiral Montgomery M. Taylor, who hoisted his own flag as commander in chief. Taylor was detached from duty as chief of the war plans division, naval operations.

McVay reverts to his permanent rank as rear admiral and will become a member of the general navy board. He took command of the Asiatic fleet August 9, 1929.

Dealers of the General Electric Supply Company from Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Ohio were entertained at a dinner in Hotel Schenley last night at which the new line of General Electric home appliances and radios were shown for the first time. Speakers included A. J. Millington, C. R. Harrison, J. L. Buchanan, J. L. Ray, A. L. Atkinson, H. J. Francis, W. S. Shaw and R. Del Dunning.

INDEPENDENTS INDORSED AT MT. LEBANON

Mass Meeting in School Backs City Hall Foe; Heavy Bond Load Scored

Nearly 200 citizens of Mt. Lebanon last night unanimously indorsed the candidacies of six local independents and that of Mrs. Agnes R. Joyce, Township Auditor and candidate for Director of the Poor, at a meeting in the Washington Public School, Mt. Lebanon.

The independents were Louis C. Clark, for re-election as Commissioner of the First Ward; Ronald L. Thompson, candidate for Commissioner-at-large; A. D. Roob, Jr., for re-election as Commissioner of the Third Ward; Charles Baldwin, for re-election as Constable; Robert Zima, candidate for Constable, and Carl Long, for re-election as Auditor. Robert K. Boyer presided. A committee was also appointed to prepare a letter for circulation in the interests of the candidates.

Boyer, speaking of Clark, said:

"He knew what he was doing when he opposed the new municipal building. He opposed it all the way through. Now it is a burden. We have to keep it up and have to pay $600,000 for bonds, sinking fund, interest and maintenance in 30 years.

"The building and ground cost $215,000 and don't be surprised if the township is sued for almost $15,000, which is due. The whole thing is silly. The heat cannot be turned off in separate parts of the building and it costs so much to keep it up. Many of the rooms are not occupied.

"The courtroom is finished in solid walnut, and if you haven't seen it you ought to; it's one of the most beautiful in the country."

Other speakers were Dr. J. C. Logan, George P. Kountz, F. V. Cassell, E. B. Coll and V. H. Brooks.

Attorney Wymard Urges All to Vote

Speaking before citizens' meetings last night in Brentwood, Ingomar and the Twenty-seventh Ward, Attorney N. L. "Skip" Wymard, candidate for Judge of County Court, urged all eligibles to have themselves assessed, pay taxes and vote.

He stressed the importance of the work done by the judges in County Court and urged voters not to allow the contests for major offices to overshadow those being waged for judicial honors.

Duff Urges Reform Of Court Procedure

J. Boyd Duff, Jr., candidate for Judge of Common Pleas Court, outlined a remedy for the present condition of the administration of justice in a speech last night at a citizens' meeting in Bellevue Borough Hall. He declared:

"Alone, of all candidates, I have produced in a practical method of removing the congestion which thus far has balked every effort of the court to do speedy justice."

GARAGE RAIDED, FIGURED IN SLAYING

Father and Son Arrested At Bloomfield Building; Beer and Mash Seized

A garage in Lorigan street, Bloomfield, where William Gregory, beer runner, was slain in March, 1930, was one of five places raided by prohibition agents yesterday.

A squad of agents invaded the garage and reported finding 99 cases of home brew and 10 crocks of beer mash. Harry A. Baehr was released on bond, and his father, Fred Baehr, was released on his own recognizance, in connection with the raid.

NO LINK TO FAZIO

The two were believed by agents to have no connection with Philip Fazio, who used the garage as a wildcat brewery, when Gregory was murdered, they said. Fazio was arrested after Gregory's headless body was found in a barrel in Penn Township, but was acquitted of the murder charge at the trial. Later he was sentenced to serve 15 months in the workhouse for operating the brewery.

After arresting Robert Wells, a Negro, while he was alleged to be carrying two quarts of whisky at Market street and the Boulevard of the Allies, the agents raided a house at 212 Boulevard of the Allies, from which Wells obtained the liquor, it was reported. It was reported. In the house the raiders said they confiscated six cases of whisky and two cases of gin.

STILL SEIZED

A 100-gallon still seized in a garage in Bower Hill road, Bridgeville, resulted in the arrest of Joseph Flood, according to the agents. Stanley Seletysky was arrested at 4507 Liberty avenue, where whisky and gin were reported seized.

Joseph Kahn and Mrs. Rosie Kahn, of 223 Braddock avenue, Turtle Creek, were released on their own recognizance, agents reported, following the confiscation of 36 cases of home brew and a small quantity of wine in a garage near their home.

PIRATE HOUSE-CLEANING UNDER WAY

THE STATEMENT OF [illegible] Saturday in The Sun-Telegraph that a Pirate coach had reached the parting of the ways with the club owners and was [illegible] was borne out late yesterday by the unconditional release of Oscar Stanage. This may be considered the first step in the big job of housecleaning planned by President [illegible] Dreyfuss as a result of the disappointing showing of the Bucs this season, the initial move toward breaking up the regime of Jewel Ens and reconstructing the Corsair crew for the pennant race of 1932.

That Stanage was dismissed by the front office rather than by the manager is borne out by straws indicating that Ens is not to be retained for next year, as it is the custom in the major leagues to let the manager name his own coaching staff. Ens, a veteran of many coaches and have full supervision over them. In line with this policy, the local club will not name a new coach to replace Stanage for the remainder of the present season. The selection of Oscar's successor for the season will be left up to the new manager.

Oscar Stanage

[illegible] or defensive [illegible] a question which is certain to be settled before the next race begins. At least three who have been counted as regulars—an outfielder, an infielder and a pitcher—are likely to be among those departing, with another infielder added possibly.

Besides Stanage and Otis Crandall, Pirate coaches in the last 16 years have included Max Carey, Jack Onslow, Jewel Ens, Fred Clarke, Bill McKechnie and Bill Hinchman. Stanage is 45 years old and has been in professional baseball since 1906. Oscar reached his playing heights as a catcher on the Detroit club for 12 years. He caught two of the games in the 1909 world series for the Tigers against the Pirates.

IF DONIE BUSH [illegible] It will not be surprising if he [illegible] as a coach. It was Bush who persuaded Owner Barnes to appoint as manager of the Pirates for the 1927 season.

The two played together as teammates for many years on the Detroit club. When Bush became manager of the White Sox for 1930 Ens, fearing that he might take Stanage away from Pittsburgh, requested as a personal favor that the Pirates be allowed to keep Oscar, and Donie consented.

MAKING A HOME run in each of his last six games, Lou Gehrig fell just one homer behind the record for that number of contests. George Kelly, while with the Giants in 1924, made home runs daily in the six games of July 11, 12, 13, 14, 15 and 16, getting two in the second game of the string for a grand total of seven. Ken Williams, while with the Browns in 1922, accomplished a feat similar to that now credited to Gehrig, hitting a homer per game in six straight contests on July 28, 29, 30, 31, August 1 and 2. Babe Ruth's longest stretch of home-run hitting was five straight games in 1921, in which he made seven four-baggers. If Gehrig succeeds in hitting for the circuit again in his next game he will set a new record, becoming the first major league player ever to make a home run in every game through seven consecutive contests.

Bill Hallahan

WHEN HE FANNED 15 Pirates last Sunday, Wild Bill Hallahan, in addition to hanging up the year's record for one game in the majors, put himself in the race for the season's strikeout honors in the National League.

There's a hot three-cornered fight in progress for the 1931 whiffing championship in the older circuit, with the principals almost on even terms. Carl Hubbell, Giant lefthander, leads by a slight margin with 134 strikeouts in 26 games. Dazzy Vance, of the Robins, is second with 133 in 26 games, and Hallahan has advanced to third place with 131 in 26 games.

VANCE LED THE National League in strikeouts seven years in succession, from the time he joined the Robins in 1922 until Pat Malone finished ahead of him in 1929. Last year Hallahan beat out Vance for the leadership by only four, 175 to 171.

The American League also has a close struggle on hand, with teammates as the contenders. Lefty Grove has fanned 143 men in 35 games, and George Earnshaw has fanned 135 in the same number of bouts.

THE UNCERTAINTY OF golf has again been made clear in the qualifying rounds of the national amateur championship tournament in progress at Chicago. No followers of the sport undertaking to name the championship possibilities when the tourney started could have omitted Jimmy Johnston, Phil Perkins, Dr. O. F. Willing, Cyril Tolley, Charles Kocsis, Max Marston or Chick Evans. Yet every one of them failed to even qualify. So did Watts Gunn, of this city, and others who had been picked to show up well, while two additional title possibilities, Frank Dolp and Fay Coleman, just made the qualifying limit, 157.

IN MAKING KNOWN his choices for the championship, Bobby Jones, whose absence as a contestant put the whole thing up in the air, named Johnston, Perkins, Tolley and Vagt as having the best chances. Johnston, Perkins and Tolley did not even qualify and are out of it already, while Vagt was only two strokes under the limit.

These developments show the tourney to be even more open and uncertain than was feared at the start. It's anybody's championship, and the situation thus presented gives local enthusiasts hope that Sam Parks, Jr., Pittsburgh's only qualifier, who ranked fourth with 145, will keep this city in the competition longer than any local entrant was conceded a chance of doing when play began.

Helen Wills Moody

THE CAPTURE OF at least four more tennis titles is the aim of Miss Helen Wills Moody in the comeback that reopened for her the women's United States championship this year. She still is ambitious, despite her many triumphs. She admits that she wants to win two more American championships so that she can surpass Miss Molla Bjurstedt Mallory's total of eight, she would like to win one more Wimbledon crown to tie her string to five, and she also is eager to reign once again as champion of France, a ranking she has held three times. And judging from her present game, as compared with that of other leading women players, tennis experts are of the opinion that only sudden decision on her own part to retire can prevent the six-time American champion from gaining her objective.

SAMPLE GETS TRYOUT AS FULLBACK

By JESS CARVER

Mister Hooks Sample, who somehow or other makes you think of Ben Lyon, the movie comic, he spent some time yesterday pumping about as a fullback as Capezio. Tech's grid varsity was put through another scrimmage session.

There would be nothing remarkable about Mr. Sample performing as a fullback if it were not for the fact that he is supposed to be a guard and a darned good one, too. But it seems that the good Jesse Clyde Steffen is going to field all the cards this fall in an effort to create a sensation, if not particularly on the Skibo football craft, and the mere fact that a man may have made a name as an end or a tackle or a halfback last year is not going to mean a thing.

BIFF! BOOM! BANG.

Sample was full of jabs and punches and dodges and feints as the Skibo gridsters ran through a good old-fashioned scrimmage session at the Tech athletic field yesterday afternoon. His performance may not be hailed, but it is commendable as far as it goes, and let it be said that he may get another opportunity to toss the ball today. In fact the Jesse said after the drill that he was right well pleased with Hooks' work.

Mr. Sample's comments on the fullback job have been barred from the mails.

The shift of Sample was the only one of sensational import that has been tried out as a gainer. Jones in the past has been wont to brag about his abilities as a passer.

Time Out

Bob Jones, the double for Buck Valley on the Tech squad, with what ever medals are being passed out for having suffered the toughest break of the season. Bob, who has his name in the telephone book, got himself a job of work this summer and saved his dough. Each Saturday night, he'd sock most of his pay in the old bank, and when it came time to report for football camp, Jones figured he had quite a considerable wad of jack to bring along.

Then the day before he figured on going down town to draw it out—the bank went bust.

Sekyra Scores Win Over Charley Retzlaff

NEW YORK, Sept. 2.—(AP)—Joe Sekyra, clever Dayton, O., heavyweight, gave Charley Retzlaff the first setback of his eastern campaign last night when he outpointed the Duluth slugger in their 10-round bout at the Queensboro Stadium.

Nearly 10,000 fans saw the Dayton boxer outbox his rival and come very close to outslugging him when he risked trading wallops. After chopping him badly in the early rounds with hard righthand wallops that usually found their mark, Sekyra floored Retzlaff for a count of eight in the seventh.

CITY LEAGUE

Books at Dormont, postponed, rain.

By TOM BIRKS

Rain today caused a postponement of the playoff battle between Books and Dormont at Dormont for the second-half championship of the City League. The two clubs clashed last week, the contest ending in a riot in the first inning. Although the game was awarded to Dormont by forfeit, the league officials ordered the contest replayed.

Dormont officials announced that the game would be played on Friday evening.

There is a possibility that the second-half champion of the West Penn League will be named this evening following the playing of two of the most important games of the season. The Linwood club, at the present time leading the loop by a narrow margin, is scheduled to meet the Marty Griffin club at Malone Field.

Manager Ambrosius is going to work Zipiotti against the league leaders, and that's means getting runs is going to be one tough job. Getting Bence or Hall are ready to throw for Linwood.

Homestead Aces and the Reliance nines will tangle at Homestead, but unless Linwood is defeated the result of the game will not mean anything.

In the Steel City League the East End Cardinals will try and clinch the leadership by taking the Oliver Cubs at Oliver Field. The Cards will have to win this one to keep out in front of the Speer entry.

Tomorrow evening the Homestead Grays will meet the Homestead All-Stars at West Field in a charity game.

Carroll Scores Ace in City Golf Tourney

The first hole in one in a City championship was scored by M. Carroll in the fifth sixteen this afternoon when he dropped an ace into the cup on the 134-yard seventh hole. His opponent, Leo Schwartz, was disgusted, couldn't even win the hole with the birdie 2. Carroll won the match, 4 and 3.

D. Woods got a lucky break in the third sixteen of the City golf championship. His opponent, J. F. Jones, evened the match on the eighteenth hole. They halved the nineteenth. On the twentieth Jones ball landed in a tree and rested in a fork near its top. Woods won when Jones was forced to take a penalty for an unplayable lie.

LINWOOD BOWS TO RELIANCE

Reliance turned in a shutout victory over the Linwood nine in the West Penn circuit last evening, thus putting off, for the time being at least, Linwood's clinching of the second-half title.

In the Greater Pittsburgh district Edgewood walloped Immaculate Heart, 10-5, and Iroquois blanked North Bessemer, 9-0. In the Crafton-Ingram Church League, Methodists nosed out St. Phillips, 4-2.

The Crawfords walloped the Wally Smith nine in a six-inning game, 20-0, while the Homestead Grays, in Canton, were taking another game from the Kansas City Monarchs, 2 to 1.

BEARS RECALL HURLER

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Sept. 2.—(AP)—The Newark Bears have recalled Carl Fischer, young right-hander who has been doing some relief pitching for Springfield of the Eastern League, during the past two months. Deetjen will leave for Newark today.

CARDS BATTLE BUCCOS NEXT

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

Our Pirates and the flag-hunting Cardinals are due back on the big-time circuit tomorrow, after their little detours into the county fair circuits. The Buccos and Redbirds are due to open a series at Forbes Field tomorrow.

Provided the pace-setters continue the same driving style that has marked their stride of the past four weeks, they will be tough hombres for our boys. A club like the Cards is never licked, as witness the opening of the recent series in St. Louis.

Yesterday, while the Pirates were trimming Corrs in an exhibition tilt, the first moves in the reconstruction of the club were made when Oscar Stanage, veteran coach, was released and William H. Harris, a righthand pitcher, was purchased from Fort Worth of the Texas League. Harris is due to report to the Pirates tomorrow.

Less than four weeks of the present campaign are unfinished, but the Pirates will stage nearly all of their remaining games in the Oakland Orchard.

It would be quite an easy matter for the Fleetfooters to overcome and displace the fifth-place Braves during the long home stand, but they have given up hope of overtaking the Robins.

SANTA PAULA WINS

GETS HOLE IN ONE

BEVERLY, N. Y., Sept. 2.—(AP)—Miss David G. Ashcroft, 1924 out 4 when handicap in the Hole In One club's weekly event, took four, but one shot on the 135-yard seventh was a hole at the Black Knight Country Club course.

Depression On, Boxers Fight For Nothing

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 2.—(AP)—There were no paying customers, referee or ring when Matt Adgie, 165, and Al Ettore, 162½, swapped punches here last night. The battle took place on a street corner.

Adgie and Ettore were Max "Boo Boo" Hoff's prospective light - heavyweight champions until recently, when Adgie left the stable. Since then he had been seeking a bout with Ettore "in or out the ring." When they encountered each other by accident the match was made immediately.

The decision was given by police as assault and battery. Both fighters were held for a hearing.

JOHNNIES GAIN ON FIELD

Johnstown put a crimp in the ambitions of Huntington to win the second half flag in the Middle Atlantic League yesterday by walloping the West Virginians, 8-0. Thompson turning in a fine two-hit game. Huntington toppled into fourth place as a result of the defeat.

Clarksburg lost ground, bowing to Cumberland, 3-2, and Scottdale, in third place, was kept idle by rain.

Fairmont walloped Beaver Falls, 8-1; Charleston trimmed Charleroi, 6-2, and Wheeling and Beckley split a double bill, the Stogies winning the second game, 2-1, after losing the first, 9-2.

READING GETS CONLEY

MONTREAL, Sept. 2.—(AP)—Pabbo Whitman, Reading International League outfielder, has been traded to the Montreal Royals for Eddie Conley and an unannounced sum in cash.

BULLETIN.

BEVERLY COUNTRY CLUB, CHICAGO, Sept. 2.—Sam Parks, Jr., of Pittsburgh, was defeated by Jack Westland, of Chicago, 4 and 2, in the first round of the national Amateur golf tournament here today. Arthur Yates, Rochester, defeated Charles Seaver, Los Angeles, 1 up.

BEVERLY COUNTRY CLUB, CHICAGO, Sept. 2.—(AP)—Johnny Goodman, Omaha, one of the top seeded favorites, fell the victim of an upset in the first round of the National Amateur golf tournament today. The Nebraskan was beaten 2 and 1 by Billy Howell, of Richmond, Virginia state champion, playing in his first tournament.

The second [illegible] seeded" star to be knocked out was George Voigt, of New York. He was taken into camp by Richard Martin, of Chicago, the Big Ten champion, 2 and 1 after trailing 6 holes of the way.

Samuel M. Parks, Jr., of the Highland Country Club, Pittsburgh, who finished fourth in the qualifying test with 145, was 2 down to Jack Westland, Chicago district champion, and first day pace-setter, at the turn. Parks was out in 41 and Westland in 39. Their out cards:

In other matches Charles Seaver, Los Angeles, and Dicky Yates, Rochester, were all square at the turn. Russell Mann, Chicago, was 4 up on Maurice McCarthy, Jr., New York, after nine holes, and Bob Fraser, Jr., Canadian champion, was 2 up over Frank Howard, Cleveland.

The matches were played under rather difficult conditions. The day was dark and threatening and the fairways and greens were heavy from yesterday's rain. There was little carry on the ball off the tees.

FAVORITES ADVANCE IN CITY GOLF TOURNEY

SCHENLEY PARK STARS BATTLE IN DRIZZLE

By VERN SWARTSFAGER

Playing through miserable golf weather, favorites without exception survived first round match play in the annual conquest of the city championship at Schenley Park this morning and this afternoon were fighting it out for places in the quarter-finals.

In the upper bracket Carl F. Kauffmann, three times winner of the national public links title and victor in the city tourney five times in the last six years, was matching strokes between raindrops with J. Plack, who was considered a fairly easy foe.

PHILLIPS MEETS SEKAY

S. Walter Phillips, another muny links veteran, was engaged in heated combat with a young star, Archie Sekay, who is on the Pitt freshman grid squad this year. The closest match of the day was expected to develop in the lower bracket, however, between two prime title contenders, Andy Szwedko, of this year's Pittsburgh national public links team, and Johnny Pasikowski. They are well matched, and had they been in opposite divisions might have gone through to the final.

Francis Lally and Mike Galido, both members of local national public links teams, were having a setto in the only other contest in the titular group.

Weather of the sort that keeps golfers at the nineteenth hole confronted the record field of qualifiers this morning, causing an unprecedented number of withdrawals.

STARNA PRESSES CHAMP

Kauffmann found a formidable foe in Vince Starna, who made Carl play at his best to win. The margin of advantage was 2 and 1, and the champ was just as glad to get opposition of that sort out of the way in a hurry.

Dave Wilder fell before Plack, 1 up, in 20 holes, although he had the match virtually clinched on the sixteenth hole. With the contest dormie at that time, Plack made a great rally to go two extra holes to cop.

Phillips threw a pretty 32 at Joe Platt on the first nine to win, hands down, 6 and 5, and Archie Sekay advanced by virtue of Earl (Dick) Wessell's default.

P. J. O'Malley fell before Pasikowski, 3 and 2, and Lally copped from Southpaw Tom Barr, 7 and 5.

Bill Dadey was a hard foe for Mike Galido to beat, but he finally took his defeat to the tune of a 2-and-1 score.

Andy Szwedko, one of the finest Pittsburgh public linksmen, became a favorite in the lower bracket in defeating Ziff. Andy was 1 up at the turn, having gone out in 36, one more than par. Their cards:

Szwedko, out	4	6	4	5	3	2	5	3	4 — 36
Ziff, in	5	5	4	5	3	3	4	5	5 — 37
Szwedko, in	4	5	3	4	5
Ziff, in	4	5	4	4	4

Francis Lally advanced to the second round by defeating Tom Barr, 7 and 5.

KAUFFMANN PRESSSED

Negotiating a couple of stiff stymies, Kauffmann had a real struggle to down Starna. Carl was out in par 33, being 1 up. Starna clung to every opportunity to "take" the champion, but the defending titlist finished with a blare of glory and a couple of 3's to win. Their cards:

Kauffmann, out	4	4	4	4	5	3	5	5	33
Starna, out	4	5	5	5	3	4	4	4	34
Kauffmann, in	4	4	5	4	3	5	4
Starna, in	4	4	4	5	3	4	4

Lally had a splendid par 33 out to be 4 up on Southpaw Barr at the turn, although Tom was out in 38. Francis ended the contest in a hurry with three 3's and a 4 on the last holes. Their cards:

Lally, out	5	4	4	4	3	3	4	5	33
Barr, out	4	5	5	4	4	4	4	4	38
Lally, in	5	4	3	3
Barr, in	4	4	3	4

Plack made a remarkable recovery to beat Wilder. He was two down at the turn, but advanced to even matters on the eighteenth green. They halved the nineteenth in fours and Plack won on the twentieth with a 5. Wilder had Plack dormie on the seventeenth tee. Their cards:

Wilder, out	4	4	5	5	3	4	4	3	36
Plack, out	4	5	6	5	3	4	4	4	38
Wilder, in	5	5	4	5	3	4	4	5	36 — 72
Plack, in	5	4	5	4	4	3	5	4	34 — 72

MIKE GALIDO DRIVING FROM FIRST TEE AT SCHENLEY

The play of his rivals in the qualifying test yesterday indicates that Carl Kauffmann faces a stern fight in defending his city golf championship at the Schenley Park municipal links this week. Among his leading rivals for the crown is Mike Galido, shown driving from the initial tee while an admiring gallery lends him moral support in his efforts to get into the match play competition. Galido defeated Bill Dadey in the first round today, 2 and 1.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 2 — Here we are into Sept. and the harvest days will soon be over, Josie dear. In a couple of weeks you won't be able to get into a ball park without an armband, a chrysanthemum and a pocket flask and a good old college cheer.

There's only one good thing your Uncle Nick can see about football, when the cheer leaders grab a megaphone they don't start to croon.

Well, I'm having my rubber collar revulcanized and the toothbrush weeded out because I'll soon be heading for St. Louis and the World Series opener. That is, unless our Washington club plays a post-season series with the Department of Justice for the benefit of the wine brick industry.

KAYO FEATURES RING SHOW

The Mt. Washington Athletic Association staged its first amateur boxing show of the season last night at Marmerchor Hall. Seven bouts made up the card.

This was the first show staged on Mt. Washington in 12 years.

Rain forced a halt in the amateur ring show sponsored by the Keystone Canoe Club at the Twenty-seventh Ward A. C. arena, North Side, last night. Elmer Kozak, of the Valley Boxing Club, and Ray Haskins, of Natrona, boxed three rounds to a draw in the 118-pound class. It rained throughout the bout and prevented the staging of a fourth round. The summary:

175-pound class: Edward Jackson, Kratzer A. C., defeated Tubby Mills, Natrona, 3 rounds.

JONES READY TO BATTLE BROWN

By JAMES MILLER

Billy Jones, Negro light-heavyweight whose ring career reads like an Horatio Alger epic, has been training faithfully for the past week at the Norvell Gym, Wylie avenue, for his 10-round encounter with Natie Brown, the Hebrew heavyweight, of California, at Hickey Park, Millvale, tomorrow night.

Jones, born and raised in the Hill district, took up boxing as his vocation, but was forced to leave his home town and travel to Philadelphia to gain recognition.

From a preliminary boy, he fought his way to main bouts with such flashy figures as Maxie Rosenbloom, the light-heavyweight whom Billy defeated at Motor Square Garden last winter. In Brown, Jones is picking a tough one, and realizes he will have to be at his best to repulse Natie.

Brown arrived in town this morning accompanied by his manager, Billy McCarney. Natie came here straight from New York, where he scored a five-round knockout victory over Pavisi Presidio, of Italy, in the semi-final bout to the Retzlaff-Sekyra bout last night.

The eight-round semi-final will be a return bout affair between Bruno Sala, of Donora, and Buddy McArthur, of McKeesport. These two husky middleweights fought a hectic battle at McKeesport last winter with the decision going to Sala. Johnny Warner, of Clairton, and Jackie Wilson, Negro bantamweight, of Homewood, box the second bout and Paul Balint meets Al Farrone, of McKees Rocks, in the opening number.

Adventures of Policy Pete

Between Rounds

Jimmy Belmont and his new famous left hook will be seen again in action at the Meyers Bowl, North Braddock, Tuesday night, against Bucky Lawless, unbeaten warrior, of Syracuse, N. Y., in the 10-round main event. This bout should prove a bonanza with Jimmy's left mitt seeking a resting spot on Bucky's chin.

Sunny Jim McVey, hard-hitting Negro light-heavyweight, of the Hill, battles Chuck Taggart, of Butler, in the second bout. McVey has been working out with Billy Jones for this bout.

HARVARD BOWL PLAY TO OPEN SEPT. 21

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN

The ninth annual Harvard Cup Inter-Scholastic tennis tourney for the singles championship of Allegheny County preparatory and high schools will begin on Monday, September 21, according to official announcement by Wells Fay, successor to Wilbur Parshley, of Mount Lebanon, as chairman of the Crimson contesting.

As has been the case for the past several years, the competition will be of more or less tentative character, action being slated for the University of Pittsburgh courts the first two days, for Shady Side Academy the third day, for Arnold School the fourth and for the University Club the fifth, which is to say, final.

The Cambridge flagon can become the permanent possession of a given school only after it has been captured three times by representatives of the said institution. This far, no school holds more than one leg on the bowl. Billy O'Loughlin, present P. A. A. star, twice landed triumph for it, but first as a Shady Side standard-bearer and later as a luminary of Duquesne University Prep.

The mug now reposes in the trophy room of Mount Lebanon High School, whither it was whisked in 1930 through victory of Henry Ackerman.

Tomorrow night is the deadline for filing of entries in the Beaver County net championships, billed to get under way Saturday on the College Hill rectangles at Beaver Falls. Secretary Howard Campbell will receive names in care of the Keystone Driller Company, Beaver Falls, Pa.

IT'S A 56-POUNDER

HARRY PATTERSON AND HIS CATCH

STOCK MARKET LIST HEADS DOWNWARD

Lehigh Dividend Omission And Poor Freight Showing Start Fresh Rail Slump

NEW YORK, Sept. 2—(AP)—The stock market awoke from its nap in a rather despondent frame of mind today.

Omission of Lehigh Valley's dividend, together with a much less favorable than expected weekly report of freight movement, sent railroad equities into another slump. Mid-week business statistics generally made a rather sorry display. Steel and Electric Power reports failed to provide any trace of the expected seasonal quickening in industry.

Trading in shares continued in moderate volume, although it quickened substantially over yesterday's seven-year minimum level. Lehigh Valley tumbled some 8 points to the lowest price since 1902. Pennsylvania sagged more than 2 points to the lowest since 1902. Miscellaneous issues losing 2 to 4 points included New York Central, Southern Pacific, Union Pacific, Santa Fe, Allied Chemical, American Telephone, American Tobacco B, Eastman, Case and Western Union. United States Steel lost more than a point, as did many of the so-called pivotal industrials and utilities, although General Electric, General Motors and Radio lost only fractions.

The report of freight car loadings for the week ended August 22, showing a gain of only about 8,000 cars, was but a fraction of the usual upturn experienced in that period, and compared with advance estimates circulated in Wall street yesterday of 18,000 cars. The omission of Lehigh Valley's dividend aroused uneasiness over other railroad disbursements. Further reductions by Pennsylvania and New York Central are being freely forecast in brokerage circles.

The steel reviews estimated ingot output as unchanged or slightly lower around 31 per cent of capacity. A little pickup in automobile manufacturing is expected after a few weeks, which may help. In the meantime, the steel reviews continue to mention the prospect of wage reductions. Electric power production for the last week of August held about 3 per cent under last year, as it has all through the month. This contrasts with a decline of only 1.1-5 per cent in July from 1930.

The American Petroleum Institute's figures indicated the spectacular drop of more than 800,000 barrels in daily average crude oil production last week.

Wall street hears much discussion lately over plans to lift some of the burden of frozen real estate loans from the banks, possibly through formation of a large central mortgage bank.

AUGUST AUTO PRODUCTION

DETROIT, Sept. 2—Reo Motor Car Company shipped 1,137 cars and trucks in August, making the total for the first eight months 10,298 units. July shipments totaled 1,812 units.

Olds Motor works shipped 2,400 cars in August, against 1,983 in August, 1930. The company estimates retail deliveries last month exceeded factory shipments by 1,000 cars, showing an increase of 18 per cent over August, 1930.

Storage Gasoline Declines in July

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2—United States Bureau of Mines July report on petroleum statistics shows a decline of 3,964,000 barrels in storage of gasoline during the month, compared with a drop of 1,652,000 barrels in June.

Oil storage showed a decline of 3,415,000 barrels during July against a drop of 3,592,000 barrels in June.

Bank of England Buys African Gold

LONDON, Sept. 1—The Bank of England bought the bulk of the £950,000 South African bar gold available in the open market.

Bullion brokers are uncertain as to whether the bank bought the gold on its own behalf or for an unknown buyer.

Washington Bank Pays 5% Dividend

WASHINGTON, Pa., Sept. 2—The First National Bank of Monongahela has declared a regular 5 per cent dividend to stockholders of record of August 31. This marks the second 5 per cent dividend paid by this bank during the present year.

Lone Star Cancels Exchange of Stock

Lone Star Gas Corporation advises that the time for exchanging outstanding scrip certificates for common stock resulting from a stock dividend of one for seven common shares has been indefinitely postponed.

Pennsy Loadings Higher for Week

Pennsylvania Railroad System in week ended August 29 handled 116,127 revenue cars, compared with 114,581 in the preceding week and 148,327 in the like week in 1930. Loadings from January 1 totaled 4,066,418 against 4,968,-695 in the like 1930 period.

Few of More Courageous Leaders Take Advantage Of Present Low Prices

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER

NEW YORK, Sept. 2.—A vast amount of orders for engineering projects is accumulating and will be released as soon as industrial executives have confidence in the future of business.

Accordingly, once the turn

ing immediately in order to take advantage of present low costs. In commenting on the situation to go ahead, George E. Roberts, vice president of the National City Bank of New York, points out:

"Business must have either confidence in the future or the incentive of unusually low costs . . . there is no question but that prices of many commodities are rapidly getting to levels which constitute a strong inducement to buyers."

AWAIT CLEAR SKIES

My own survey among financial engineers has confirmed the statement by Merryle S. Rorty, Wall street financier and former vice president of the International Telephone and Telegraph Company, before the Institute of Politics at Williamstown to the effect that thousands of business men are planning forward steps and are awaiting only the first signs of clearing financial skies to start new undertakings. Mr. Rorty disclosed that engineering firms report their own offices filled with new projects that await only a minimum restoration of confidence to realize themselves in tangible form.

In a message to this column, H. K. Ferguson, president of the H. K. Ferguson Company, engineers and builders, Cleveland, said:

"In agreement with the suggestions from Mr. Rorty, we are now in touch with about $12,000,000 worth of work which is waiting for the signs of reasonable resumption of business in order to go ahead."

"Some of this work already shows signs of impatience to take advantage of the present low costs for construction and equipment and will probably go forward this winter anyway. Some of the rest of it, which is rather closely tied up with Eastern capital, will probably wait until prices have already begun to advance before actually letting contracts."

WORK UNDER WAY

In referring to those with the courage to lead and to go ahead with constructive projects now, Mr. Ferguson added:

"We are just finishing about a half million dollars worth of work for the Libbey Glass Company in Toledo to provide additional capacity.

"We have about half completed a large new factory to house the combined activities of the American Multigraph Company of Cleveland and the Addressograph Company of Chicago, in the outskirts of Cleveland."

I lay stress on these constructive activities because the whole economic situation is depressed on account of subnormal expenditures for capital improvements and engineering projects which are at the very core of the problem of economic recovery.

Stock Exchange Takes Extra Holiday

NEW YORK, Sept. 2.—The New York Stock Exchange will be closed on Saturday, September 5, preceding Labor Day, in accord with a vote of the governing committee. The New York Curb Exchange and the securities division of the New York Produce Exchange also will close on Saturday.

Other security and commodity markets throughout the country are expected to follow the lead of the "big board" in closing Saturday.

COTTON LOWER AT OPENING

NEW YORK, Sept. 2.—(AP)—Cotton opened steady today, 8 to 11 points lower under liquidation or reselling by some of yesterday's buyers who were evidently influenced by relatively weak Liverpool cables.

December sold off to 7.03 and March to 7.31 under the initial pressure, but the market later rallied with the active months ruling about 6 to 7 points net lower at the end of the first half hour.

Liverpool cables said the decline in that market had been due to hedging, local and continental liquidation, and reported a small business in cotton cloths from the Manchester outlets generally.

Bulges from the opening decline seemed to meet considerable selling by houses with Liverpool connections. Prices eased to 7.00c for December and 7.29c for March. Offerings subsided after the close of the market abroad, however, and prices here stiffened again late in the morning on covering and some further trade buying. At midday December was selling around 7.07c and March 7.32c, or within 5 or 6 points of yesterday's closing quotations.

GRAINS START HIGHER

CHICAGO, Sept. 2.—Firmness of the Liverpool wheat market caused scattered buying here today and wheat averaged higher. Report of renewed rains in Northern Europe with probable further damage to crops and a better demand for wheat gave Liverpool strength. Trade was small and prices held within narrow limits. Corn opened generally steady with heavy rains that have fallen over parts of the belt attracting attention. Wheat started unchanged to ¼ cent higher. Corn opened generally steady to ⅜ higher and fluctuated narrowly.

Private estimates of the probable size of the 1931 United States corn and spring wheat crop were bullish, but had little effect on prices as scattered selling forced the market lower. Estimates on the present condition of the crop showed considerable deterioration since August 1. The average of all estimates placed the corn crop at 2,733,000,000 bushels, compared with the August 1 average of 2,850,000,000 and an actual harvest in 1930 of 2,094,000,000. The government estimate for August was 2,775,000,000.

Fanchon Feels Pity Instead Of Love for Tony

CHAPTER XVIII

Fanchon stood in the pleasant, quiet apartment house lobby and read the scrawled note again and again. Then she crumpled it in her hand and walked steadily toward the elevator.

Tony had found her at last. Tony had traced her to this little haven of peace, and of security. Tony had traced back to claim her.

How had he found out where she was . . . under whose name she was living, her enchanted and threatened existence?

Suddenly, now that he had struck, now that she knew she could no longer escape, she was not afraid. She was only chilled through with some ruthless determination that, as yet, she could not name. She could fight Tony, she could fight him as she could ask no terms, she could try to meet them; as long as they included no return to a life that no longer existed.

Having known Tony's ways, having fallen down stairs with Collin, having lived through one night with the realization of what Tony's knowledge of her deception would mean to her, having lain sleepless, tortured with the thought of Collin's love for her and hers for him and in utter hopelessness, she was no longer afraid of Tony.

With this in her heart she went to the Brooklyn address on the following afternoon.

It was easy to provide herself with means and an excuse for this minor deception. The Carstairs had several cars and two chauffeurs. Therefore a car and a driver were always at Fanchon's disposal. Collin drove himself, as a rule, in a trim, shining, long-bodied roadster. Fanchon, too, had her own car and had learned to drive it in the country. It was this she had up for the winter.

EASY TO GO OUT

To go out was easy enough. She had made a number of friends; she was inundated with invitations to dances, affairs, matinees, bridge, luncheons, bridge. And she went shopping often. She told Jerome, therefore, that she asserted that Mrs. Carstairs had an engagement for the afternoon that she would like to go shopping. The man, she added, could drive her to a central shop and then because the day was pleasant, she would like to walk. She hadn't, she added laughing and marveling at her own aptitude for acting, learned the car habit as yet.

She wore her simplest walking suit. She wore her little fur piece, pretty but not particularly expensive, which she had bought herself. She put the remainder of Tony's money into an envelope and placed it in her handbag. She laid her pearls aside, her diamond and platinum watch. Not because she feared for Tony's honesty in these matters but because she had no idea of the section into which she was going.

REACHES DESTINATION

She stopped at the bank and drew out enough money from her current account to make up the sum which Tony had given her. Little had been spent of it save for the airplane passage, a small sum to the people who had cared for her since then much augmented by her checks sent at Mrs. Carstairs' suggestions and the sum she had left with the doctor to take care of Evelyn.

She had the car leave her at a shop. She waited till the man had driven away. She then entered the shop, came out and took a taxi and went to the Brooklyn address. There she dismissed the taxi and stood a moment before the quiet, rather shabby-looking brownstone house which advertised rooms to rent.

The neighborhood had once been very good, the street was in a backwater, a small, humid street. It was run down now, the very trees growing forlornly from the asphalt had a neglected and pathetic appearance. Children played mildly enough in the gutter. Women went by, market baskets on their arms. Some were slatternly, some were neat and self-respecting in appearance. Before one house a very fine, expensive car stood, a chauffeur waiting. As Fanchon hesitated an elderly woman, wrapped in an ancient mink coat, came down the steps of the house. Evidently she had always lived in the neighborhood and nothing would make her move away, not even the gradual degradation and decay.

WAITING FOR HER

Slowly Fanchon went up the brownstone steps. They crumbled a little. The handrail of stone was worn. Shabby, dusty Brussels lace curtains hung at the front windows.

She did not know what she would say. She could not know. Her mind was almost blank but of her courage she was certain. Tony had loved her. Perhaps, still loved her. Possibly within his love for her she might find some core of understanding for her position, some excuse for what she had done. Yet on the other hand that very understanding and that same love might constitute for her the greatest menace of all.

Looking at him, she remembered how much, how unthinkingly she had cared. Looking at him with the eyes which had looked upon Collin to love him irrevocably and forever, she felt no stirring of the senses, simply a strange constriction of the heart, in pity for Tony, in pity and compassion for all that had been between them, in pity for the girl she had once been.

He said, evenly:

LOVE GONE

"You came. Good. We have much to talk about." He took her wrist and drew her gently but relentlessly into the house. "Come," he said, with a flash of his white teeth, "into this—parlor. We shall be undisturbed. Quite alone."

She followed him. The room was long, it was dark, there were velour overdrapes. On the papered, peeling walls were Victorian era prints, once very gay, now rather dismal looking. Stags at bay and curly-headed, golden-haired children at prayer. The furniture was plush, a dusty red. There was a fine mantel. Candlesticks of wood and two conch shells reposed upon it. Beneath it was a gas log, not lighted.

In one corner, a whatnot, loaded with dusty china knick-knacks; in the other, a really lovely secretary . . . a bead curtain divided the room from another room. There was a small square piano, a scarf thrown over it. There were modern student lamps and one oil lamp, in red glass. There was a Rodgers group and a ladder backed chair and a morris chair and two pieces of mission furniture. It was a hodge podge of generations, all of them dusty. It had a strange odor, that room, dust, decay, disinfectant, cabbage boiling and genteel poverty . . . It was incredibly depressing.

"You are lovelier than ever," he said softly.

There was no shock to her senses in his nearness. Her senses remembered dimly. But love, which had glowed through them was gone. That she experienced no revulsion was merely habit. Her senses might remember but her heart did not; nor yet her mind. She drew herself away, gently.

"Please, Tony," she said.

Synopsis

Young and beautiful Fanchon Meredith leaves San Francisco by airplane to escape arrest in connection with a murder in which her sweetheart, Tony, is implicated. She had not known that he was a gunman. Evelyn Howard, whom Fanchon had met on a voyage from Hawaii, is aboard. She is en route to New York to live with her wealthy aunt, Mrs. Allison Carstairs, whom she has never seen. The plane crashes and all but Fanchon are killed. Grasping the opportunity to start life anew, Fanchon goes to the Carstairs home as Evelyn. Mrs. Carstairs' affection wins her heart. At Southampton awaiting the arrival of her son Collin, Mrs. Carstairs warns Fanchon not to take him seriously. He arrives and accuses Fanchon of being there under false pretenses. Collin objects to "Evelyn." Fanchon learns that Evelyn had indiscreet affairs with a naval officer and a native. Fanchon's sincerity in explaining that "her" indiscretion was only folly overcomes Collin's antagonism. A warm comradeship ensues and together they spend a happy summer. Collin and Fanchon love one another. He is prevented from confessing his love because of the blood carrier, and she because of her masquerade. Collin admits it to his mother. At her debut in New York Collin cannot resist professing his love. A few days later a threatening note comes from Tony.

DAILY SHORT STORY

Mother Role

Movie Director Granted Divorce From Wife

Selzman, the producer, was sore because if Blacknor had postponed his merrymaking until after the picture was finished he wouldn't have been full of bath-tub gin and tried to run his car up an oil well derrick.

"Say," Selzman said to Sam Kingsmore, Blacknor's assistant, "can you finish 'Silent Sins?'"

"That's a promise," Sam cried.

"You got your money, you got your name on it—what do you want?" Selzman asked.

The report came in that "Silent Sins" was a hit. On the strength of this Sam Kingsmore went to Selzman about it.

"How about making me a regular director, Mr. Selzman? It was a good picture and you said—"

WANTS BEAUTIFUL WIFE

"His head will swell up and he'll float right off the lot like a toy balloon," one of the old-timers declared.

Sam did think rather highly of himself, but he kept both feet on the ground and began to make a success. That was how he soon had a safe balance in the bank and a nice bungalow home.

About this time Sam figured that he ought to marry. His idea of a perfect marriage was to win some star whose earnings were top-notch. No telling when the crazy picture game would flop.

His next best plan was to find some little beauty of a girl and make a star of her. All he wanted, he told himself, was a really beautiful girl who would be meek and dumb enough to do exactly as he said.

There were pretty girls in plenty, but beautiful ones seemed to be quite scarce.

And then Sam saw a girl sitting in the big casting room. She certainly had looks, a fresh, unspoiled beauty. His practiced eye told him that she would screen "like a million dollars."

"No more today," the casting director's secretary called. Those waiting moved out, rather sadly. Sam followed the beautiful girl out and stopped her.

MAKES APPOINTMENT

"Hello there," he said, smiling at her as if he were giving her the treat of her life.

The girl looked at him.

"If you do what I tell you, and I won't tell you to do anything you wouldn't do in the presence of your mother, I can make a star out of you. What is your name?"

"Nilda Norman."

"It's all the name I ever had."

"Call for me tomorrow at 8, on stage eight—this will get you in."

"At present she is the brand new bride of your star director, Sam Kingsmore," Sam said, which was true, for he had already married Nilda, "but in the very near future she will be your star movie actress—or at least some big producer's star."

"Well, show me," Selzman said.

Sam did show him. Nilda Norman, in private life Mrs. Sam Kingsmore, worked in four more pictures, having better parts each time, and then made her smashing big hit as the star of "Hell of the Squatters."

For four years Nilda Norman continued to star. By this time Sam had reached a point where the pictures he directed were using the credit line, "A Sam Kingsmore Sensation."

It was at this time that Monda Gravelle came to the coast. Monda was 30 and a widow. Her husband, whom she married in his 70th year, had been unable to take his millions along with him and Monda certainly intended to use them. She hit the coast just in half mourning.

Sam met Monda at the Selzman home. Selzman knew about her millions and found her strangely interesting. However, Selzman did not interest Monda. Sam did interest her. He made it his way to do so.

Monda fell hard for Sam. That he had a wife didn't matter to her. Such encumbrances could be Reno'ed easily enough.

And Nilda had been working too hard. She was getting tired. She needed a rest and Sam suggested a long rest. The result was that Nilda put on weight amazingly, so much, in fact, that Sam told her bluntly that her stardom days were over.

Then he went to her with a proposition—divorce.

Nilda was terribly hurt, more hurt than she would admit to Sam. She was also proud.

"If you feel that way, Sam, I won't stand in your way. I suppose it is that wealthy widow, isn't it?"

"What's that to you, Nilda?"

"Nothing at all. How about a settlement?"

"Haven't you got plenty? You made dollars to my dimes."

"What's that to you, Sam?"

"Well, how much?"

"Half a million."

"Are you crazy?"

"Monda doesn't think any more of half a million than you do of your marriage vows."

Sam and Nilda and Monda had a little meeting.

"If you want him," Nilda said coldly, "tell him to settle half a million on me."

"I'll do—I mean, Sam can do that," Monda answered.

TO BE GIVEN ROLE

Monda Gravelle staked Sam to the price of his first picture and it was a hit. He made another, taking almost a year and putting into it more than the profits of their first one. It was supposed to be a world-beater.

While not quite that, it did get over.

It was when he was planning still another, and wondering if he could make enough money this time to tell Monda he had changed his mind about marrying, and retire, that he met May Marvin, a well-known character actress. He asked her where she had been all this time.

"Yeah?"

"Yes—and I never was so surprised in my life."

"I know—fat and wrinkled, and out of the game for keeps. I knew she wouldn't last."

"Honestly, you'd be surprised, Sam, and she says she has you to thank for it."

"Blaming me, eh? Now that's gratitude. I found her as a kid and made a star out of her."

"Like that, eh? Too bad. Well," and Sam grinned, "I'll give her work in my next picture, a good part, too. It's a mother role."

"Mother role? Why Sam!"

"She's fat and wrinkled! What do you expect?"

So Sam Kingsmore wrote to his former wife, stating that if she really needed work he could give her about six weeks at a hundred a week in a mother role.

"You were always a dear, Sam—no one knows better than myself your true worth and your tender heart. I'll be on the job on the sixteenth.

"NILDA."

Sam thought it was quite a joke. He told it around, that his former wife was going to do a mother role in one of his pictures. He even saw Lane, the publicity man, told him to make a good sensational movie yarn out of it about the time the picture was half finished.

She arrived unannounced. Sam and Monda and others were grouped around Gregory Gorman, the handsomest and most popular male star in moviedom at the time. He had agreed to work in Sam's new picture.

While they were flocking about Gregory, Nilda appeared. Sam didn't know her. She seemed like a girl of 16. She had never been so beautiful.

"I thought—I—I thought—"

"I know, Sam—I won't do for the mother role, you think?"

"Heck with Monda—what do you say?"

"I'll ask Gregory," and she called Gregory over to her. He came smiling and put his arm about her with tenderness.

"Greg, Sam wants me to opposite you in this pictu, do you mind?" Nilda asked.

HUSBAND AGREES

"Why not? Pickford and Fairbanks play together and the public knows they are man and wife. See no harm in Norman and Gorman playing together," Gregory said.

"What—are—"

"Oh, yes, Sam—Greg and I have been married three months—no publicity. It was a love match, not a movie match." Nilda turned to her handsome husband. "Imagine, Greg, Sam sent for me to play a mother role!"

Everyone laughed—except Sam.

Gregory whispered to Nilda. Nilda blushed prettily and pretended to slap him, but it was a love pat as all could see.

"I hope so," she said.

Everyone laughed again—except Sam—for one must have been dumb, indeed, not to have guessed what Gregory whispered to Nilda.

Fire Hazard in Schools

If, as Fire Chief Smith Thinks, Automatic Sprinklers Are Essential, They Should Be Installed.

Fire Chief Richard L. Smith does not have the reputation of being an alarmist, and accordingly his statement that some of the public schools are fire traps is not to be dismissed lightly, even though Ben Graham, superintendent of schools, disputes it.

Smith's statement is based on reports of inspectors who visited the schools to see if they were protected against fires such as that which destroyed the Little Sisters of the Poor Home for the Aged.

His chief reason for calling some of them fire traps is that they lack automatic sprinklers. The absence of such sprinklers was pointed to by fire insurance men, after the Home for the Aged fire, as one of the things that contributed to its magnitude.

Register Tomorrow

The Polling Places Will Be Open from 8 to 11 A. M. and from 5 to 11 P. M.

Tomorrow is the first of the three days set for the personal registration of Pittsburgh voters. The polling places will be open from 8 to 11 o'clock in the morning and from 5 to 11 in the evening, daylight saving time.

Citizens would do well to register tomorrow and thus make certain of being eligible to cast their ballots at the important primary election of September 15. It is best to have the task over and done with, so that if something should come up to prevent going to the polling place on either of the two subsequent registration days it will make no difference.

For the voters' own convenience it is desirable to register tomorrow. It will be done more easily and with less loss of time the first day than later, because there is less of a crowd on the first day and there is invariably a rush on the last day.

Don't forget that you must show a tax receipt to qualify for registration and that this is the last day to be assessed for taxation.

Religion Not an Issue

The so-called Federation of Patriotic Societies has done the unpatriotic thing of attempting to inject religious prejudice into the political campaign.

Its ticket is obviously the result of a studied effort to keep certain candidates out of office because of their church connections.

Sensible voters will not allow themselves to be influenced by religious bigotry in estimating the fitness of the candidates for the offices to which they aspire. Religious bigotry is nothing but blind unreasoning fanaticism, and when citizens allow it to sway them there is danger that rascals and incompetents will be elected.

The capable and honorable candidates are not all members of the same denomination by a long shot. There are good men, and bad, in all the great branches of the church.

Better Study Than Loaf

The Unemployed Should Use Their Free Time for the Improvement of Their Education.

The public and parochial schools opened yesterday for the new school year, and the colleges and professional schools will resume sessions shortly.

No doubt there are many young people in the Pittsburgh district who, on graduating last June, thought their school days were over. They expected to go to work, but because of industrial conditions have been unable to obtain jobs.

It would not be a bad plan for them to return to school. They certainly did not learn, during the period of their attendance, all that was to be learned. There are other courses than those they took, higher branches than those they studied, other departments than those in which they were enrolled.

Even older persons without jobs and without immediate prospect of employment might do well to attend a college or technical or professional school.

It is better to spend the free time in studying than in loafing.

Benefits of Camp Life

Boys Learn the Value of Neatness and Order When They Keep House for Themselves in the Woods.

R. B. Heberling, assistant forester of the Forbes State Forest, tells of a boy camper in the forest this summer whose father remarked that while he was inclined to be untidy at home he quickly protested if anyone threw cigaret butts or paper around carelessly in the tent and, indeed, insisted on neatness and order in everything connected with his camp.

This boy is not an exceptional case. The appreciation of tidiness that he learned while keeping house for himself in the woods is one of the benefits of camping.

The Forbes Forest is close to the Lincoln Highway, about 50 miles from Pittsburgh, and attracted many thousands of visitors this summer. It is a large forest, with numerous attractive camp sites, and it is to be hoped the public will come to use it more and more for recreation purposes.

A Cleaner River

Pittsburgh Will Gain by Plans of Upper Allegheny Towns for Sewage Treating Plants.

Good news comes from the state Sanitary Water Board. It reports that in submission to its requirements Franklin and Oil City have purchased sites for sewage disposal plants, Warren and Kittanning have negotiations under way looking to similar action, and they, together with Tidioute, Tionesta, Applewold, Ford City and Sugar Creek Township, Venango County, have all levied taxes for sewer construction.

The preparations of these upper Allegheny River towns for sewage treatment will result in the stream being just a little bit cleaner when it reaches Pittsburgh.

Another step that would reduce the pollution nuisance would be for the government to establish flood-protection storage reservoirs at the headwaters, as proposed by the Flood Commission of Pittsburgh, and thus increase the dry-weather flow. The effect of the pollution is worst in times of low water.

You know those two famous rocks, Scylla and Charybdis, and you also have heard about piling Pelion on Ossa.

Or don't you know about Scylla and Charybdis, about the horrible sea monster, partly mermaid, with the heads of dogs springing from her loins, on one rock, and the monster Charybdis under another rock, sucking in and spouting out the sea water. If you don't you can't possibly understand the sorrows of the little girl in this picture.

Odysseus, going between Scylla and Charybdis, when six men were snatched from his boat, had a pleasant voyage compared to our little lady's jaunt, with Prohibition on one side and the gunmen on the other.

As for piling Pelion on Ossa, we refer you to little Mr. Business Revival.

This series will continue, with interruptions off and on, to remind you of our "Business Recovery." Follow it without fail. For Mr. Opper, sitting like a modern Teufelsdrockh on top of his observation tower, sees everything and reports accurately.

Today's Wonder

It Is Tomorrow's Commonplace.

C. W. SCOTT, WHO RECENTLY FLEW FROM AUSTRALIA TO LONDON IN 10 AND A HALF DAYS, AND WAS HARDLY NOTICED.

LOUIS BLERIOT, WHO FLEW THE ENGLISH CHANNEL in 1909 AND SET THE WORLD ON FIRE WITH EXCITEMENT.

On the left is a splendid British flier, C. W. Scott, who recently flew from Australia to London in ten and a half days, half way around the world, without creating much excitement, except among his own friends and professional fliers.

On the right is the able French aviator, Louis Bleriot, first that ever flew across the English Channel. In its narrowest part the English Channel is a little over 20 miles wide. There are thousands of small boys now that could fly the Channel and back again a dozen times and think nothing of it.

But in 1909 that was new, and the whole world rang with the marvellous accomplishment, actually GOING UP INTO THE AIR and actually FLYING.

It was important to England, for it meant that ENGLAND WAS NO LONGER AN ISLAND. It meant, although many in England didn't know it as first, and nobody in OUR government seems to know it yet, that ships on the water were no longer of importance.

It was Lord Northcliffe, able British newspaper man, one of the best public servants that Britain ever had, who offered $50,000 reward to the first man that should fly the Channel. It was Bleriot that won the $50,000.

And it was Lloyd's Insurance Company that PAID the $50,000. Northcliffe, wise editor, offered the prize of $50,000. Then, for a small sum, Lloyd's insured him, guaranteeing him against having to pay the money. It seemed so utterly improbable that within the time set such a miracle as flying the Channel could happen.

But it did happen. Northcliffe got the satisfaction of promoting aviation, and also got valuable advertising. Lloyd's paid the $50,000.

Not all, but some editors are as smart as that.

Soon enormous machines will go round and round the world, a dozen or a hundred times, without coming down, making repairs, taking on fuel in the air, dropping off passengers in small planes above California, Japan, Europe. And people will say only "of course."

A little while ago some Americans, with long beards, shaven chins, high silk hats, were driving a golden nail in a railroad tie, or trying to drive it, to celebrate the completion of the first railroad across the continent.

And already railroads are nearly out of date, ALTHOUGH NONE OF THEIR OWNERS YET REALIZE THE VALUE OF THEIR RIGHTS OF WAY. THEY WILL REALIZE IT LATER.

Marry-Go-Round

Love and the Woman

Ten years ago love was suffering from malnutrition; now it is dying from overstimulation and nervous indigestion.

* * *

The reason why a man seems to be able to get through so much more work in a day than a woman does, is probably because he doesn't spend half of it in wondering if some other man is fatter than he is.

A girl may be sensible enough to believe only half that a woman-charmer says—but somehow she always chooses the half that he didn't really mean.

* * *

Considering that love is the most absorbing game of a woman's life, it is astonishing how little she ever learns about when to hold and when to play her winning cards, or how to keep a poker face.

* * *

* * *

A woman's face wears the same cryptic expression when her husband tries to alibi himself after a little sentimental deflecting as the shoe clerks wear when a woman tries to "explain" the hole in her stocking.

Somehow, a woman can always "sense" when her husband's private secretary has ceased to be her ally in misery and has started in trying to "understand" her Boss.

* * *

"Beware the Greeks most when they offer gifts"—and a woman most when she offers to be your "little platonic pal!"

* * *

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. MUNDY

At times you wonder why you don't make a better impression upon new acquaintances.

It surprises you that people lose interest in you after you have been associated with them for a short time.

Has it ever occurred to you that you become too well acquainted—too easy and too free after a brief time in the society of those you meet?

They don't want to accept you till they know more about you.

They dislike to have it appear that you are a friend till you are more tried and proven.

Usually the too-easy-to-know person is not of much value inspirationally and does not represent much.

You get acquainted too quickly but you don't like to be called shallow and superficial.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Sept. 2.—Night clubs will make no effort to swing out of their inertia this fall. Most of those shut for the summer will remain closed. While optimists believe prosperity will restore them to popularity, the majority believe the idea has spent itself.

Their doom was sealed when the control of a large number passed to racketeers and mysterious murders became almost a weekly event. What is left of the so-called "night life" is confined to private residences made over into speak-easy hide-aways.

Even these, hooray! find the going tough. During the height of the night club craze there were more than 500 in mid-town, opening after theater and closing at dawn. Today not more than two dozen of consequence remain and they are desolated.

With the decline of the night clubs there set in a wave of nocturnal enthusiasm for various all night sandwich salons and for months these were crowded with Broadway stay-outs who like to show off. But now there is scarcely a handful in those once heavily patronized.

The situation on Broadway is just as pronounced in London, Paris and Berlin. A theatrical agency computes that as a result of this collapse there are more than 20,000 entertainers out of employment in various parts of the world.

* * *

Broadway wonders what became of Leon Gordon, actor and playwright—not the artist—who came to the Rialto about 15 years ago. He wrote "White Cargo," which made a fortune for him and the producer, Earl Carroll. Gordon was sued for plagiarism and afterward vanished. That was 10 years ago. Nobody has heard of him since.

Nothing startles New York like the report of a subway disaster. Nearly every home has a tube traveler. Thus sellers of fake extras drum up big sales after New York goes to work by rushing through residential streets shouting, "Subway Wreck." As old as it is it never fails.

I breakfasted the other morning with a man who winced at intervals from sudden spasms of pain. He would shake his left hand as though to restore circulation. Finally he excused himself and upon returning seemed at ease. He explained that 20 years ago he lost an index finger in an accident and at intervals feels twinges at the end of the missing finger. The only relief is in plunging his hand in hot water.

And at a dinner talk turned to people who made you remember them by the sheer glamour of personality. Among them were Theodore Roosevelt, Eva Tanguay, Caruso, Jeritza and Mayor Walker. My impression is that achievement often builds up something that most people accept as personality. The person to me who expressed more personality than anyone I have ever known was encountered in a Pullman smoker between St. Louis and Kansas City. He was a chimpanzee-like hunchback dropping in for an after dinner cigar. When he talked one entirely forgot his looks. Not until I saw him more than a year later on a vaudeville stage did I know he was the late Marshall P. Wilder. Out of the current crop of celebrities who express personality with the most pronounced plus, I would vote for Floyd Gibbons.

Then, too, a gentleman observed that he had never met a writing man whose looks suggested his calling. Irvin Cobb he thought might be the owner of a wayside English inn; Sinclair Lewis, a third baseman in a brush league; Fannie Hurst suggested the proprietress of a Broadway gown shop; Charles G. Norris, the managing director of a big London hotel and Peter B. Kyne, a contractor's foreman. The novelist who comes nearest to suggesting the books he writes is Opie Read. And the most unactory looking actor is Donald Meek.

Perhaps similar musing could apply to every calling. Norman Hapgood is the only magazine editor I ever saw who looked the part. Certainly Arthur Hopkins or Charles Dillingham do not suggest theatrical producers.

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

This is one of those days . . .
Everything gone blah.
Ever since morning I've been sitting
At this doggoned machine,
Typing pages, tearing them up—
Might as well be doing
Copy book exercises
For all the wallop
There is in my stuff today.
Yet—it's got to be done, somehow—
Newspapers can't stop
Because I'm in the dumps—
Contracts aren't suspended

Fierce—to be tied down like this—
So many words to be written every day—
Day after day
Year after year
Whether I feel like it or not—
Grinding out words
Like a busted meat-chopper.
Am I sorry for myself?
Stranger, I'm just one long
Choking Sob—
That's how sorry I am for myself.

Wonder if other people feel like this
About their jobs—
Wonder if they have days
When everything goes blah . . . .
Famous people—
Makers of History—
Big Shots—
Did they get like this?
The Vikings, the Crusaders,
The Pilgrims, the Pioneers,
Did they have moments
When their ears trailed?
Saint Paul — (that snootiest Saint!)
Old J. Caesar—
There was a colorful lad!
Alexander the Great
And Mister Columbus—
Did they spend hours 'n' hours
Just chewing their nails
Or making marks on the telephone pad?
Or, getting down to modern whoises—
Wise kid, Lindy,
Mussolini, the Big Snort,
Willie Rogers, the Wise Snicker,
Do they, sometimes,
Between press notices,
Just sprawl around
And make wah-wah noises?
I suppose they do.
I suppose they get sick of themselves,
Sick of their jobs,
Exactly as I do—
YET THEY GET THINGS DONE.
Good days or bad days,
Ha-ha days or ga-ga days,
They keep plugging along—
AND GET THINGS DONE.

Strange—when you think of it that way.
When you stop to consider
That for millions of years
This human race has been Putting over Front Page News—
Working wonders and miracles—
And how was it done?
Was it done with a lot
Of fizz and whoopee and pep
By guys who felt
All full of fireworks?
No, friend, it wasn't.
It was mostly done
By a bunch of peevish, tired out
Flat Tires
Who felt that everything
Had gone blah—
BUT KEPT ON PLUGGING—
JUST AS IF THEY HAD GOOD SENSE.

Well, it's wonderful.
You and I should certainly be Thankful to think that we Have heroes like that
In this world.
But, 'smatter of fact—I'M NOT!
Let 'em be heroes if they want to.
All I know is—days like this GIVE ME A PAIN IN THE NECK.

WHAT DO YOU KNOW?

By S. H. Connolly

The knowledge test:

1. What is Al Aaraaf?
2. What was the first savings bank in the United States?
3. What Norwegian farmer wrote "Hunger" and "Growth of the Soil?"
4. What was the capital of the United States at the time of Washington's Inauguration?
5. An official mark of genuineness of gold or silver articles is known as what?
6. What is algine?
7. The study of psycho-analysis was founded by what Austrian psychologist?
8. Where did Ireland's name "Emerald Isle" originate?
9. What is the highest mountain in the world?
10. That part of biology dealing with cell-structure of plants and animals is known by what name?

11. Suez Canal	Buzzards Bay to Barnstable Bay.
12. Cape Cod Canal	Manchester to Liverpool.
13. New York Barge Canal	Lake Ontario to Lake Erie.
14. Welland Ship Canal	Mediterranean to Red Sea.
15. Bridgewater Canal	Lake Erie to Hudson River.

1. Mohammedan limbo, abode of souls equally good or bad. 2. Philadelphia Savings Fund Society—1816. 3. Knut Hamsun. 4. New York City. 5. Hall-mark. 6. Viscous gum, obtained from certain seaweeds, used as size for textile fabrics, and to thicken jellies and soups. 7. Sigismund (or Sigmund) Freud. 8. From poem "Erin," written in Eighteenth Century by Dr. W. Drennan. 9. Mt. Everest, Nepal, India—29,002 feet above sea level. 10. Cytology. 11. Mediterranean to Red Sea. 12. Buzzards Bay to Barnstable Bay. 13. Lake Erie to Hudson River. 14. Lake Ontario to Lake Erie. 15. Manchester to Liverpool.

SYNTHETIC DIAMONDS

By Archibald Henderson

The human race has always desired to find some short cut to wealth. Throughout the ages the passionate aspiration of the alchemist was to effect the transmutation of metals—to change lead, say, into gold. Another aspiration has been to make precious stones synthetically. This aspiration has preserved in modern times—not so much to gain great wealth, as to discover the chemical secret of the manufacture or synthetic production of precious metals or precious stones.

The name Moissan will always be identified with the synthetic production of diamonds. Moissan succeeded not only in reproducing the diamond artificially but also in obtaining many binary compounds of the metals and non-metals, previously unknown. These discoveries have proved of economic use, although the diamonds Moissan made are too small to have any commercial value. His discoveries regarding the mode of formation and properties of certain substances have proved of value to geologists in working out the history of the earth and its probable age.

Henri Moissan holds a place in chemistry second only to Berthelot, among the chemists of that day. He was born, on September 28, 1852, in Paris, where he spent virtually his entire life. He was of Southern origin, full of vivacity and energy. He received his instruction in chemistry chiefly at the Museum of Natural History. In addition, he attended the School of Pharmacy, with which he was connected for almost 20 years, first as assistant and afterwards as professor of toxicology.

Moissan was a pathbreaker in chemistry. He once said that his truest joy was "to plough a new furrow; to have full scope to follow my own inclinations; to see on all sides new subjects of study." One of his earliest papers, on compounds of chromium, was so complete as to be of permanent value.

One of his most valuable discoveries was the method of isolating flourine, which amounts to the discovery of elementary flourine. Not a few chemists considered this discovery a lucky accident. It is not only a mistake, but a great injustice to Moissan, the discovery of flourine was the culmination of a long series of researches lasting over a period of years.

This work on flourine naturally led to the electric furnace. A meteorite was found which contained small crystals of diamond embedded in the metallic iron. Moissan suspected that the carbon had originally been dissolved in the iron when it was in a molten state. In order to get sufficiently high temperatures for reproducing this process Moissan invented the electric furnace. A current of 1,500 to 125 amperes at 50 or 60 volts was employed in his earlier researches. The inventor succeeded thus in manufacturing tiny diamonds, synthetically. Shortly before his death in 1907 Moissan was awarded the Nobel Prize in chemistry.

Isn't It So?

An important letter may be delayed in the mail for days, but no envelope containing a bill will.

Text for Today Jesus answered, Verily, verily, I say unto thee, Except a man be born of water and of the Spirit, he cannot enter into the kingdom of God.—John, iii:5.
